House Approves "Local Option" Rent Control Bill

Legislation Is Adopted Over Demo Protests

Measure Continues Curbs For One Year

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A "local option" bill transferring to local boards full authority to raise rents or to remove controls was approved by the House tonight. The vote was announced as 251 to 132.

The measure continues rent controls for one year to April 1 1949, wherever the 655 local boards—nominated by the various state governors—want them.

Action came amid Democratic cries that such delegation of power to local boards is unconstitutional, that it is "an abdication of responsibility" by Congress, and that many local rent boards are "stacked" in favor of landlords. Some called the bill "fraud."

Republicans argued that home town people know best how to take care of local problems.

Voting for the bill were 162 Republicans and 89 Democrats. Opposing were 57 Republicans, 73 Democrats and the two American Labor Party members.

Goes To Conference Committee

The rent legislation now goes to a House-Senate conference committee, to iron out differences. In passing a rent bill last month the Senate flatly rejected the "local option" provision.

The Senate bill would extend rent controls to May 1, 1949; the House makes the duration one month shorter, to April 1, 1949. About 13,000,000 units housing some 50,000,000 persons are now under control.

The big house battle centered on an amendment by Rep. Monroney (D-Okla), to strike out the "local option" provision.

He sought unsuccessfully to return to the language of the Senate measure which retains authority for the federal administrator to decide whether the local boards make good cases for rent hikes or decontrol in their jurisdiction. The House turned him down 135 to 83.

Monroney compared the "local option" setup to the NRA which was overthrown by the Supreme Court as an improper delegation of powers. He predicted that rents will shoot up by 50 per cent in some areas if it becomes law.

Rep. Rayburn, of Texas, the Democratic leader, shouted that "this is the most reckless abdication of legislative authority I have ever seen."

He said there is no appeal from the decision of the local boards.

Douglas' Proposal Rejected

Rep. A. L. Miller (R-Neb) said "the best government is the government closest to the people."

Rep. Buchanan (D-Pa) said 335 of the 655 local rent boards "now are loaded against the tenants."

Rep. Marcantonio (AL - NY) shouted that under the local option provision "the Real Estate Board of New York City will become absolute over the rents of New York City."

House passage came after that body defeated 117 to 29 a proposal to extend rent controls to June 30, 1950, and to roll back many in-

West Germany Voted Into Plan

PARIS, March 16. (AP)—The foreign ministers of Western Europe bowed reluctantly today to division of Germany and voted to bring the three western occupation zones into their plan for continental organization.

At the close of a two-day meeting the delegates from 16 Marshall Plan nations set up a working committee to draft a treaty for mutual economic aid to make themselves strong against Communism and a charter for a permanent European organization to carry out the pact.

The United States will contribute to the organization through billions of dollars in aid under the Marshall Plan. Left outside are the Soviet Union, the Soviet-occupied zone of Germany and the Communist-led satellite states, avowed foes of the European recovery program.

The conference instructed the working committee to take in delegates from the Allied Military Governments of the French zone and the economically-merged British-American zones. The step increased the working committee to 18 delegations, and amounted to bringing Western Germany, back into the family of nations so far as European economy is concerned.

The committee will start its work tomorrow. British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin urged it to "do a thorough job and do it quickly." He added: "The fate of Europe and the world will be decided by the intensity of our work during the next few months."

The conference heard a plea from Portuguese Foreign Minister Jose Caeiro De Mata for inclusion of Spain in the work of continental reconstruction "in due time," but took no action.

Fact-Finders Named In Meat Strike; 327,000 Miners Idle

Operators Say Lewis Provoked Walkouts

PITTSBURGH, March 16 (AP)—The ranks of the nation's mine idle swelled to 327,000 tonight as more and more soft coal diggers joined John L. Lewis' pension parade.

Daily coal production loss was conservatively estimated at 1,500,000 tons. Less than 75,000 miners were still on the job.

The United States Bureau of Mines said soft coal stocks February 1 were enough for only 29 days. The March 1 figure, it added, likely will be lower. The bureau regards anything less than 30 days as dangerous.

In Washington, Ezra Van Horn, chief operators' spokesman, declared United Mine Workers Chieftain Lewis "deliberately" provoked the walkout to get his members $100 monthly pensions.

Truman Studies Walkout

Van Horn said it was Lewis' fault no payments had been made from the miners' $30,000,000 welfare fund. He asked Lewis to join him in seeking Federal Court appointment of a neutral trustee for the fund and interpretation of the Taft-Hartley law. If Lewis does not accept by Friday, Van Horn said he will go to the court alone.

Van Horn is the operator-trustee of the fund; Lewis speaks for the miners. A former neutral member, Thomas E. Murray, quit last January because he said both Lewis and Van Horn were stubborn on disputed issues.

President Truman studied the big walkout. He gave no hint of any move to get the miners back. In 1946 he obtained a court order to halt a mine strike.

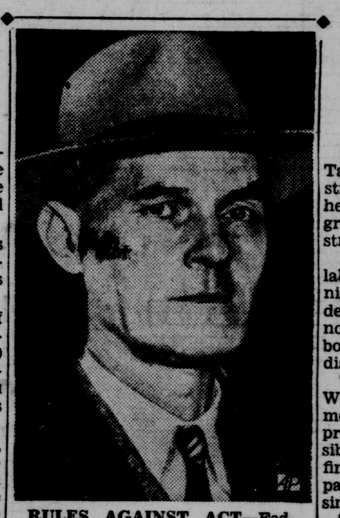
First reported effect of the coal shutdown on related industries came from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway which said it may have to shut down its huge Huntington, W. Va. shops by Saturday if the stoppage continues.

Steel Firms Affected

A railroad official said yards at Russell, Ky., also would be affected Some 2,000 workers are employed at the two installations.

As mine after mine closed in the rich Southwestern Pennsylvania field, coal supplies to Pittsburgh district steel mills came to a dead stop. The United States Steel Corporation was losing its entire Pennsylvania production of 60,000 tons a day. Other affected steel firms included Jones and Laughlin, Republic, Bethlehem, Weirton Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

A half-dozen states reported that all, or virtually all, miners were not working. They were Colorado, Indiana, Utah, Kentucky, Alabama, and Ohio.



RULES AGAINST ACT—Federal Judge Ben Moore leaves the District Court building in Washington, D. C., after holding unconstitutional the Taft-Hartley Act's ban on union political spending. He dismissed an indictment accusing the CIO and CIO President Philip Murray of violating the ban.

Packing House Tieup Sends Prices Upward

CHICAGO, March 16 (AP) — The Taft-Hartley Act, aimed at ending strikes that imperil the national health and safety, came formally to grips with the nationwide meat strike today.

President Truman set the new labor act's machinery in motion last night. He made a futile request for delay of the strike, and today announced members of a three-man board he set up to investigate the dispute.

The CIO United Packing House Workers of America, whose 100,000 members left their jobs today, promised the President "every possible co-operation" with the fact-finding board. One of the meat packing companies publicly promised similar co-operation.

The strike chopped the nation's meat output in half. It sent prices upwards in the wholesale markets.

Farmers cut sharply their shipment of meat animals to market because of a shortage of packing-house slaughtering facilities.

The board, named under a provision of the Taft-Hartley Act, is composed of these members:

Board Members Announced

Nathan P. Feinsinger, professor of law at the University of Wisconsin; Pearce Davis, chairman of the Department of Business and Economics at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and Walter V. Schaefer, professor of law at Northwestern University Law School.

The CIO workers left their jobs in 140 meat packing plants across the country at 12:01 a. m. today. The present supply of meat in warehouses is sufficient to meet the nation's average need for three weeks.

Some 150,000 other packing plant workers—members of the AFL or independent unions—stayed on the job.

The CIO United Packing House Workers Union called its men out after turning down a request of President Truman that the strike be delayed until April 1. He set up a fact-finding board to investigate the wage dispute and report to him by that date.

A strike delay, the CIO maintained, would act to "the sole benefit of the packing companies." However, the union urged that the President determine whether the packers were willing to pay an immediate ninecent hourly wage boost pending any period of strike delay.

Injunction May Be Sought

The new labor law does not require that the strike be called off at this time. However, after the fact-finding board reports, the President can ask the Attorney General to seek an injunction to end the strike.

Any injunction would have the effect of continuing work for at least 80 days. The act requires that the board then make a restudy of the dispute and report again. Then the National Labor Relations Board would take a secret ballot among strikers on how they felt about the employer's last settlement offer.

In the next five days, the board would certiby the results to the Attorney General, who would ask for release of the injunction. President Truman, after that, could refer the dispute to Congress if it were still unsettled.

29 Ships Turned Over To Italians By United States

Represent Vessels Seized During War

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — The United States handed 29 merchant ships to Italy today only 33 days ahead of an Italian election showdown with the Communists.

The timing was called a "happy coincidence" by a State Department official. He said negotiations were just completed.

They represent vessels seized from Italy by the United States in the war. Italy signed away her rights to them in a peace treaty. But President Truman said these ships helped a lot to win the war anyway, and their return is in line with our policy of helping friendly European democracies to get on their feet without delay.

The President acted under a 1947 law permitting the vessels to be replaced. Fourteen are Italian. The other 15 are coal-burning surplus Liberties handed over to make up for seized Italian ships which were lost or ruined.

Other Anti-Red Moves Taken

Two other anti-Communist moves in the direction of Italy have been taken by the administration:

1. The State Department served notice yesterday that Italy won't get more help from us if she goes Communist in the election next month.

2. The Justice Department announced that Italians who turn Communist forfeit any hope of migrating to the United States.

Mr. Truman said in a statement on the ships:

"In making this transfer, I am happy to express again the feeling of friendship and admiration of the American people for the Italian people who x x x have made such courageous strides forward in the democratic faith x x x."

His order banned sale of the Liberties to non-Italians, unless the United States approves.

Lodge Urges Further Aid Steps

It called on United States officials to get the transfer made "with all possible promptness in a manner which will effectuate the foreign policy x x x to assist friendly and democratic European nations to rebuild their economies without delay."

PRESIDENT, DEWEY WILL WATCH SONS, DAUGHTERS OF ERIN MARCH TODAY

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—The titular leaders of the Democratic and Republican Parties will be in the reviewing stand here tomorrow for the 118th annual St. Patrick's Day jamboree of the sons and daughters of Erin.

President Truman, held in Washington by his special message to a joint session of Congress, will arrive a bit late for the traditional parade along Fifth Avenue, but expects to see a good part of it.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, the 1944 GOP presidential choice and a leading contender for the nomination this year, will be another of the top reviewing officers.

Mr. Truman will be the first President ever to view one of New York's St. Patrick's Day parades.

Tornado Levels Homes

FLORENCE, Ala., March 16 (AP)—A tornado which struck in the early morning hours left about 200 persons homeless and injured three today. No one was killed.

Sermon Prompts Woman To Drown Babies In Lake

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16 (AP)—A 28-year-old woman said today a sermon on "the wages of sin are death" prompted her to hurl her two babies to death in a lake and then try to drown herself.

Magistrate John T. Disher, acting as coroner, reported that two women fishing nearby kept Mrs. Ann Hallings from going to death with her children in the lake.

The women are Mrs. P. H. Deese and Mrs. R. W. Meadows. They said they found the young mother floundering in the water, coaxed her near the shore and pulled her out.

They quoted her as saying:

"I gave my babies to God for the sins of my people. Now I want to die."

Later Mrs. Hallings told her pastor, Dr. Earl B. Edington, and newsmen that a recent sermon on sin motivated her.

Mrs. Hallings was placed under guard at a hospital where she was examined by three physicians. State's Attorey Chester B. McMullen said murder charges would be filed against her.

A fire department rescue squad found the body of four-month old Alexis Mari-Ann shortly after the child's mother snatched her from a baby carriage and threw her into the lake. The body of Ralph, 20 months old, was recovered four hours later.

Lewis Hallings, father of the children, collapsed at his home when he learned of the tragedy. He said he saw his wife leave early today with the children and thought she was going to the grocery store.

The two babies were the only children of the Hallings.

Committee Ends Md. Election Study

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The special United States Senate committee investigating Maryland's 1946 senatorial election today announced it has completed its study and will determine next week whether a further hearing is necessary.

The election of Herbert R. O'Conor, a Democrat who was Governor of Maryland from 1939 through 1946, is being contested by D. John Markey, of Walkersville, his Republican opponent in the senatorial race.

The official canvass gave O'Conor the election by 2,232 votes and he was seated by the Senate pending outcome of the contest filed by Markey.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of a special Senate sub-committee on elections and privileges, said after an executive session today the finding of the 15-month investigation had been turned over to committee counsel.

He was directed to reduce them to a report and submit it to the committee by a week from today.

The investigation included a recount which reduced O'Conor's lead to 1,624 votes. Some 30,000 ballots were challenged.

Jenner said the committee will decide next Tuesday whether to hear further arguments of the contestants.

These would relate to voting irregularities which Markey alleged, in addition to his contention the votes were miscounted.

Umberto In Spain

MADRID, March 16 (AP)—Former King Umberto II, of Italy, arrived today by auto from Portugal. His plans were not disclosed.

Leaders Of U. S. Armed Services Reach "Accord"

Disagreements Are Settled At Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Defense Secretary Forrestal said today there is peace in the high command of America's war machine.

He said the weekend conference at Key West, Fla., of Army, Navy and Air Force commanders ended in "general accord" on the duties and responsibilities of the three arms of service.

Just what disagreements were settled, however, will not be made public unless President Truman approves.

Whether Mr. Truman will mention the new "accord" in his speech to Congress tomorrow was not disclosed. However, the White House said Forrestal held an unscheduled meeting with Mr. Truman late yesterday shortly after returning to Washington.

Services Unified Last Year

Disagreements among commanders of the three services have existed since they were merged in a unified defense system last year. Forrestal was sworn in as the nation's first defense secretary September 17, 1947, outranking both the Secretary of Army and Secretary of Navy.

The United States was the last of the Big Three powers to put its armed services under unified control. Russia announced the merger of her forces in February of 1946, and Great Britain in October, 1946.

Forrestal's announcement today said "the points discussed were subjects in an area of disagreement between the armed services upon which the joint chiefs of staff had not been able to reach a determination."

Issued Advance Warning

(He had said before the meeting that if the commanders could not agree, he would have to step in himself.)

"General accord was reached in all these areas, and a number of basic decisions affecting the assigned functions, duties and responsibilities of the three services were reached during the meetings," the Forrestal statement added.

He said the decisions affect the long-term development of procurement programs. Forrestal's aides said this means aircraft, weapons, and other equipment, but not allocating manpower among the three forces.

Italy, In Effect, Rejects USSR Reparations Demand

ROME, March 16 (AP)—A Foreign Office statement accused Russia tonight of seeking to divert part of Italy's industry "to the sole advantage of the Soviet Union."

The statement in effect rejected current Russian demands that payment of $100,000,000 in war reparations to Russia be arranged in advance.

Russia has insisted that the question of reparations, payment of which is scheduled to begin September 15, 1949, be tied to negotiations for a commercial treaty between the two countries.

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16 (AP)—Dr. Jason Noble Pierce, 67, noted Congregational pastor, died today.

His ministry of more than 40 years included the church in Washington at which President Coolidge worshipped.

French Action Scuttles Agreement On Palestine

Withdraws Approval Of "Threat" Decision

LAKE SUCCESS, March 16—(AP)—A tentative big power agreement on Palestine collapsed tonight when France withdrew approval of a resolution which declared there is now a threat to world peace in the Holy Land.

At a morning meeting the United States, Russia and France agreed in principle that a threat to peace existed through continued infiltration of hostile elements across Palestine borders.

China reserved her assent on the grounds that such a decision was premature and should not specifically blame the Arabs and exonerate the Jews. Britain has boycotted the big power parleys.

Gromyko Misses Second Meeting

After another closed meeting tonight attended by the United States, France and China, a United Nations press officer told newsmen that agreement was not now nearly so evident. He said one of the conferees, which was later identified from other sources as France, had expressed the new opinion that it would be better not to proceed now to call the situation a threat to international peace.

Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko did not attend the second meeting because of what the United Nations described as a "misunderstanding" over the time of the session.

The United Nations press officer said the situation was that delegates had left open the question whether there was any agreement. He said the big powers now might take a whole new approach to the threat-to-peace problem.

The press officer said further that the resolution he described as nearly agreed upon at the first session no longer was under direct discussion.

No Course-Of-Action Accord

After the three-power meeting, another session to include Gromyko was set for tomorrow afternoon following the security Council meeting on the Czechoslovakian case.

The four powers reported to the United Nations Security Council that they had not agreed yet upon a course of action for the council in the Palestine problem.

The 11 council delegates then adjourned their Palestine partition debate until 10:30 a. m. (EST) Fri-

Unique Ad Pays Off For Dealer In Used Autos

PUEBLO, Colo., March 16—(AP)—A used car dealer here advertised one of his cars in this fashion:

"Here is a dream.

"The motor is very quiet. It is practically noiseless.

"As a matter of fact, the damn thing won't run.

"So if you're a sucker, or a good mechanic, you can have it for $600."

Dick Pingatore, the dealer, sold the car.

Colombia Plane Crash Kills 14

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 16 (AP)—Fourteen persons — including four Americans—perished yesterday when a transport plane crashed into a mountain.

The plane hit near the village of Choconta while on a flight from El Secreto to Bogota. Smoke from a farmer's chaff fire which obscured the mountain peak was blamed for the accident.

The Americans were reported to have been a Protestant minister, his wife and two children. Names of the passengers were not announced.

The mayor of Choconta said the plane was smashed to fragments and the bodies of the 10 passengers and four crewmen were broken beyond identification.

Atom Plant's Continuous Operation Termed Vital

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A special fact-finding board appointed to look into labor difficulties at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic energy laboratory told President Truman today that continuous operation is "essential to the national safety."

And that fact, the board declared, "limits the freedom of the union to use the strike in support of its bargaining position as it might in ordinary collective bargaining."

Truman Doctrine Is Seen Replacing Marshall Plan

PARIS, March 16 (AP)—The Truman Doctrine has taken over the Marshall Plan, in the opinion of observers here.

The United States State Department statement that American financial aid to Italy under the Marshall Plain will end if the Communist Party wins the April 18 elections is seen as pointing to a significant change since the Communists captured Czechoslovakia.

A highly-placed American source in Paris told the Associated Press today that Italy was not the only country that would be cut off from American help if it went Communistic.

Previously the Marshall Plan was advanced as a means of helping European countries who are in need to recover from the war. Russia and Eastern European countries in her orbit were invited to share in it.

The Truman Doctrine was announced as a plan to beat back Communism in Greece and Turkey with economic and military aid.

The Truman Doctrine stemmed from a speech the President made to Congress just over a year ago, on March 12, 1947, in which he urged aid for Greece and Turkey to combat totalitarianism.

The Marshall Plan blossomed from a speech Secretary of State George C. Marshall made at Harvard University on June 5, 1947. He said the aid from America was open to Russia.

Russia and the Soviet-dominated states of Eastern Europe boycotted the Paris conference on the Marshall Plan, however, and Communist leaders have declared they will do all possible to wreck the plan.

Russia and her satellites were not invited to attend the second Marshall Plan conference here this week.

Nation's Chief Meets With His Top Advisers

Martin Asserts Reds Cause "Grave Crisis"

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — President Truman conferred with his top advisers—military, diplomatic and economic—tonight as he completed his tensely-awaited state of the world message.

But he called off a meeting he had scheduled with four congressional leaders for 11 a. m. (EST) tomorrow—an hour and a half before he is to address Congress and the nation.

One of the Congress leaders, House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.), said in a statement that "the constant advance of the iron curtain across Europe has created a grave crisis in our international relations."

The makeup of the group which met with Mr. Truman gave a fresh indication that his message will concern both Russia and American military affairs.

Besides Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Secretary of Commerce Harriman, it included the State Department's chief Russian expert, Counselor Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, another of those present, declined to say whether Forrestal's presence indicated the President would put heavy emphasis on defense matters.

Speech To Be Broadcast

The speech, expected to run 15 or 20 minutes, will be delivered to a joint session of Congress and broadcast by major networks at 12:30 p. m., EST, tomorrow.

Cancellation of tomorrow morning's meeting with the Senate and House leaders apparently meant that legislative leaders will have little if any advance knowledge of what the President will say.

The White House explained that two of those invited, Sens. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Barkley (D-Ky.), would be attending an important meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at about that time.

Vandenberg's office said a short time earlier that he had turned down the White House invitation because of the Foreign Relations Committee meeting, which is to continue hearings on Greek-Turkish aid.

The Michigan Senator, who is chairman of the committee, declined to elaborate. He told a reporter previously that he had not been consulted about the President's world affairs speech.

Those who had been called to the White House, presumably to get a preview of the President's talk, were Vandenberg, Barkley, Martin and House Democratic Leader Rayburn, of Texas.

Martin's statement spotlighted the April 18 Italian elections as the coming test between Communism and western democracy.

The House Speaker declared that 'the fate of civilization is at stake." And he declared this country must become "absolutely supreme" on land, on the sea and in the air.

Congress Ready For Anything

"There is no reason," Martin said, for the American people to be other than perfectly calm."

Despite some indications that the President would confine himself to previewing international affairs, rather than making any sensational pronouncements, Congress held itself ready for anything that might come.

The Senate postponed until Thursday the beginning of debate on a $4,700,000,000 income tax cutting measure. Barkley said the Truman message "might present a situation that would make it utterly futile to attempt to reduce taxes."

"Artificial Crisis," Wallace Declares

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace tonight accused President Truman and his Cabinet of acting "as though a war crisis were imminent" and urged congressmen to "quell the war hysteria."

Referring to the President's call for an emergency session of Congress, the third-party presidential candidate asserted in telegrams to congressional committees:

"Twice before the President has convened the Congress in an atmosphere of artificially-created crisis to cover up failures of his own policies. In May, 1946, the President made an inflammatory attack on the railroad workers and called for repressive legislation which the Congress wisely rejected.

"Again in March, 1947, the President created another crisis to get military aid for Greece and Turkey. He embarked us on a course which has now proved bankrupt."

Wallace asserted that "there is no evidence that any nation has threatened acts of aggression against us or threatened our national security. Yet the President and members of his Cabinet act as though a war crisis were imminent."

His telegrams were addressed to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Armed Services Committees of both houses.

House Approves "Local Option" Rent Control Bill

Van Horn is the operator-trustee of the fund; Lewis speaks for the miners. A former neutral member, Thomas E. Murray, quit last January because he said both Lewis and Van Horn were stubborn on disputed issues.

President Truman studied the big walkout. He gave no hint of any move to get the miners back. In 1946 he obtained a court order to halt a mine strike.

First reported effect of the coal shutdown on related industries came from the Chesapeake and Ohio Railway which said it may have to shut down its huge Huntington, W. Va. shops by Saturday if the stoppage continues.

Steel Firms Affected

A railroad official said yards at Russell, Ky., also would be affected. Some 2,000 workers are employed at the two installations.

As mine after mine closed in the rich Southwestern Pennsylvania field, coal supplies to Pittsburgh district steel mills came to a dead stop. The United States Steel Corporation was losing its entire Pennsylvania production of 60,000 tons a day. Other affected steel firms included Jones and Laughlin, Republic, Bethlehem, Weirton Steel and Youngstown Sheet and Tube.

A half-dozen states reported that all, or virtually all, miners were not working. They were Colorado, Indiana, Utah, Kentucky, Alabama, and Ohio.

RULES AGAINST ACT—Federal Judge Ben Moore leaves the District Court building in Washington, D. C., after holding unconstitutional the Taft-Hartley Act's ban on union political spending. He dismissed an indictment accusing the CIO and CIO President Philip Murray of violating the ban.

Packing House Tieup Sends Prices Upward

CHICAGO, March 16 (AP) — The Taft-Hartley Act, aimed at ending strikes that imperil the national health and safety, came formally to grips with the nationwide meat strike today.

President Truman set the new labor act's machinery in motion last night. He made a futile request for delay of the strike, and today announced members of a three-man board he set up to investigate the dispute.

The CIO United Packing House Workers of America, whose 100,000 members left their jobs today, promised the President "every possible co-operation" with the fact-finding board. One of the meat packing companies publicly promised similar co-operation.

The strike chopped the nation's meat output in half. It sent prices upwards in the wholesale markets.

Farmers cut sharply their shipment of meat animals to market because of a shortage of packing-house slaughtering facilities.

The board, named under a provision of the Taft-Hartley Act, is composed of these members:

Board Members Announced

Nathan P. Feinsinger, professor of law at the University of Wisconsin; Pearce Davis, chairman of the Department of Business and Economics at the Illinois Institute of Technology, and Walter V. Schaefer, professor of law at Northwestern University Law School.

The CIO workers left their jobs in 140 meat packing plants across the country at 12:01 a. m. today. The present supply of meat in warehouses is sufficient to meet the nation's average need for three weeks.

Some 150,000 other packing plant workers—members of the AFL or independent unions—stayed on the job.

The CIO United Packing House Workers Union called its men out after turning down a request of President Truman that the strike be delayed until April 1. He set up a fact-finding board to investigate the wage dispute and report to him by that date.

A strike delay, the CIO maintained, would act to "the sole benefit of the packing companies." However, the union urged that the President determine whether the packers were willing to pay an immediate ninecent hourly wage boost pending any period of strike delay.

Injunction May Be Sought

The new labor law does not require that the strike be called off at this time. However, after the fact-finding board reports, the President can ask the Attorney General to seek an injunction to end the strike.

Any injunction would have the effect of continuing work for at least 80 days. The act requires that the board then make a restudy of the dispute and report again. Then the National Labor Relations Board would take a secret ballot among strikers on how they felt about the employer's last settlement offer.

In the next five days, the board would certiby the results to the Attorney General, who would ask for release of the injunction. President Truman, after that, could refer the dispute to Congress if it were still unsettled.

29 Ships Turned Over To Italians By United States

Represent Vessels Seized During War

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — The United States handed 29 merchant ships to Italy today only 33 days ahead of an Italian election showdown with the Communists.

The timing was called a "happy coincidence" by a State Department official. He said negotiations were just completed.

They represent vessels seized from Italy by the United States in the war. Italy signed away her rights to them in a peace treaty. But President Truman said these ships helped a lot to win the war anyway, and their return is in line with our policy of helping friendly European democracies to get on their feet without delay.

The President acted under a 1947 law permitting the vessels to be replaced. Fourteen are Italian. The other 15 are coal-burning surplus Liberties handed over to make up for seized Italian ships which were lost or ruined.

Other Anti-Red Moves Taken

Two other anti-Communist moves in the direction of Italy have been taken by the administration:

1. The State Department served notice yesterday that Italy won't get more help from us if she goes Communist in the election next month.

2. The Justice Department announced that Italians who turn Communist forfeit any hope of migrating to the United States.

Mr. Truman said in a statement on the ships:

"In making this transfer, I am happy to express again the feeling of friendship and admiration of the American people for the Italian people who x x x have made such courageous strides forward in the democratic faith x x x."

His order banned sale of the Liberties to non-Italians, unless the United States approves.

Lodge Urges Further Aid Steps

It called on United States officials to get the transfer made "with all possible promptness in a manner which will effectuate the foreign policy x x x to assist friendly and democratic European nations to rebuild their economies without delay."

PRESIDENT, DEWEY WILL WATCH SONS, DAUGHTERS OF ERIN MARCH TODAY

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP)—The titular leaders of the Democratic and Republican Parties will be in the reviewing stand here tomorrow for the 118th annual St. Patrick's Day jamboree of the sons and daughters of Erin.

President Truman, held in Washington by his special message to a joint session of Congress, will arrive a bit late for the traditional parade along Fifth Avenue, but expects to see a good part of it.

Gov. Thomas E. Dewey, of New York, the 1944 GOP presidential choice and a leading contender for the nomination this year, will be another of the top reviewing officers.

Mr. Truman will be the first President ever to view one of New York's St. Patrick's Day parades.

Tornado Levels Homes

Sermon Prompts Woman To Drown Babies In Lake

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla., March 16 (AP)—A 28-year-old woman said today a sermon on "the wages of sin are death" prompted her to hurl her two babies to death in a lake and then try to drown herself.

Magistrate John T. Disher, acting as coroner, reported that two women fishing nearby kept Mrs. Ann Hallings from going to death with her children in the lake.

The women are Mrs. P. H. Deese and Mrs. R. W. Meadows. They said they found the young mother floundering in the water, coaxed her near the shore and pulled her out.

They quoted her as saying:

"I gave my babies to God for the sins of my people. Now I want to die."

Later Mrs. Hallings told her pastor, Dr. Earl B. Edington, and newsmen that a recent sermon on sin motivated her.

Mrs. Hallings was placed under guard at a hospital where she was examined by three physicians. State's Attorey Chester B. McMullen said murder charges would be filed against her.

A fire department rescue squad found the body of four-month old Alexis Mari-Ann shortly after the child's mother snatched her from a baby carriage and threw her into the lake. The body of Ralph, 20 months old, was recovered four hours later.

Lewis Hallings, father of the children, collapsed at his home when he learned of the tragedy. He said he saw his wife leave early today with the children and thought she was going to the grocery store.

The two babies were the only children of the Hallings.

Disagreements Are Settled At Meeting

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Defense Secretary Forrestal said today there is peace in the high command of America's war machine.

He said the weekend conference at Key West, Fla., of Army, Navy and Air Force commanders ended in "general accord" on the duties and responsibilities of the three arms of service.

Just what disagreements were settled, however, will not be made public unless President Truman approves.

Whether Mr. Truman will mention the new "accord" in his speech to Congress tomorrow was not disclosed. However, the White House said Forrestal held an unscheduled meeting with Mr. Truman late yesterday shortly after returning to Washington.

Services Unified Last Year

Disagreements among commanders of the three services have existed since they were merged in a unified defense system last year. Forrestal was sworn in as the nation's first defense secretary September 17, 1947, outranking both the Secretary of Army and Secretary of Navy.

The United States was the last of the Big Three powers to put its armed services under unified control. Russia announced the merger of her forces in February of 1946, and Great Britain in October, 1946.

Forrestal's announcement today said "the points discussed were subjects in an area of disagreement between the armed services upon which the joint chiefs of staff had not been able to reach a determination."

Issued Advance Warning

(He had said before the meeting that if the commanders could not agree, he would have to step in himself.)

"General accord was reached in all these areas, and a number of basic decisions affecting the assigned functions, duties and responsibilities of the three services were reached during the meetings," the Forrestal statement added.

He said the decisions affect the long-term development of procurement programs. Forrestal's aides said this means aircraft, weapons, and other equipment, but not allocating manpower among the three forces.

Committee Ends Md. Election Study

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—The special United States Senate committee investigating Maryland's 1946 senatorial election today announced it has completed its study and will determine next week whether a further hearing is necessary.

The election of Herbert R. O'Conor, a Democrat who was Governor of Maryland from 1939 through 1946, is being contested by D. John Markey, of Walkersville, his Republican opponent in the senatorial race.

The official canvass gave O'Conor the election by 2,232 votes and he was seated by the Senate pending outcome of the contest filed by Markey.

Sen. Jenner (R-Ind), chairman of a special Senate sub-committee on elections and privileges, said after an executive session today the finding of the 15-month investigation had been turned over to committee counsel.

He was directed to reduce them to a report and submit it to the committee by a week from today.

The investigation included a recount which reduced O'Conor's lead to 1,624 votes. Some 30,000 ballots were challenged.

Jenner said the committee will decide next Tuesday whether to hear further arguments of the contestants.

These would relate to voting irregularities which Markey alleged, in addition to his contention the votes were miscounted.

MADRID, March 16 (AP)—Former King Umberto II, of Italy, arrived today by auto from Portugal. His plans were not disclosed.

Italy, In Effect, Rejects USSR Reparations Demand

ROME, March 16 (AP)—A Foreign Office statement accused Russia tonight of seeking to divert part of Italy's industry "to the sole advantage of the Soviet Union."

The statement in effect rejected current Russian demands that payment of $100,000,000 in war reparations to Russia be arranged in advance.

Russia has insisted that the question of reparations, payment of which is scheduled to begin September 15, 1949, be tied to negotiations for a commercial treaty between the two countries.

His ministry of more than 40 years included the church in Washington at which President Coolidge worshipped.

French Action Scuttles Agreement On Palestine

Withdraws Approval Of "Threat" Decision

LAKE SUCCESS, March 16—(AP)—A tentative big power agreement on Palestine collapsed tonight when France withdrew approval of a resolution which declared there is now a threat to world peace in the Holy Land.

At a morning meeting the United States, Russia and France agreed in principle that a threat to peace existed through continued infiltration of hostile elements across Palestine borders.

China reserved her assent on the grounds that such a decision was premature and should not specifically blame the Arabs and exonerate the Jews. Britain has boycotted the big power parleys.

Gromyko Misses Second Meeting

After another closed meeting tonight attended by the United States, France and China, a United Nations press officer told newsmen that agreement was not now nearly so evident. He said one of the conferees, which was later identified from other sources as France, had expressed the new opinion that it would be better not to proceed now to call the situation a threat to international peace.

Russia's Andrei A. Gromyko did not attend the second meeting because of what the United Nations described as a "misunderstanding" over the time of the session.

The United Nations press officer said the situation was that delegates had left open the question whether there was any agreement. He said the big powers now might take a whole new approach to the threat-to-peace problem.

The press officer said further that the resolution he described as nearly agreed upon at the first session no longer was under direct discussion.

No Course-Of-Action Accord

After the three-power meeting, another session to include Gromyko was set for tomorrow afternoon following the security Council meeting on the Czechoslovakian case.

The four powers reported to the United Nations Security Council that they had not agreed yet upon a course of action for the council in the Palestine problem.

The 11 council delegates then adjourned their Palestine partition debate until 10:30 a. m. (EST) Fri-

Unique Ad Pays Off For Dealer In Used Autos

PUEBLO, Colo., March 16—(AP)—A used car dealer here advertised one of his cars in this fashion:

"Here is a dream.

"A 1937 Olds second, freshly painted a Mexican blue, with red wheels.

"The motor is very quiet. It is practically noiseless.

"As a matter of fact, the damn thing won't run.

"So if you're a sucker, or a good mechanic, you can have it for $600."

Dick Pingatore, the dealer, sold the car.

Colombia Plane Crash Kills 14

BOGOTA, Colombia, March 16 (AP)—Fourteen persons — including four Americans—perished yesterday when a transport plane crashed into a mountain.

The plane hit near the village of Choconta while on a flight from El Secreto to Bogota. Smoke from a farmer's chaff fire which obscured the mountain peak was blamed for the accident.

The Americans were reported to have been a Protestant minister, his wife and two children. Names of the passengers were not announced.

The mayor of Choconta said the plane was smashed to fragments and the bodies of the 10 passengers and four crewmen were broken beyond identification.

Atom Plant's Continuous Operation Termed Vital

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A special fact-finding board appointed to look into labor difficulties at the Oak Ridge, Tenn., atomic energy laboratory told President Truman today that continuous operation is "essential to the national safety."

And that fact, the board declared, "limits the freedom of the union to use the strike in support of its bargaining position as it might in ordinary collective bargaining."

Truman Doctrine Is Seen Replacing Marshall Plan

PARIS, March 16 (AP)—The Truman Doctrine has taken over the Marshall Plan, in the opinion of observers here.

The United States State Department statement that American financial aid to Italy under the Marshall Plain will end if the Communist Party wins the April 18 elections is seen as pointing to a significant change since the Communists captured Czechoslovakia.

A highly-placed American source in Paris told the Associated Press today that Italy was not the only country that would be cut off from American help if it went Communistic.

Previously the Marshall Plan was advanced as a means of helping European countries who are in need to recover from the war. Russia and Eastern European countries in her orbit were invited to share in it.

The Truman Doctrine was announced as a plan to beat back Communism in Greece and Turkey with economic and military aid.

The Truman Doctrine stemmed from a speech the President made to Congress just over a year ago, on March 12, 1947, in which he urged aid for Greece and Turkey to combat totalitarianism.

The Marshall Plan blossomed from a speech Secretary of State George C. Marshall made at Harvard University on June 5, 1947. He said the aid from America was open to Russia.

Russia and the Soviet-dominated states of Eastern Europe boycotted the Paris conference on the Marshall Plan, however, and Communist leaders have declared they will do all possible to wreck the plan.

Russia and her satellites were not invited to attend the second Marshall Plan conference here this week.

Nation's Chief Meets With His Top Advisers

Martin Asserts Reds Cause "Grave Crisis"

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — President Truman conferred with his top advisers—military, diplomatic and economic—tonight as he completed his tensely-awaited state of the world message.

But he called off a meeting he had scheduled with four congressional leaders for 11 a. m. (EST) tomorrow—an hour and a half before he is to address Congress and the nation.

One of the Congress leaders, House Speaker Martin (R-Mass.), said in a statement that "the constant advance of the iron curtain across Europe has created a grave crisis in our international relations."

The makeup of the group which met with Mr. Truman gave a fresh indication that his message will concern both Russia and American military affairs.

Besides Secretary of State Marshall, Secretary of Defense Forrestal and Secretary of Commerce Harriman, it included the State Department's chief Russian expert, Counselor Charles E. (Chip) Bohlen.

Presidential Press Secretary Charles G. Ross, another of those present, declined to say whether Forrestal's presence indicated the President would put heavy emphasis on defense matters.

Speech To Be Broadcast

The speech, expected to run 15 or 20 minutes, will be delivered to a joint session of Congress and broadcast by major networks at 12:30 p. m., EST, tomorrow.

Cancellation of tomorrow morning's meeting with the Senate and House leaders apparently meant that legislative leaders will have little if any advance knowledge of what the President will say.

The White House explained that two of those invited, Sens. Vandenberg (R-Mich.) and Barkley (D-Ky.), would be attending an important meeting of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee at about that time.

Vandenberg's office said a short time earlier that he had turned down the White House invitation because of the Foreign Relations Committee meeting, which is to continue hearings on Greek-Turkish aid.

The Michigan Senator, who is chairman of the committee, declined to elaborate. He told a reporter previously that he had not been consulted about the President's world affairs speech.

Those who had been called to the White House, presumably to get a preview of the President's talk, were Vandenberg, Barkley, Martin and House Democratic Leader Rayburn, of Texas.

Martin's statement spotlighted the April 18 Italian elections as the coming test between Communism and western democracy.

The House Speaker declared that 'the fate of civilization is at stake." And he declared this country must become "absolutely supreme" on land, on the sea and in the air.

Congress Ready For Anything

"There is no reason," Martin said, for the American people to be other than perfectly calm."

Despite some indications that the President would confine himself to previewing international affairs, rather than making any sensational pronouncements, Congress held itself ready for anything that might come.

The Senate postponed until Thursday the beginning of debate on a $4,700,000,000 income tax cutting measure. Barkley said the Truman message "might present a situation that would make it utterly futile to attempt to reduce taxes."

"Artificial Crisis," Wallace Declares

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — Henry A. Wallace tonight accused President Truman and his Cabinet of acting "as though a war crisis were imminent" and urged congressmen to "quell the war hysteria."

Referring to the President's call for an emergency session of Congress, the third-party presidential candidate asserted in telegrams to congressional committees:

"Twice before the President has convened the Congress in an atmosphere of artificially-created crisis to cover up failures of his own policies. In May, 1946, the President made an inflammatory attack on the railroad workers and called for repressive legislation which the Congress wisely rejected.

"Again in March, 1947, the President created another crisis to get military aid for Greece and Turkey. He embarked us on a course which has now proved bankrupt."

Wallace asserted that "there is no evidence that any nation has threatened acts of aggression against us or threatened our national security. Yet the President and members of his Cabinet act as though a war crisis were imminent."

His telegrams were addressed to the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, the House Foreign Affairs Committee and the Armed Services Committees of both houses.

Butter Wins 16-10 Victory Over Oleo

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Butter won a 16 to 10 decision over oleomargarine today in the House Agriculture Committee.

By that vote, the House group decided to pigeonhole 18 bills which had been drawn to repeal federal taxes on margarine and license fees imposed on those who sell it.

"That kills the legislation for this session of Congress," Chairman Hope (R-Kas) told reporters after the closed session. He voted with 14 other Republicans and Rep. Granger, Utah Democrat, to shelve the repealers.

But Rep. Poage (D-Tex), an opponent of the margarine tax, declared:

"The fight will go on. We are not licked yet."

He and nine other Democrats were lined up on the losing side.

Poage called the decision to pigeonhole the repeal bills "political cowardice," and said the next move is up to the Senate.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) has advocated tacking on margarine tax repeal as a rider to the income tax cut bill. He discussed strategy with several other southern senators today.

Repeated efforts have been made in the past to repeal the tax on oleo, first imposed in 1889. Opponents contended the tax is discriminatory and gives butter an unfair competitive margin over margarine. Supporters of the tax said it is necessary to protect not only the dairy interests, but the public.

Legislation Is

creased rents to their wartime-OPA levels.

This proposal, in the form of a substitute for the Republican bill, was offered by Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-Calif).

It would have nullified rent hikes under "voluntary" leases agreed upon by tenants and landlords under the 1947 rent act.

Bull Voted For Bill

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Here is how Maryland and West Virginia congressmen voted today on the rent control bill:

Republicans for: Beall, Miller, Md.; Love, Snyder, Ellis, Rohrbough, W. Va.

day to give the four powers more time for consultations.

Informed sources speculated that if the council did approve the tentative agreement and finally decided that a threat to the peace existed, the United Nations then could use military force to restore order in the Holy Land.

FAMILY WHICH INVADED NEW YORK HOTEL ROOM HOLD BATTLE LINE FIRM

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—The four Coxes who invaded the Waldorf Astoria Hotel held their battle line firm tonight as apartment offers poured in by mail and telephone.

Richard E. Cox, Navy veteran who heads the family of four, said he hadn't decided to take any of the proffered apartments. But one, four rooms in Brooklyn for $58 a month, didn't sound too bad, he said.

Cox moved himself and his two baby sons into the hotel Saturday and took over a $12.60-a-day room. Mrs. Cox, who had been away from home when he thought up the plan, joined them later that night.

Then he announced that he would pay $40 a month rent, and the bill for the rest would go to Mayor William O'Dwyer.

He had got fed up, he said, with trying to persuade the city to find him a home in a veteran's housing project, and he was tired of their previous home in a bathless, cold-water Brooklyn flat.

Five European Nations Will Sign Treaty Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 16 (AP)—A treaty linking Britain, France and the three small "Benelux" countries will be signed here tomorrow by the foreign ministers of the five nations.

The ceremony will be held in the Brussels Palace of Academies, decorated with nineteenth century panels symbolizing arts and sciences through the ages. The signing will take place about 5 p. m. (11 a. m. EST).

Nation's Chief

And in the House, Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) said he hopes Mr. Truman will tell Congress that "one more act of aggression by Russia means war."

Congressional leaders hope the Chief Executive will answer two grave questions of the hour:

Just what phase of the conflict between Russia and the West has led Mr. Truman to say that his confidence in world peace is somewhat shaken, and Secretary of State Marshall to declare that a "world crisis" exists

Just what does Mr. Truman want the United States to do about it?

They look for a statement on United States policy toward Italy, the current no man's land between Communism and western democracy, in particular.

Deadline Passes

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 16 (AP)—The 7 p. m. (EST) deadline set by Clinton D. McKinnon on his offer to purchase the New York newspaper PM passed tonight without any further word from him.

Bill Changing Vote System Advances

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A Southern Democrat's proposal to elect Presidents by popular vote got a powerful thrust forward today when the House Judiciary Committee approved it.

It is a constitutional amendment. This requires a two-thirds vote in House and Senate, and ratification by 36 Legislatures. Its adoption before the 1948 election is virtually impossible.

The author, Rep. Gossett D-Tex), aims to whittle down influence of minorities in pivotal states.

Gossett pushed the measure amid southern charges that President Truman had an eye on the negro vote in several populous northern states when he took his explosive civil rights stand.

Gossett's amendment would keep the electoral college, but each state's electoral vote for President and Vice President would be divided up in proportion to the popular vote in the state.

The way it is now, all of a state's electoral votes go to the candidate receiving the most popular votes. Occasionally a President gets in without even a majority of the nationwide popular vote.

Lane Withdraws Request For Clerk's Resignation

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 16 (AP)—Gov. Lane withdrew tonight his request for the resignation of John E. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

The Governor's action was made known in an exchange of letters with Clark.

Clark was the chief figure in a controversy in the commission which had virtually halted official work of the body.

In a letter dated March 13, Clark asked that he be permitted to withdraw a previous communication in which he charged George T. Harrison, another commission member, and Capt. Amos S. Creighton, tidewater fleet commander, were indulging in petty politics in conducting the department's work.

Two Hurt In Head-On Train Crash In Georgia

MACON, Ga. March 16—(INS)—Two men were injured and dozens of passengers shaken up today when a Central of Georgia passenger train crashed head-on with a freight train near Macon.

Both trains were said to be moving at a slow rate of speed when they collided on a side-track near Smarrs, a flag-stop 20 miles north of Macon.

The negro fireman of the Atlanta-bound passenger train suffered a leg injury and was taken to a Macon hospital.

Hickenlooper To Fight Truman Loyalty Order

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper (R-Iowa), chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, today served blunt notice on President Truman that he will fight his loyalty directive.

The President yesterday issued instructions to all federal departments to disregard congressional demands for information gathered during investigations of the loyalty of federal employes.

Hickenlooper told the Senate he had "no intention of abrogating or giving up the statutory authority" giving the committee access to the records of any government agency.

He said this authority is contained in a section of the McMahon Atomic Act which delegates to the committee power to use the services, information, facilities and personnel of all of the establishments of the government.

Wallace Party Assured Place On Calif. Ballot

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16—(AP)—A third party ticket headed by Presidential Candidate Henry A. Wallace today was assured a place on the California primary ballot.

Qualification of the Wallace third party movement, announced by the Secretary of State, was regarded generally as a body blow to Democratic prospects in California.

This was emphasized by the size of the qualifying petitions from Los Angeles County, the Democratic Party's California stronghold. In all, more than a quarter million signatures were obtained there. Only 155,000 were valid, however.

Modification of the treaty to give Italy the Free Territory of Trieste; a statement by the United States favoring Italian trusteeship over all pre-Fascist Italian colonies; an official statement urging Russia to renounce her share of the Italian navy, and the United States should insist on Italian admission to the United Nations.

ST. JOHN'S STUDENTS WOULD ADMIT NEGROES

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 16 (AP)—Students at St. John's College have gone on record overwhelmingly as favoring the admission of negroes.

Robert Davis, Scottdale, Pa., moderator of the student government, said today undergraduates had voted 162 to 33 for this resolution:

"The student body hereby resolves that it would welcome the admission of students of any race or color to St. John's College."

Davis, a senior, added:

"This resolution was not intended as a petition to or a demand on the administration or the board of visitors and governors.

"It was rather the result of student discussion and deliberation about whether an admissions policy which would enter negro students into the college community would be acceptable to the student body."

John S. Kieffer, president of the college, said he had no comment now.

Plane Search Will Be Resumed; Body Found

BALTIMORE, March 16 (AP)—A body found floating in the lower harbor today was identified tentatively as that of one of the four crew members of a Coast Guard plane which disappeared in a snow storm January 24.

Police said papers in the pockets bore the name of Aviation Radioman 1-c Rudolph H. Schoening, 40, Temple, Pa.

Search for the plane and its crew had been concentrated in the Baltimore harbor area. It was abandoned two weeks ago, but Coast Guard authorities said it would be resumed tomorrow.

Butter Wins 16-10 Victory Over Oleo

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Butter won a 16 to 10 decision over oleomargarine today in the House Agriculture Committee.

By that vote, the House group decided to pigeonhole 18 bills which had been drawn to repeal federal taxes on margarine and license fees imposed on those who sell it.

"That kills the legislation for this session of Congress," Chairman Hope (R-Kas) told reporters after the closed session. He voted with 14 other Republicans and Rep. Granger, Utah Democrat, to shelve the repealers.

But Rep. Poage (D-Tex), an opponent of the margarine tax, declared:

"The fight will go on. We are not licked yet."

He and nine other Democrats were lined up on the losing side.

Poage called the decision to pigeonhole the repeal bills "political cowardice," and said the next move is up to the Senate.

Sen. Fulbright (D-Ark) has advocated tacking on margarine tax repeal as a rider to the income tax cut bill. He discussed strategy with several other southern senators today.

Repeated efforts have been made in the past to repeal the tax on oleo, first imposed in 1889. Opponents contended the tax is discriminatory and gives butter an unfair competitive margin over margarine. Supporters of the tax said it is necessary to protect not only the dairy interests, but the public.

Legislation Is

creased rents to their wartime-OPA levels.

This proposal, in the form of a substitute for the Republican bill, was offered by Rep. Helen Gahagan Douglas (D-Calif).

It would have nullified rent hikes under "voluntary" leases agreed upon by tenants and landlords under the 1947 rent act.

Bull Voted For Bill

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Here is how Maryland and West Virginia congressmen voted today on the rent control bill:

Republicans for: Beall, Miller, Md.; Love, Snyder, Ellis, Rohrbough, W. Va.

day to give the four powers more time for consultations.

Informed sources speculated that if the council did approve the tentative agreement and finally decided that a threat to the peace existed, the United Nations then could use military force to restore order in the Holy Land.

FAMILY WHICH INVADED NEW YORK HOTEL ROOM HOLD BATTLE LINE FIRM

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—The four Coxes who invaded the Waldorf Astoria Hotel held their battle line firm tonight as apartment offers poured in by mail and telephone.

Richard E. Cox, Navy veteran who heads the family of four, said he hadn't decided to take any of the proffered apartments. But one, four rooms in Brooklyn for $58 a month, didn't sound too bad, he said.

Cox moved himself and his two baby sons into the hotel Saturday and took over a $12.60-a-day room. Mrs. Cox, who had been away from home when he thought up the plan, joined them later that night.

Then he announced that he would pay $40 a month rent, and the bill for the rest would go to Mayor William O'Dwyer.

He had got fed up, he said, with trying to persuade the city to find him a home in a veteran's housing project, and he was tired of their previous home in a bathless, cold-water Brooklyn flat.

Five European Nations Will Sign Treaty Today

BRUSSELS, Belgium, March 16 (AP)—A treaty linking Britain, France and the three small "Benelux" countries will be signed here tomorrow by the foreign ministers of the five nations.

The ceremony will be held in the Brussels Palace of Academies, decorated with nineteenth century panels symbolizing arts and sciences through the ages. The signing will take place about 5 p. m. (11 a. m. EST).

Nation's Chief

And in the House, Rep. Cox (D-Ga.) said he hopes Mr. Truman will tell Congress that "one more act of aggression by Russia means war."

Congressional leaders hope the Chief Executive will answer two grave questions of the hour:

Just what phase of the conflict between Russia and the West has led Mr. Truman to say that his confidence in world peace is somewhat shaken, and Secretary of State Marshall to declare that a "world crisis" exists

Just what does Mr. Truman want the United States to do about it?

They look for a statement on United States policy toward Italy, the current no man's land between Communism and western democracy, in particular.

Deadline Passes

SAN DIEGO, Calif., March 16 (AP)—The 7 p. m. (EST) deadline set by Clinton D. McKinnon on his offer to purchase the New York newspaper PM passed tonight without any further word from him.

Bill Changing Vote System Advances

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—A Southern Democrat's proposal to elect Presidents by popular vote got a powerful thrust forward today when the House Judiciary Committee approved it.

It is a constitutional amendment. This requires a two-thirds vote in House and Senate, and ratification by 36 Legislatures. Its adoption before the 1948 election is virtually impossible.

The author, Rep. Gossett D-Tex), aims to whittle down influence of minorities in pivotal states.

Gossett pushed the measure amid southern charges that President Truman had an eye on the negro vote in several populous northern states when he took his explosive civil rights stand.

Gossett's amendment would keep the electoral college, but each state's electoral vote for President and Vice President would be divided up in proportion to the popular vote in the state.

The way it is now, all of a state's electoral votes go to the candidate receiving the most popular votes. Occasionally a President gets in without even a majority of the nationwide popular vote.

Lane Withdraws Request For Clerk's Resignation

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 16 (AP)—Gov. Lane withdrew tonight his request for the resignation of John E. Clark, chairman of the Tidewater Fisheries Commission.

The Governor's action was made known in an exchange of letters with Clark.

Clark was the chief figure in a controversy in the commission which had virtually halted official work of the body.

In a letter dated March 13, Clark asked that he be permitted to withdraw a previous communication in which he charged George T. Harrison, another commission member, and Capt. Amos S. Creighton, tidewater fleet commander, were indulging in petty politics in conducting the department's work.

Two Hurt In Head-On Train Crash In Georgia

MACON, Ga., March 16—(INS)—Two men were injured and dozens of passengers shaken up today when a Central of Georgia passenger train crashed head-on with a freight train near Macon.

Both trains were said to be moving at a slow rate of speed when they collided on a side-track near Smarrs, a flag-stop 20 miles north of Macon.

The negro fireman of the Atlanta-bound passenger train suffered a leg injury and was taken to a Macon hospital.

Hickenlooper To Fight Truman Loyalty Order

WASHINGTON, March 16—(AP)—Sen. Hickenlooper, (R-Iowa), chairman of the Joint Congressional Atomic Energy Committee, today served blunt notice on President Truman that he will fight his loyalty directive.

The President yesterday issued instructions to all federal departments to disregard congressional demands for information gathered during investigations of the loyalty of federal employes.

Hickenlooper told the Senate he had "no intention of abrogating or giving up the statutory authority" giving the committee access to the records of any government agency.

He said this authority is contained in a section of the McMahon Atomic Act which delegates to the committee power to use the services, information, facilities and personnel of all of the establishments of the government.

Wallace Party Assured Place On Calif. Ballot

SAN FRANCISCO, March 16—(AP)—A third party ticket headed by Presidential Candidate Henry A. Wallace today was assured a place on the California primary ballot.

Qualification of the Wallace third party movement, announced by the Secretary of State, was regarded generally as a body blow to Democratic prospects in California.

This was emphasized by the size of the qualifying petitions from Los Angeles County, the Democratic Party's California stronghold. In all, more than a quarter million signatures were obtained there. Only 155,000 were valid, however.

Conn.) disclosed he had urged further steps to help Italy. He proposed the President seek revision of the peace treaty to allow Italy to increase its armed forces.

Lodge made public an exchange of letters with the President in which he suggested:

Modification of the treaty to give Italy the Free Territory of Trieste; a statement by the United States favoring Italian trusteeship over all pre-Fascist Italian colonies; an official statement urging Russia to renounce her share of the Italian navy, and the United States should insist on Italian admission to the United Nations.

ST. JOHN'S STUDENTS WOULD ADMIT NEGROES

ANNAPOLIS, Md., March 16 (AP)—Students at St. John's College have gone on record overwhelmingly as favoring the admission of negroes.

Robert Davis, Scottdale, Pa., moderator of the student government, said today undergraduates had voted 162 to 33 for this resolution:

"The student body hereby resolves that it would welcome the admission of students of any race or color to St. John's College."

Davis, a senior, added:

"This resolution was not intended as a petition to or a demand on the administration or the board of visitors and governors.

"It was rather the result of student discussion and deliberation about whether an admissions policy which would enter negro students into the college community would be acceptable to the student body."

John S. Kieffer, president of the college, said he had no comment now.

Plane Search Will Be Resumed; Body Found

BALTIMORE, March 16 (AP)—A body found floating in the lower harbor today was identified tentatively as that of one of the four crew members of a Coast Guard plane which disappeared in a snow storm January 24.

Police said papers in the pockets bore the name of Aviation Radioman 1-c Rudolph H. Schoening, 40, Temple, Pa.

Search for the plane and its crew had been concentrated in the Baltimore harbor area. It was abandoned two weeks ago, but Coast Guard authorities said it would be resumed tomorrow.

Student Nurse Recruiting Campaign Continues Apace

Considerable progress is being made in the campaign to recruit prospective student nurses for Memorial and Allegany hospitals here, under the leadership of Miss Anne Sloan and the magnificent assistance being given her by numerous women and men from civic and service organizations in this meritorious undertaking. They are being materially benefitted through expert advice and counsel from Miss Frances Loftus, director of the school of nursing at Memorial Hospital, and Sister Vincent Marie and Sister Mary Barnard, superintendent of Allegany Hospital, and director of the hospital's school of nursing, respectively.

Church groups, within a 100-mile radius of Cumberland, and numerous organizations within the tri-state area have been enlisted in the recruiting campaign for nurses for the June, September and February classes, and it is expected that concrete results will be forthcoming from these memberships within a matter of weeks.

The acute shortage of nurses throughout the country is not only making it difficult for hospitals to render the service expected by the sick, but the feeling of insecurity of receiving the proper care should illness strike those who are now well should arouse the general public to the seriousness of the situation.

The National Conference in Medical Service was held recently in Chicago. Dr. Thomas P. Murdock, at that meeting, emphasized this and its relationship to the health situation of the country. He expressed the opinion that the present scarcity of registered nurses is probably the most serious consideration confronting American medicine. He brought conditions into focus when he stated that, "Hospital authorities have been complaining of their inability to staff their institutions adequately. Doctors have maintained that seriously ill patients could not get adequate nursing care. In 1910 there was one nurse per 116 persons. In 1946 there was one nurse per 316 persons. One million more patients were admitted to hospitals in the United States in 1946 than in 1945." That is not a very pretty picture.

Reasons for the nursing shortage in some sections of the country—poor living conditions in some training schools and long hours of work—do not apply to Cumberland. Comfortable homes have been provided near the hospitals for student nurses, time for recreation is provided and the hours of training are not too long. And conditions are constantly being improved.

It is estimated that between 90 and 100 more students are needed by the two Cumberland hospitals for the June and September classes, and fifty more will be required for the February, 1949, class. That is not as large an order as it might first seem, so there is every reason to believe those goals will be reached before the close of the campaign on May 12.

Students in their senior year in high schools throughout this area should give serious thought to making application for entry in the nursing classes this summer and early fall. Those in lower grades who desire to take up this profession should begin now to prepare themselves. All that is required of an applicant is that she be a high high school graduate and of good character.

It is essential to the welfare of this and nearby communities that those who have been enlisted in this recruiting campaign see to it that the effort does not fail.

Recovery Program As It Relates To Europe

As a result of surveys made in world capitals, the United States News-World Report concludes that recovery is beginning to hold everywhere. This confirms what newspaper reporters are writing.

Industrial production, for example, is already above that of prewar years in most of Western Europe and the Marshall Plan is expected to lift the levels substantially higher. In that event the magazine fears that the world will have to face the problem "of a vast surplus of goods."

Industrial production is not the only test of a country's recovery, but it has the virtue of being subject to easy and exact measurement. And, in the present state of affairs, it bulks largest in every country's economy. What people need is goods of one kind or another.

Unless they get them depression and discontent are the rule. If they get them prosperity is either at hand or on the way.

So the latest figures on industrial activity do have unusual significance. They show that Norway, Denmark, Sweden and The Netherlands are all producing more today than before the war. France and Belgium are just under that norm but gaining. Belgium and Italy are considerably lower but in these instances also improvement is being shown. Only areas that are really depressed are Austria, Japan and the British-American zone of Germany.

Insofar as Germany is concerned General Clay reports that the worst is over in that zone and that henceforth the movement will be upward. It is apparent that Western Europe is doing something to help itself despite all the sprags the Russians have been inserting in the wheels.

Up To Congress

Although General Hershey says it is only a case of "reasonable preparedness," the proposed reactivation of selective service boards has an ominous sound. Certainly some of the timid will regard it as an indication that the emergency is more acute than has been generally imagined.

What has happened so far is that the Office of Selective Service Records is holding a series of meetings in each Army area at which, to use the official expression, "all phases of mobilization" are being discussed, including national registration, universal military training and procedures to be followed in the event of new hostilities.

To date all this activity is in the higher brackets of the military establishment. The selective service boards have been disbanded by act of Congress and only Congress can bring them back into being. But the mere knowledge that the matter is under consideration is disturbing.

Those who have been predicting a return of the ice age must feel considerably encouraged.

The Dublin School Of Medicine

At various times throughout history, medical meccas have arisen in different parts of the world, and the Emerald isle is no exception. Her golden age of medicine lasted no longer than the golden age of Pericles—little more than a third of a century—but the names of its leaders and the record of their achievements will live on.

The outstanding leaders of the Irish school were Robert Graves and William Stokes. Among the lesser members of the group were Francis Rynd who invented a gravity device to give hypodermic injections for the relief of pain (1845); William Wallace, who introduced potassium iodide in syphilis (1836); John Cheyne, remembered for his description of water on the brain (1808) and a peculiar type of breathing now referred to as "Cheyne-Stokes respiration;" and Robert Adams who described heart block, a phenomenon later called "Stokes-Adams disease." Arthur Jacob, the discoverer of rods and cones in the retina (Jacob's membrane) and William Wilde specialized in ophthalmology and founded eye hospitals. Dominic Corrigan, whose name is attached to two diseases, t type of pulse and respiration, and the blue line on the gums in lead poisoning, attached to two diseases, a type of league Abraham Colles, refused one but textbooks still refer to Colles' fracture, ligament, law, space, and fascia.

Graves was a dashing personality. After graduating with every possible honor in 1818 he made the usual tour of the continent for fun and postgraduate work. Among his many adventures were putting down a mutiny aboard ship during a storm in the Mediterranean and being arrested as a spy in Austria because he spoke German so fluently. Great Britain at that time still clung to the lecture method rather than clinical teaching as practiced on the continent. On his return to Dublin, Graves threw a bomb at his first class, stating that medicine could not be learned by hearsay—students had to be brought to the bedside.

Graves' colleague and friend, Stokes, was the scion of a long line of physicians. While still a medical student, he recognized the importance of Laennec's recently discovered stethoscope and was the first to write a treatise in English on its value. Both these men specialized in diseases of the chest and their joint reputation as brilliant clinical teachers spread, bringing students from the world. Among their many reforms was a condemnation of purging and bleeding as a routine form of therapy and Graves asked that his epitaph read: "He fed fevers." These physicians provided eponyms in medical literature we find Graves disease ,exophthalmic goiter) and Stokes' expectorant, law, liniment, operation and sign.

A few decades later, Pasteur's discovery of bacteria revolutionized medicine and initiated the modern period. But the work of the Dublin school contributed substantially to the progress of medical science. In this connection, Doolin quotes a statement by Graves that is particularly apropos: "A short and transitory existence has been allotted to our bodies; individuals die, generations pass away, but the common intellect of mankind fears not the same fate nor shares the same brief mortality."

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

At a recent meeting of a pharmaceutical group it was estimated that national consumption of aspirin has quadrupled in the last 20 years. No doubt, the increase in headaches has been due to songs. The aspirin intake doubled with "Mairzy Doats" . . . tripled with "Bloop Bleep" . . . and quadrupled with "Chibaba Chibaba."

When it comes to stopping a headache, an aspirin is really a blessing. And with a political campaign coming up, all the public needs now is something to stop an earache.

I know from first-hand observation that everyone is having more headaches these days. For instance, take Trigger. He wants that "new look" and because of the steel shortage, he can't have his horseshoes made three inches longer.

Colonna buys aspirin by the bottle. It's not that he uses so many; he's just saving the cotton to make himself a new suit.

My producer at Paramount uses aspirin but in a perculiar way. Every time they preview one of my pictures, he sticks an aspirin under each eyelid so he won't have to see the screen.

Peter Lorree has a big headache, Dan Duryea threatens to take his title away after all these years of Lorre's being Hollywood's undisputed sneering champ.

Sinatra has headaches, but poor Frankie can't do a thing about them. He's too weak to lift the aspirin.

Stalin frequently has headaches, but he doesn't take another aspirin to cure it . . . He takes another country.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 16—Now that General MacArthur has announced for the presidency, it is only fair that the American public know more about his administration of Japan. After all, MacArthur has been out of his own country for eleven long years and the only barometer of his ability to govern the United States is his ability to govern Japan.

Most people have had the impression that whereas the U. S. administration of Germany was a continual mess, MacArthur's administration of Japan operated with clockwork precision.

But what they don't know is that Japan remains the one area in the world—besides Russian territory—where effective censorship still prevails. Whereas a newsman can go to Germany and write anything about the U. S. Army he wants, in Japan it it the exact opposite. Not only is news censored, but American newsmen are subject to court martial if they disobey.

In fact, American newsmen in Japan, feeling there was little difference between MacArthur's news suppression and the Iron Curtain, recently sent a protest to the American Society of Newspaper editors. Pertinent portions of it follow:

How MacArthur Censors Press

"At a conference with General MacArthur's public information officer, Mr. Frayne Baker, in October, 1946, Mr. Baker stated that any material that any occupation or theatre official chooses to classify is protected by the rules of military security and that a correspondent can be court-martialed for publishing such material under the articles of war. Mr. Baker at that time agreed to prepare a statement of General MacArthur's policy concerning the status of correspondents assigned to his headquarters. Despite repeated subsequent requests Allied correspondents in Japan have yet to receive these statements.

"The apparent intent of this device has been to withhold information of an economic, political and social character—information which we believe the readers of the Allied press are entitled to receive and which the representatives of the Allied press were sent to Japan to obtain.

"Commencing in October, 1946, every conversation between SCAP officials (supreme commander, allied powers) and Japanese authorities was classified as secret or higher. Thus correspondents who subsequently published or obtained such information, which obviously was in the possession of the 'enemy,' were under threat of prosecution.

"Commencing in July, 1946, discussion of any SCAP project which was 'still in the works' was classified. The effect of this restriction was to curtail and if possible to prevent discussion of the thinking leading to important decisions in governmental and economic fields, and to present the peoples of the United Nations with faits accomplis. This interpretation was substantiated by Mr. Frayne Baker, PIO, when he explained to correspondents: 'From now on you will get your news of the occupation from PRO press releases.'

Even Japanese Crime Censored

"In this manner, the shroud of security has been thrown over such subjects as Japanese crime, rationing statistics, dollar loan negotiations, the purges, economic decentralization, reparations, industrial rehabilitation plans and negotiations for wool and cotton imports. Even information concerning attempts by the Japanese to obstruct the occupation has been classified. Correspondents who have inquired into such attempts or who have published such information have been threatened frequently with investigation or prosecution for security violations.

"A correspondent who requested coal production statistics from the natural resources section reported that he was told that these figures were classified. Subsequently he secured the information from a Japanese publication. Later, Mr. Baker told correspondents that publication of the figures theoretically violated security regulations and that the correspondent conceivably could be court-martialed.

"A letter which General MacArthur sent to former Premier Shigeru Yoshida was transmitted to his publication by a correspondent before it had been made public through official channels. The correspondent was threatened with investigation."

In the United States it is a long-standing rule that any newspaper has the right to all figures regarding government expenditures. The theory is that the taxpayers have a right to know how their money is spent. But under MacArthur it is different.

"A correspondent who requested from the army fiscal director's office information concerning supplies and property returned to the Japanese government was told that the information was 'secret.' These statistics were in the possession of the Japanese. The question therefore arises: From whom were occupation officials attempting to withhold such nonmilitary information?

"The fiscal director's office also refuses on grounds of security to divulge information concerning the deficit sustained by the army during the first ten months of the occupation when yen was convertible into dollars. The army has reported to congress the amount of the deficit, but refuses to reveal what measures are being employed to reduce this deficit. This secrecy has given rise to unhealthy conjecture among army and occupational personnel. Again there is the question: Why and from whom is this information being withheld?

"A correspondent who reported a discussion concerning the economic purge was summoned by the deputy chief of staff, was required to listen to a reading of the articles of war and was informed that he had been called as a witness in an investigation of an 'information leak.' The correspondent reported that he was asked to divulge the source of his information with the implicit warning that he could be court-martialed under the articles of war for withholding such information. He said that he further was warned that he could not communicate with his employers nor divulge 'anything that has traspired in this room' and that he was not entitled to advice of legal counsel."

Newsman's Home Rifled

"Still another correspondent, who had written stories which occupation officials considered critical, revealed that his home had been raided by the army's CID and that he—the correspondent—was subjected to interrogation and threats.

"Information supplied to a correspondent by one headquarters' section often is considered secret by another."

The protest is signed by Tom Lambert of the Associated Press, Burton Crane of the New York Times, George Thomas Folster of NBC, Joseph Fromm of World Report and Carl Mydans of Time and Life magazines.

Russia-U. S. Showdown Near; Backdown By Moscow Probable

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 16—President Truman in addressing a joint session of Congress on Wednesday will be starting an era of tense exchanges of viewpoint with Russia that could conceivably lead to war or to a peaceful settlemen of outstanding disputes between the two countries.

The United States government, fully conscious that the patience of the people of this country is being severely tried by Russia's role of non-cooperation, must find a way to warn the Soviet rulers that words will be backed up by deeds if aggression continues.

The mere fact that the President lays the situation before a joint session of Congress is indication in itself that a grave turn has occurred and that from now on the choice of peace or a drift toward war is in Russia's hands.

The seizure of power in Czechoslovakia and the evident attempt of the Communists to take over Italy have brought a crisis that has been accompanied by no outburst of feeling that could even remotely be described as "war fever." Yet from one end of the country to the other the characteristic American attitude is crystallizing on the thesis that maybe the time has come to find out if the Russian rulers are bent on war.

Many Ways To Underline Views

There are many ways by which the American government's grave view of the whole situation can be underlined. One is to ask for immediate enactment of the Selective Service Law, or for the setting up of adequate machinery to call into being on quick notice a huge army to back up our forces now scattered in the Mediterranean and the Far East.

Another plan is to notify the whole world that America will not stand idly by if aggression continues and that the United Nations is expected to take some action to denounce aggression such as has occured in Czechoslovakia.

The explicit points in American policy may not be contained in the presidential message, for it may be found that the better course lies in an informal expression of the American viewpoint through diplomatic channels without undue publicity and some clear-cut action in the nature of military preparation so as to impress the Soviet leaders that words will be supported by physical force if necessary.

A theory prevails here that the Soviet chiefs are bluffing and that they think America will not rise to defend democracy or will not mobilize for the protection of the integrity of any European states. twice the government of Germany made the same mistake in incorrectly appraising the psychology of the people of the United States. What President Truman says this week is designed to prevent the Russians from misconstruing American forbearance as a sign of weakness or indifference to aggression.

The talk in the national capital for several days has been one of war. The fear has been expressed that war might suddenly be forced on America and that hence no time should be lost in mobilizing the armed forces for defense.

Russians May Recede

There is reason to believe that the Russians will recede if they really think America is in earnest. Certainly nobody familiar with the internal economic situation in Russia can sugest any reason why the present Soviet rulers could benefit by war at this time. In fact there might well be a revolution if the Russian people are dragged into another war so soon after the ending of World War II.

It should not be forgotten that the Russian people know little from their own press about the difficulties which the Russian government has piled up to prevent a peaceful settlement of the issues growing out of World War II. Any action, however, by the United States to warn against aggression, if anything so definite is expressed, would filter into Russia and would gain wide attention over a short period of time.

The showdown between Russia and the United States is near. It could mean war but the most probable outcome is a backdown by Russia and a move toward better relations with the United States.

Fair Play By Committees In Congress Held To Be Needed

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

This column has reference to no person now under investigation by any Congressional committee. I want to make that plain. If Russian agents are prying into our military secrets, and if American citizens are helping them, they must be exposed.

But for a long time some Congressional committee members have gone far beyond the limits of fair play. That practice must stop. Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois has introduced a resolution providing that any person who thinks he has been defamed before a committee shall have the following rights:

(1) To file his own sworn statement in reply, which must be made a part of the permanent record of the hearings.

(2) To appear personally before a committee.

(3) To compel the committee to subpoena up to four witnesses in his behalf.

(4) The right of counsel.

(5) He, or his counsel, may cross examine witnesses.

(6) No committee report shall be issued until it has been approved by a majority of a quorum of the committee.

(7) No committee statement, or report, charging misconduct by any person shall be published or filed unless and until the person charged shall be advised of the charge and shall have a reasonable opportunity to defend himself.

Decries Sensational Attacks

If Congress is genuinely concerned about civil rights in this country, it should pass this, or some similar resolution, to govern its committees. It is intolerable that committee members, hungry for the headlines, should make sensational attacks on the good name of an American citizen in the newspapers or on the radio, and then give him no opportunity to defend himself.

The investigating powers of Congress are very important. Among its other duties, Congress is the great board of audit of the Federal government. It must expose corruption, waste, and traitors.

But, as Senator Lucas well says: "It is precisely because of the indispensable function of a Congressional committee in exposing corruption wherever it may be found that I feel the time is ripe for the reform of committee procedures . . . It is of the highest importance that these committees enjoy the unquestioned respect and confidence of the American peopple, for if they do not, they will lose their usefulness as the tools of Congress."

Congress is not a court. Except in the rare case of impeachment, or contempt of Congress, it has no power to try, fine or imprison anyone. Congressional committees could not observe all the rules of judicial trial, Time does not permit. Congress has too many other things to do.

Would Limit Number of Witnesses

Mr. Lucas' resolution wisely limits the number of witnesses, and the time to be spent in the defense of wounded reputations.

On the floor of the House or Senate, a member may talk freely. The Constitution wisely gives him this immunity. But rarely is this privilege abused. The Congressman knows his speaking in a public forum where fair play is expected—where hitting below the belt is almost certain to degrade the one who does it.

It is attacks in a committee room, where few members are present, or before newspaper reporters, or over the radio, that the Senator's resolution is designed to prevent.

In justice to Congress, most committees conduct their investigations with dignity, courtesy and fairness. It is the rotten apple that makes the barrel smell.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Without Law

In a too little discussed dissenting opinion, Mr. Justice Jackson,, with the concurrence of Mr. Justice Frankfurter, laid low the Administrative Agencies of government most competently. It was the case of SEC v. Chenery Corporation, et al.

The case itself is of small importance. What it amounts to is that some officers and directors of the corporation bought on the open market some preferred stock of the company while a reorganization plan was pending with the SEC. No law, judicial precedent, regulation or rule of the SEC forbids the transaction. Nevertheless, the Commission ordered those who purchased this stock to sell it, but issued no similar order to others to do likweise, even though they made purchases at the same time. But the officers and directors had to obey the SEC, which holds a life-or-death power over such corporations.

These directors went into the Courts for relief, but found that although they were within the law, had violated no law, had done nothing which, at the moment, was illegal or an abuse of a well-established standard of conduct, they nevertheless lost their case. They lost it on the ground that the administrative experience of the SEC had to be upheld, law or no law.

It also was shown in this case that SEC had had no previous administrative experience in this particular type of matter; neverthel , the lack of administrative experience had to be upheld! For what the Court said was:

"Hence, we refuse to say that the Commission, which had not previously been confronted with the problem of management trading during reorganization, was forbidden from utilizing this particular proceeding for announcing and applying a new standard of conduct."

To this, Mr Justice Jackson replied (concurred in by Mr. Justice Frankfurter):

"The Court's reasoning adds up to this: The Commission must be sustained because of its accumulated experience in solving a problem with which it had never before been confronted!"

In other words, SEC and the majority of the Court make their laws, apply them retroactively and produce a total anarchy. It is amazing how often the Administrative agencies go off on their own in precisely this manner, ignoring the law, redefining acts of Congress, functioning by whim and fancy. Justice Jackson asks:

"If it is of no consequence that no rule of laws be existent to support an administrative order, and the Court of Appeals is obliged to defer to administrative experience and to sustain a Commission's power merely because it has been asserted and exercised, of what use is it to print a record or briefs in the case, or to hear argument? . . ."

It might further be asked, why, if any agency of administration can do as it pleases, without regard to law, penalizing one group of citizens in the private interest of another—why, if this is possible, does Congress pass laws at all? Why not leave everything to the administrative experience of those who have had no experience?

I want to quote this important statement by Mr. Justice Jackson:

"The truth is that in this decision the Court approves the Commission's assertion of power to govern the matter without law, power to force surrender of stock so purchased whenever it will, and power also to overlook such acquisitions if it so chooses. The reasons which will lead it to take one course as against the other remain locked in its own breast, and it has not and apparently does not intend to commit them to any rule or regulation. This administrative authoritarianism, this power to decide without law, is what the Court seems to approve in so many words: 'The absence of a general rule or regulation government management trading during reorganization did not affect the Commission's duties . . .' This seems to me to undervalue and to belittle the place of law, even in the system of administrative justice. It calls to mind Mr. Justice Cardozo's statement that 'law as a guide to conduct is reduced to the level of mere futility if it is unknown and unknowable.'"

It is a hopeful sign that there are at least two Justices on the Supreme Court of the United States who respect the law. Perhaps in time there will be more.

Today's Talk

Leisure To Admire And Enjoy

A third of our lives is spent in bed, for rest. The remainder of our time upon this earth is spent in work, but each of us should reserve a liberal portion of this time merely for leisure to admire and enjoy the wonderful things upon this earth as our inheritance.

No matter how many times I look upon a scene that attracts my eye, never do I tire of another look, or meditation. The little island home of mine in Nova Scotia, where I have spent 18 summers, is ever new to me. I have not exhausted one thousandth part of its beauty and appeal. Every summer I discover many new things of interest there. The friendliness of a flower, shrub, or tree remains. And I am welcomed by my scampering red squirrels who almost know me by name!

Every meeting of a friend is a new experience. There is always something new to learn about each, and something new to be loved. The pictures upon my walls, and the books lined upon their shelves, in colorful garments, greet me anew each day of my life. For 25 years I have lived in the same home—but every day, as I look out upon the surrounding grounds, I see something new and interesting. Now that the snow is fast disappearing, I look upon the green grass of Springtime, and soon the buds will begin to appear. Every Springtime is a new revelation to admire and enjoy.

There is a certain sympathy and understanding that ties one to all beauty; and to take the time for leisure in such enjoyment is to drink deeply into a refreshing Spring that never runs dry. Old scenes ever become new scenes. How wonderful if we could all say, with Thoreau, that "my wealth is not possession, but enjoyment."

How brief is our time at its most. How immeasurely brief is the leisure that we take for admiration and enjoyment of the things that are so fresh and lavish—at our very feet as we beat our familiar paths from day to day. Can we not spare a little time for prayer and meditation that we may the more appreciate the rich beauty all about us?

Student Nurse Recruiting Campaign Continues Apace

Considerable progress is being made in the campaign to recruit prospective student nurses for Memorial and Allegany hospitals here, under the leadership of Miss Anne Sloan and the magnificent assistance being given her by numerous women and men from civic and service organizations in this meritorious undertaking. They are being materially benefitted through expert advice and counsel from Miss Frances Loftus, director of the school of nursing at Memorial Hospital, and Sister Vincent Marie and Sister Mary Barnard, superintendent of Allegany Hospital, and director of the hospital's school of nursing, respectively.

Church groups, within a 100-mile radius of Cumberland, and numerous organizations within the tri-state area have been enlisted in the recruiting campaign for nurses for the June, September and February classes, and it is expected that concrete results will be forthcoming from these memberships within a matter of weeks.

The acute shortage of nurses throughout the country is not only making it difficult for hospitals to render the service expected by the sick, but the feeling of insecurity of receiving the proper care should illness strike those who are now well should arouse the general public to the seriousness of the situation.

The National Conference in Medical Service was held recently in Chicago. Dr. Thomas P. Murdock, at that meeting, emphasized this and its relationship to the health situation of the country. He expressed the opinion that the present scarcity of registered nurses is probably the most serious consideration confronting American medicine. He brought conditions into focus when he stated that, "Hospital authorities have been complaining of their inability to staff their institutions adequately. Doctors have maintained that seriously ill patients could not get adequate nursing care. In 1910 there was one nurse per 116 persons. In 1946 there was one nurse per 316 persons. One million more patients were admitted to hospitals in the United States in 1946 than in 1945." That is not a very pretty picture.

Reasons for the nursing shortage in some sections of the country—poor living conditions in some training schools and long hours of work—do not apply to Cumberland. Comfortable homes have been provided near the hospitals for student nurses, time for recreation is provided and the hours of training are not too long. And conditions are constantly being improved.

It is estimated that between 90 and 100 more students are needed by the two Cumberland hospitals for the June and September classes, and fifty more will be required for the February, 1949, class. That is not as large an order as it might first seem, so there is every reason to believe those goals will be reached before the close of the campaign on May 12.

Students in their senior year in high schools throughout this area should give serious thought to making application for entry in the nursing classes this summer and early fall. Those in lower grades who desire to take up this profession should begin now to prepare themselves. All that is required of an applicant is that she be a high high school graduate and of good character.

It is essential to the welfare of this and nearby communities that those who have been enlisted in this recruiting campaign see to it that the effort does not fail.

Recovery Program As It Relates To Europe

As a result of surveys made in world capitals, the United States News-World Report concludes that recovery is beginning to hold everywhere. This confirms what newspaper reporters are writing.

Industrial production, for example, is already above that of prewar years in most of Western Europe and the Marshall Plan is expected to lift the levels substantially higher. In that event the magazine fears that the world will have to face the problem "of a vast surplus of goods."

Industrial production is not the only test of a country's recovery, but it has the virtue of being subject to easy and exact measurement. And, in the present state of affairs, it bulks largest in every country's economy. What people need is goods of one kind or another.

Unless they get them depression and discontent are the rule. If they get them prosperity is either at hand or on the way.

So the latest figures on industrial activity do have unusual significance. They show that Norway, Denmark, Sweden and The Netherlands are all producing more today than before the war. France and Belgium are just under that norm but gaining. Belgium and Italy are considerably lower but in these instances also improvement is being shown. Only areas that are really depressed are Austria, Japan and the British-American zone of Germany.

Insofar as Germany is concerned General Clay reports that the worst is over in that zone and that henceforth the movement will be upward. It is apparent that Western Europe is doing something to help itself despite all the sprags the Russians have been inserting in the wheels.

Up To Congress

Although General Hershey says it is only a case of "reasonable preparedness," the proposed reactivation of selective service boards has an ominous sound. Certainly some of the timid will regard it as an indication that the emergency is more acute than has been generally imagined.

What has happened so far is that the Office of Selective Service Records is holding a series of meetings in each Army area at which, to use the official expression, "all phases of mobilization" are being discussed, including national registration, universal military training and procedures to be followed in the event of new hostilities.

To date all this activity is in the higher brackets of the military establishment. The selective service boards have been disbanded by act of Congress and only Congress can bring them back into being. But the mere knowledge that the matter is under consideration is disturbing.

Those who have been predicting a return of the ice age must feel considerably encouraged.

The Dublin School Of Medicine

At various times throughout history, medical meccas have arisen in different parts of the world, and the Emerald isle is no exception. Her golden age of medicine lasted no longer than the golden age of Pericles—little more than a third of a century—but the names of its leaders and the record of their achievements will live on.

The outstanding leaders of the Irish school were Robert Graves and William Stokes. Among the lesser members of the group were Francis Rynd who invented a gravity device to give hypodermic injections for the relief of pain (1845); William Wallace, who introduced potassium iodide in syphilis (1836); John Cheyne, remembered for his description of water on the brain (1808) and a peculiar type of breathing now referred to as "Cheyne-Stokes respiration;" and Robert Adams who described heart block, a phenomenon later called "Stokes-Adams disease." Arthur Jacob, the discoverer of rods and cones in the retina (Jacob's membrane) and William Wilde specialized in ophthalmology and founded eye hospitals. Dominic Corrigan, whose name is attached to two diseases, t type of pulse and respiration, and the blue line on the gums in lead poisoning, attached to two diseases, a type of league Abraham Colles, refused one but textbooks still refer to Colles' fracture, ligament, law, space, and fascia.

Graves was a dashing personality. After graduating with every possible honor in 1818 he made the usual tour of the continent for fun and postgraduate work. Among his many adventures were putting down a mutiny aboard ship during a storm in the Mediterranean and being arrested as a spy in Austria because he spoke German so fluently. Great Britain at that time still clung to the lecture method rather than clinical teaching as practiced on the continent. On his return to Dublin, Graves threw a bomb at his first class, stating that medicine could not be learned by hearsay—students had to be brought to the bedside.

Graves' colleague and friend, Stokes, was the scion of a long line of physicians. While still a medical student, he recognized the importance of Laennec's recently discovered stethoscope and was the first to write a treatise in English on its value. Both these men specialized in diseases of the chest and their joint reputation as brilliant clinical teachers spread, bringing students from the world. Among their many reforms was a condemnation of purging and bleeding as a routine form of therapy and Graves asked that his epitaph read: "He fed fevers." These physicians provided eponyms in medical literature we find Graves disease ,exophthalmic goiter) and Stokes' expectorant, law, liniment, operation and sign.

A few decades later, Pasteur's discovery of bacteria revolutionized medicine and initiated the modern period. But the work of the Dublin school contributed substantially to the progress of medical science. In this connection, Doolin quotes a statement by Graves that is particularly apropos: "A short and transitory existence has been allotted to our bodies; individuals die, generations pass away, but the common intellect of mankind fears not the same fate nor shares the same brief mortality."

It Says Here

By BOB HOPE

At a recent meeting of a pharmaceutical group it was estimated that national consumption of aspirin has quadrupled in the last 20 years. No doubt, the increase in headaches has been due to songs. The aspirin intake doubled with "Mairzy Doats" . . . tripled with "Bloop Bleep" . . . and quadrupled with "Chibaba Chibaba."

When it comes to stopping a headache, an aspirin is really a blessing. And with a political campaign coming up, all the public needs now is something to stop an earache.

I know from first-hand observation that everyone is having more headaches these days. For instance, take Trigger. He wants that "new look" and because of the steel shortage, he can't have his horseshoes made three inches longer.

Colonna buys aspirin by the bottle. It's not that he uses so many; he's just saving the cotton to make himself a new suit.

My producer at Paramount uses aspirin but in a perculiar way. Every time they preview one of my pictures, he sticks an aspirin under each eyelid so he won't have to see the screen.

Peter Lorree has a big headache. Dan Duryea threatens to take his title away after all these years of Lorre's being Hollywood's undisputed sneering champ.

Sinatra has headaches, but poor Frankie can't do a thing about them. He's too weak to lift the aspirin.

Stalin frequently has headaches, but he doesn't take another aspirin to cure it . . . He takes another country.

Says DREW PEARSON

WASHINGTON, March 16—Now that General MacArthur has announced for the presidency, it is only fair that the American public know more about his administration of Japan. After all, MacArthur has been out of his own country for eleven long years and the only barometer of his ability to govern the United States is his ability to govern Japan.

Most people have had the impression that whereas the U. S. administration of Germany was a continual mess, MacArthur's administration of Japan operated with clockwork precision.

But what they don't know is that Japan remains the one area in the world—besides Russian territory—where effective censorship still prevails. Whereas a newsman can go to Germany and write anything about the U. S. Army he wants, in Japan it it the exact opposite. Not only is news censored, but American newsmen are subject to court martial if they disobey.

In fact, American newsmen in Japan, feeling there was little difference between MacArthur's news suppression and the Iron Curtain, recently sent a protest to the American Society of Newspaper editors. Pertinent portions of it follow:

How MacArthur Censors Press

"At a conference with General MacArthur's public information officer, Mr. Frayne Baker, in October, 1946, Mr. Baker stated that any material that any occupation or theatre official chooses to classify is protected by the rules of military security and that a correspondent can be court-martialed for publishing such material under the articles of war. Mr. Baker at that time agreed to prepare a statement of General MacArthur's policy concerning the status of correspondents assigned to his headquarters. Despite repeated subsequent requests Allied correspondents in Japan have yet to receive these statements.

"The apparent intent of this device has been to withhold information of an economic, political and social character—information which we believe the readers of the Allied press are entitled to receive and which the representatives of the Allied press were sent to Japan to obtain.

"Commencing in October, 1946, every conversation between SCAP officials (supreme commander, allied powers) and Japanese authorities was classified as secret or higher. Thus correspondents who subsequently published or obtained such information, which obviously was in the possession of the 'enemy,' were under threat of prosecution.

"Commencing in July, 1946, discussion of any SCAP project which was 'still in the works' was classified. The effect of this restriction was to curtail and if possible to prevent discussion of the thinking leading to important decisions in governmental and economic fields, and to present the peoples of the United Nations with faits accomplis. This interpretation was substantiated by Mr. Frayne Baker, PIO, when he explained to correspondents: 'From now on you will get your news of the occupation from PRO press releases.'

Even Japanese Crime Censored

"In this manner, the shroud of security has been thrown over such subjects as Japanese crime, rationing statistics, dollar loan negotiations, the purges, economic decentralization, reparations, industrial rehabilitation plans and negotiations for wool and cotton imports. Even information concerning attempts by the Japanese to obstruct the occupation has been classified. Correspondents who have inquired into such attempts or who have published such information have been threatened frequently with investigation or prosecution for security violations.

"A correspondent who requested coal production statistics from the natural resources section reported that he was told that these figures were classified. Subsequently he secured the information from a Japanese publication. Later, Mr. Baker told correspondents that publication of the figures theoretically violated security regulations and that the correspondent conceivably could be court-martialed.

"A letter which General MacArthur sent to former Premier Shigeru Yoshida was transmitted to his publication by a correspondent before it had been made public through official channels. The correspondent was threatened with investigation."

In the United States it is a long-standing rule that any newspaper has the right to all figures regarding government expenditures. The theory is that the taxpayers have a right to know how their money is spent. But under MacArthur it is different.

"A correspondent who requested from the army fiscal director's office information concerning supplies and property returned to the Japanese government was told that the information was 'secret.' These statistics were in the possession of the Japanese. The question therefore arises: From whom were occupation officials attempting to withhold such nonmilitary information?

"The fiscal director's office also refuses on grounds of security to divulge information concerning the deficit sustained by the army during the first ten months of the occupation when yen was convertible into dollars. The army has reported to congress the amount of the deficit, but refuses to reveal what measures are being employed to reduce this deficit. This secrecy has given rise to unhealthy conjecture among army and occupational personnel. Again there is the question: Why and from whom is this information being withheld?

"A correspondent who reported a discussion concerning the economic purge was summoned by the deputy chief of staff, was required to listen to a reading of the articles of war and was informed that he had been called as a witness in an investigation of an 'information leak.' The correspondent reported that he was asked to divulge the source of his information with the implicit warning that he could be court-martialed under the articles of war for withholding such information. He said that he further was warned that he could not communicate with his employers nor divulge 'anything that has traspired in this room' and that he was not entitled to advice of legal counsel."

Newsman's Home Rifled

"Still another correspondent, who had written stories which occupation officials considered critical, revealed that his home had been raided by the army's CID and that he—the correspondent—was subjected to interrogation and threats.

"Information supplied to a correspondent by one headquarters' section often is considered secret by another."

The protest is signed by Tom Lambert of the Associated Press, Burton Crane of the New York Times, George Thomas Folster of NBC, Joseph Fromm of World Report and Carl Mydans of Time and Life magazines.

Russia-U. S. Showdown Near; Backdown By Moscow Probable

By DAVID LAWRENCE

WASHINGTON, March 16—President Truman in addressing a joint session of Congress on Wednesday will be starting an era of tense exchanges of viewpoint with Russia that could conceivably lead to war or to a peaceful settlemen of outstanding disputes between the two countries.

The United States government, fully conscious that the patience of the people of this country is being severely tried by Russia's role of non-cooperation, must find a way to warn the Soviet rulers that words will be backed up by deeds if aggression continues.

The mere fact that the President lays the situation before a joint session of Congress is indication in itself that a grave turn has occurred and that from now on the choice of peace or a drift toward war is in Russia's hands.

The seizure of power in Czechoslovakia and the evident attempt of the Communists to take over Italy have brought a crisis that has been accompanied by no outburst of feeling that could even remotely be described as "war fever." Yet from one end of the country to the other the characteristic American attitude is crystallizing on the thesis that maybe the time has come to find out if the Russian rulers are bent on war.

Many Ways To Underline Views

There are many ways by which the American government's grave view of the whole situation can be underlined. One is to ask for immediate enactment of the Selective Service Law, or for the setting up of adequate machinety to call into being on quick notice a huge army to back up our forces now scattered in the Mediterranean and the Far East.

Another plan is to notify the whole world that America will not stand idly by if aggression continues and that the United Nations is expected to take some action to denounce aggression such as has occurred in Czechoslovakia.

The explicit points in American policy may not be contained in the presidential message, for it may be found that the better course lies in an informal expression of the American viewpoint through diplomatic channels without undue publicity and some clear-cut action in the nature of military preparation so as to impress the Soviet leaders that words will be supported by physical force if necessary.

A theory prevails here that the Soviet chiefs are bluffing and that they think America will not rise to defend democracy or will not mobilize for the protection of the integrity of any European states. twice the government of Germany made the same mistake in incorrectly appraising the psychology of the people of the United States. What President Truman says this week is designed to prevent the Russians from misconstruing American forbearance as a sign of weakness or indifference to aggression.

The talk in the national capital for several days has been one of war. The fear has been expressed that war might suddenly be forced on America and that hence no time should be lost in mobilizing the armed forces for defense.

Russians May Recede

There is reason to believe that the Russians will recede if they really think America is in earnest. Certainly nobody familiar with the internal economic situation in Russia can sugest any reason why the present Soviet rulers could benefit by war at this time. In fact there might well be a revolution if the Russian people are dragged into another war so soon after the ending of World War II.

It should not be forgotten that the Russian people know little from their own press about the difficulties which the Russian government has piled up to prevent a peaceful settlement of the issues growing out of World War II. Any action, however, by the United States to warn against aggression, if anything so definite is expressed, would filter into Russia and would gain wide attention over a short period of time.

The showdown between Russia and the United States is near. It could mean war but the most probable outcome is a backdown by Russia and a move toward better relations with the United States.

Fair Play By Committees In Congress Held To Be Needed

By SAMUEL B. PETTENGILL

This column has reference to no person now under investigation by any Congressional committee. I want to make that plain. If Russian agents are prying into our military secrets, and if American citizens are helping them, they must be exposed.

But for a long time some Congressional committee members have gone far beyond the limits of fair play. That practice must stop. Senator Scott Lucas of Illinois has introduced a resolution providing that any person who thinks he has been defamed before a committee shall have the following rights:

(1) To file his own sworn statement in reply, which must be made a part of the permanent record of the hearings.

(2) To appear personally before a committee.

(3) To compel the committee to subpoena up to four witnesses in his behalf.

(4) The right of counsel.

(5) He, or his counsel, may cross examine witnesses.

(6) No committee report shall be issued until it has been approved by a majority of a quorum of the committee.

(7) No committee statement, or report, charging misconduct by any person shall be published or filed unless and until the person charged shall be advised of the charge and shall have a reasonable opportunity to defend himself.

Decries Sensational Attacks

If Congress is genuinely concerned about civil rights in this country, it should pass this, or some similar resolution, to govern its committees. It is intolerable that committee members, hungry for the headlines, should make sensational attacks on the good name of an American citizen in the newspapers or on the radio, and then give him no opportunity to defend himself.

The investigating powers of Congress are very important. Among its other duties, Congress is the great board of audit of the Federal government. It must expose corruption, waste, and traitors.

But, as Senator Lucas well says: "It is precisely because of the indispensable function of a Congressional committee in exposing corruption wherever it may be found that I feel the time is ripe for the reform of committee procedures . . . It is of the highest importance that these committees enjoy the unquestioned respect and confidence of the American peopple, for if they do not, they will lose their usefulness as the tools of Congress."

Congress is not a court. Except in the rare case of impeachment, or contempt of Congress, it has no power to try, fine or imprison anyone. Congressional committees could not observe all the rules of judicial trial, Time does not permit. Congress has too many other things to do.

Would Limit Number of Witnesses

Mr. Lucas' resolution wisely limits the number of witnesses, and the time to be spent in the defense of wounded reputations.

On the floor of the House or Senate, a member may talk freely. The Constitution wisely gives him this immunity. But rarely is this privilege abused. The Congressman knows his speaking in a public forum where fair play is expected—where hitting below the belt is almost certain to degrade the one who does it.

It is attacks in a committee room, where few members are present, or before newspaper reporters, or over the radio, that the Senator's resolution is designed to prevent.

In justice to Congress, most committees conduct their investigations with dignity, courtesy and fairness. It is the rotten apple that makes the barrel smell.

These Days

By GEORGE E. SOKOLSKY

Without Law

In a too little discussed dissenting opinion, Mr. Justice Jackson,, with the concurrence of Mr. Justice Frankfurter, laid low the Administrative Agencies of government most competently. It was the case of SEC v. Chenery Corporation, et al.

The case itself is of small importance. What it amounts to is that some officers and directors of the corporation bought on the open market some preferred stock of the company while a reorganization plan was pending with the SEC. No law, judicial precedent, regulation or rule of the SEC forbids the transaction. Nevertheless, the Commission ordered those who purchased this stock to sell it, but issued no similar order to others to do likweise, even though they made purchases at the same time. But the officers and directors had to obey the SEC, which holds a life-or-death power over such corporations.

These directors went into the Courts for relief, but found that although they were within the law, had violated no law, had done nothing which, at the moment, was illegal or an abuse of a well-established standard of conduct, they nevertheless lost their case. They lost it on the ground that the administrative experience of the SEC had to be upheld, law or no law.

It also was shown in this case that SEC had had no previous administrative experience in this particular type of matter; neverthele[ss] the lack of administrative experience had to be upheld! For what the Court said was:

"Hence, we refuse to say that the Commission, which had not previously been confronted with the problem of management trading during reorganization, was forbidden from utilizing this particular proceeding for announcing and applying a new standard of conduct."

To this, Mr Justice Jackson replied (concurred in by Mr. Justice Frankfurter):

"The Court's reasoning adds up to this: The Commission must be sustained because of its accumulated experience in solving a problem with which it had never before been confronted!"

In other words, SEC and the majority of the Court make their laws, apply them retroactively and produce a total anarchy. It is amazing how often the Administrative agencies go off on their own in precisely this manner, ignoring the law, redefining acts of Congress, functioning by whim and fancy. Justice Jackson asks:

"If it is of no consequence that no rule of laws be existent to support an administrative order, and the Court of Appeals is obliged to defer to administrative experience and to sustain a Commission's power merely because it has been asserted and exercised, of what use is it to print a record or briefs in the case, or to hear argument? . . ."

It might further be asked, why, if any agency of administration can do as it pleases, without regard to law, penalizing one group of citizens in the private interest of another—why, if this is possible, does Congress pass laws at all? Why not leave everything to the administrative experience of those who have had no experience?

I want to quote this important statement by Mr. Justice Jackson:

"The truth is that in this decision the Court approves the Commission's assertion of power to govern the matter without law, power to force surrender of stock so purchased whenever it will, and power also to overlook such acquisitions if it so chooses. The reasons which will lead it to take one course as against the other remain locked in its own breast, and it has not and apparently does not intend to commit them to any rule or regulation. This administrative authoritarianism, this power to decide without law, is what the Court seems to approve in so many words: 'The absence of a general rule or regulation government management trading during reorganization did not affect the Commission's duties . . .' This seems to me to undervalue and to belittle the place of law, even in the system of administrative justice. It calls to mind Mr. Justice Cardozo's statement that 'law as a guide to conduct is reduced to the level of mere futility if it is unknown and unknowable.'"

It is a hopeful sign that there are at least two Justices on the Supreme Court of the United States who respect the law. Perhaps in time there will be more.

Leisure To Admire And Enjoy

A third of our lives is spent in bed, for rest. The remainder of our time upon this earth is spent in work, but each of us should reserve a liberal portion of this time merely for leisure to admire and enjoy the wonderful things upon this earth as our inheritance.

No matter how many times I look upon a scene that attracts my eye, never do I tire of another look, or meditation. The little island home of mine in Nova Scotia, where I have spent 18 summers, is ever new to me. I have not exhausted one thousandth part of its beauty and appeal. Every summer I discover many new things of interest there. The friendliness of a flower, shrub, or tree remains. And I am welcomed by my scampering red squirrels who almost know me by name!

Every meeting of a friend is a new experience. There is always something new to learn about each, and something new to be loved. The pictures upon my walls, and the books lined upon their shelves, in colorful garments, greet me anew each day of my life. For 25 years I have lived in the same home—but every day, as I look out upon the surrounding grounds, I see something new and interesting. Now that the snow is fast disappearing, I look upon the green grass of Springtime, and soon the buds will begin to appear. Every Springtime is a new revelation to admire and enjoy.

There is a certain sympathy and understanding that ties one to all beauty; and to take the time for leisure in such enjoyment is to drink deeply into a refreshing Spring that never runs dry. Old scenes ever become new scenes. How wonderful if we could all say, with Thoreau, that "my wealth is not possession, but enjoyment."

How brief is our time at its most. How immeasurely brief is the leisure that we take for admiration and enjoyment of the things that are so fresh and lavish—at our very feet as we beat our familiar paths from day to day. Can we not spare a little time for prayer and meditation that we may the more appreciate the rich beauty all about us?

Baering Down On The News

By ARTHUR "BUGS" BAER

We must watch China where the incidents are accidents and the accidents happen to the occidents.

Ripley is going back there next month and everything will be all right if he can get them marching again.

Things were much better over there when Floyd Gibbons had them fighting for the evening editions.

Wedemeyer and Marshall agree now that we must help China. That shows the war is over. Those two lads were getting along like two strange bulldogs in one collar.

If the $570,000,000 China appropriation is chicken feed it explains the price of eggs.

Move To Abolish Orphans Courts Will Be Discussed

BALTIMORE, March 16—(AP)—The advisability of scrapping Maryland's orphans courts will be discussed tomorrow before the Legislative Council.

Members of a State Bar Association committee are slated to present the case for abolition of the tribunals. Their parent group already is on record as favoring elimination of the courts.

The jurisdictions of the orphans courts would be taken over by circuit courts if the bar association proposal should be translated into law. The move to abolish the courts is regarded as highly controversial by the lawmakers.

Proposed Bay Highway Link Hits New Squalls

SANDY POINT, Md., March 16 (AP)—Maryland's proposed highway link between the Eastern and Western Shores—not yet in the blueprint stage—ran into new squalls today.

High winds over Chesapeake Bay have been blowing piledriver scows out of position, the contractor said. He estimated that test borings may not be completed until May, two months behind schedule.

And one opponent blew cold on the whole plan for a $30,000,000 toll bridge or tunnel across the bay.

Former Mayor Theodore R. McKeldin said in Baltimore that a trans-bay road would "change that shore tradition of more than 300 years of graceful living."

Real estate agents already are busy cutting tidewater property into small lots and threaten to rob the shore of its "atmosphere," he said.

James H. Hunter Weds Miss Margaret Cosgrove

Rev. Bowersox Performs Ceremony

Miss Margaret Cosgrove, granddaughter of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Frantz, 126 Frederick Street, with whom she lives, and daughter of Orville W. Cosgrove, 116 Independence Street, became the bride of James H. Hunter, YMCA, son of Alfred Hunter, Frostburg, and the late Mrs. Elizabeth Kelso Hunter, last night.

The wedding ceremony was solemnized at 7:30 in the parsonage of St. Paul's Lutheran Church, with Rev. H. T. Bowersox officiating. Miss Maxine Reuschel was the maid of honor and the bride's only attendant. Boyd Hunter served as his brother's best man.

The bride was attired in a cinnamon brown wool suit of the new bustle type fashion; with it she wore beige colored accessories, a beige straw hat trimmed with pink rosebuds. A corsage of pink rosebuds and camelias completed her costume. Her attendant wore a gray tweed suit with red accessories and a corsage of red carnations and gardenias.

The bride is a graduate of Allegany High School and is employed by the G. C. Murphy Company. The bridegroom, who attended Fort Hill High School, served two years in the Navy, with duty in the Pacific, and will graduate from Fort Hill in June, having re-entered at the close of the war.

Mrs. Donald Wilson and Mrs. Frantz, aunt and grandmother of the bride, entertained with a reception in honor of the bridal party at the home of the former, 639 Bedford Street, following the ceremony. A tiered wedding cake topped with a miniature bride and bridegroom centere the table, an spring flowers, with sweet peas predominating, decorated the house. Mrs. Bessie Wilson assisted in serving.

Mr. Hunter and his bride will reside at 126 Frederick Street.

B And P Women Plan Student Loan, Vocational Panel

The Business and Professional Women's Club held its regular dinner meeting last night at Central YMCA, with Miss Anne Tennant presiding. The business consisted of a discussion of the establishment of a student loan fund and plans for making the first loan will be made at the executive board meeting, to be held March 23, at the home of Miss Tennant, Greene Street.

Three new members were welcomed into the club. They were Miss Jeannette Bonig, Miss Dorothy Byers and Miss Margaret Neumann.

The Educational and Vocational committee was in charge of the program with Miss Gerardine Pritchard chairman. It was given in the form of a symposium on "How Can the Business and Professional Women Help Young Women of Cumberland?" Mrs. Karl Perry acted as moderator.

Everstine Mitchell, a senior at Allegany High School, was the first speaker and suggested that the Business and Professional Women could acquaint the young women with vocations available in the community, through lectures by leading people in those occupations, publishing annual booklets on vocations in the area, sponsoring educational trips to larger cities, establishing student loan funds and offering scholarships.

Maryjane Edwards, senior at State Teachers College, speaking on a student loan fund, asked vocational and college guidance programs provided and continued in college, and that small prizes for literary work be provided.

Kathryn Schade, student nurse at Memorial Hospital and president of the student asociation, stressed the need of recreation for the students, and suggested the nurses be helped by providing movies of entertaining, educational, civic and religions nature, more books to read and a scholarship and loan fund for nurses.

Catherine Lippold, insurance agent, emphasized scholarships and speakers on vocations.

Miss Dorothy Byers and George Brewer, vocational guidance advisors at Allegany and Fort Hill, were guest speakers and re-emphasized the value of loans, library facilities, films on ocupations for both schools and sponsoring marriage clinics.

If frozen pork is stored too long the fat will gradually become rancid and the meat will lose its best flavor.

Court Cardinal Gibbons Becomes Largest In State

Court Cardinal Gibbons 529, Catholic Daughters of America, topped Court Baltimore, Baltimore, in membership when 16 new members were received into the local court Sunday, at St. Patrick's Social Center. The new members are Mrs. Thelma Page, Mrs. Esther Travis, Mrs. Mary Barncord, Mrs. Mary Leydig, Mrs. Ruth Lippold, Mrs. Mary Bennett, Mrs. Rosemary Simpson, Mrs. Gladys Connelly, Miss Josephine Guido, Mrs. Angiolina Guido, Mrs. Nettie Valentine, Mrs. Angela Rice, Mrs. Lillian Smith, Mrs. Mary Preskorn, Miss Helene Noon and Mrs. Josephine Turner, a transfer from the Martinsburg, W. She will be assisted by Mrs. Conn, Decorations, Entertainment and Bridge chairman; Mrs. Nave, Tickets; Mrs. Tracy, Games, and Mrs. Marjory Ziler and Mrs. Kilroy, 500. Three new members received were Mrs. Leo Lueck, Mrs. John Rittenberg and Mrs. Marie Twigg.

Miss Dreschler complimented the retiring officers on their term and read a poem, "Making Friends." On behalf of the club the Entertainment committee presented gifts to Mrs. Kilroy, Mrs. Karl Bachman, Mrs. Nave and Mrs. Conn, retiring officers. Mrs. Conn received the $5 prize given by Mrs. Kilroy for bringing in the most members in 1947, and gifts were presented to Mrs. Nave and Mrs. Conn by Mrs. Kilroy.

The program consisted of accordion and marimba selections by Carl and Jean Marker and a medley of popular pieces on the accordion by DeLisle Henry. There were 49 members and six guests from Connellsville present.

Young Women's Group Plans Various Activities

Plans to have Mrs. Elinor Westerfield, secretary of the Welfare Board, as guest speaker at the next meeting were formulated at the meeting of the Young Business Women's Group of First Presbyterian Church Monday night at the home of Miss Betty Bright, The Dingle.

Mrs. John McBee appointed Mrs. Ralph Wilson, Mrs. William Frey and Mrs. Henry Lowery to be in charge of a rummage sale to be held April 23 at 7:30 in the lecture hall. It also was decided to invite the members of the church choir to attend the swimming party in June at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Gilbert Miller.

A book review of "The Bishop's Mantle" was given by Mrs. Karl Perry. Mrs. Lowery conducted the devotionals and Mrs. James Gear was co-hostess.

Hairdressers Group Names Committee, Plans Dance

The Allegany Hairdressers and Cosmetologist Association met Monday night for a dinner-session at Central YMCA, with Mrs. Virginia Powell presiding. A Legislative committee was appointed and plans formulated for a spring dance.

Miss Nyna Fey was named chairman of the Legislative committee and will be assisted by Mrs. Clarabelle Colomy, Mrs. Madeline Dahl, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Irene Critzman and Mrs. Myrtle Stratton.

The spring dance will be held April 16 at Clary Club, with music by the Modernaires. Tickets are on sale at all national cosmetologist shops. Mrs. Stratton is chairman of the dance committee, assisted by Mrs. Wilda Boor. The ushers will be Miss Mary Cessna, Mrs. Esther Smith, Mrs. Katherine Wilton.

Guest speaker of the evening was Miss Patricia Daugherty, a chemist, who spoke on chemical analysis of cold waving. The meeting opened with the group singing of "America the Beautiful," with Mrs. Clarabelle Colomy at the piano. Mrs. Katherine Welton gave the treasurer's report; Mrs. Leora Lewis, Sunshine chairman, reported cards had been sent to Mrs. Irene Critzman and Mrs. Mamie Scott. Two new members were welcomed, Mrs. Katherine Spruil and Mrs. Madeline Dahl.

Attending were Mrs. Wilda Boor, Miss Edith Crabtree, Miss Nyna Fey, Mrs. Ruby Griffith, Mrs. Georgia Robertson, Mis Eloise Rodriquez, Mrs. Stratton, Mrs. Pauline Smith, Mrs. Martha Wolford, Miss Thurma Lee Cassell, Miss Mary Cesna, Miss Elsie Henry, Mrs. Alberta Lindner, Miss Alverta Pyles, Mrs. Esther Smith, Mrs. Virginia Sunderlin and Mrs. Mildred Spicer.

To Have St. Patrick Party

Extinguish Grass Fire

East Side Fire Company extinguished a grass fire yesterday morning which burned over an acre of ground on the west side of Wills Mountain. Firemen said the blaze, which raged for about 40 minutes, could have endangered several houses in the area.

Argentina Reverses One Price Cut Move

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Argentine police had to slow up their campaign against stores which charge too much to look for a storekeeper accused of charging too little.

Enforcement of price control laws here is left to police. From 10 to 30 merchants are fined every day and their stores closed two to five days. Mostly it is for such things as "selling non-alcoholic drinks with a profit of 850 per cent" to quote one sentence. The highest profit found so far was made by a man in Cordoba who made a profit of 14,500 per cent on sales of construction steel.

But complaints from a shoe wholesaler brought up the other case. He said a man starting a new store bought $100,000 worth of shoes from him on credit. When he tried to collect, he found the man had sold them for less than production cost and had disappeared with the money.

Exfinguish Grass Fire

East Side Fire Company extinguished a grass fire yesterday morning which burned over an acre of ground on the west side of Wills Mountain. Firemen said the blaze, which raged for about 40 minutes, could have endangered several houses in the area.

Argentina Reverses One Price Cut Move

BUENOS AIRES—(AP)—Argentine police had to slow up their campaign against stores which charge too much to look for a storekeeper accused of charging too little.

Enforcement of price control laws here is left to police. From 10 to 30 merchants are fined every day and their stores closed two to five days. Mostly it is for such things as "selling non-alcoholic drinks with a profit of 850 per cent" to quote one sentence. The highest profit found so far was made by a man in Cordoba who made a profit of 14,500 per cent on sales of construction steel.

But complaints from a shoe wholesaler brought up the other case. He said a man starting a new store bought $100,000 worth of shoes from him on credit. When he tried to collect, he found the man had sold them for less than production cost and had disappeared with the money.

Keyser Officials Table Survey Of Street Lighting

Signal Light Control Will Be Installed

By JUNE B. ROLLEY

KEYSER, W. Va.—A survey of street lighting in this community, made by T. Warner Lowry, manager of the Potomac Light and Power Company here, was ordered tabled until July 1 by Mayor John C. Freeland and the City Council at a meeting Monday.

Lowry recommended that street lights be extended to some sections of town, with an increase in wattage for other lights. The survey was tabled because of the limited street lighting budget.

Work on the traffic light control system to be installed at the intersection of Main and Armstrong Streets is scheduled to begin today, Lowry said. He explained an extension cord with a push button will enable traffic officers to change the signals when not standing direcly at the traffic light.

The request of a Potomac Heights resident that the city sewer system be extended to that section was referred to William F. Waller, county health officer. City officials explained Potomac Heights is outside the corporate limits but that state aid might be available for building sewer lines.

Orice Urice, a resident of Armstrong Street extended, asked that the city water and sewer lines be extended to that part of town. Urice pointed out that there are approximately eight or ten families in that section who do not have access to city water or sewerage disposal.

City officers said that due to the limited budget it would be impossible to extend sewer lines at this time, but that consideration would be given to extending the water lines.

Mrs. I. N. Gerard was granted a permit to construct a four-room frame bungalow at 118 D Street. The structure will measure 16 by 16 feet and will cost approximately $400.

Edgar M. Paugh was granted a permit to construct a six-room dwelling at the rear of Lot 3, 36 Sharpless Street. The structure, to be of concrete block, 20 by 24 feet, will cost $1,200.

G. E. Pifer was granted permission to construct a five-room house on Lot No. 86, Maple Avenue. The frame structure is to be 26 by 36 feet and will cost $6,000.

Elk Garden Man Fined

Lee Hershberger, Elk Garden, who was charged with being drunk by Justice of the Peace Lee Ellifritz, Blaine, was fined $10 and costs at a hearing before Justice of the Peace Madalyn Bazzle Monday evening.

Also appearing before Justice Bazzle were William E. Bowman, Antioch, who was fined $10 and costs for permitting an unlicensed person to drive his automobile, and Melvin Thomas Likens, New Creek, who was fined $25 and costs for being drunk. He was arrested on New Creek Drive by Sgt. H. R. Shields of the Moorefield detachment of the West Virginia State Police.

Bonds Forfeited

Bonds forfeited in City Court Monday totaled $70. Joseph Thomas, Ambridge County, Pa., was arrested by City Police Saturday night after his car struck a parked car at the intersection of East and Armstrong Streets. Thomas, who was charged with reckless driving, failed to appear for his hearing Monday afternoon before City Judge A. A. Jordan.

Also failing to appear were B. A. Smith, Headsville, and Arthur Miller, McMullen Highway. Both were charged with being drunk.

Clarence Clark Dies

Clarence Miller Clark, 72, a retired Baltimore and Ohio carman, died suddenly at his home in McCoole, Md., Monday evening at 6:30 o'clock.

Mr. Clark was born in Westernport, Md., April 20, 1875, a son of the late Simon and Elisa Jane Dayton Clark. He was a member of the Brotherhood of Carmen, Junior Order of United American Mechanics and of the Evangelical United Brethren Church, Keyser.

He is survived by four sons, Wallace, Lawrence and Clarence, Jr., all of McCoole; and Horace Clark, West Piedmont Street, Keyser; five daughters, Miss Bettie Clark, at home; Mrs. Ruth Bodkin, and Mrs. Beatrice Bodkin, McMullen Highway; Mrs. Alma Dayton and Mrs. Lura Mallow, McCoole; two sisters, Mrs. Sexta Hitt, Luke, Md., and Mrs. D. J. Chestire, Piedmont; 15 grandchildren and six great-grandchildren.

A funeral service will be held Thursday afternoon at 2:30 at the Evangelical United Brethren Church, with Rev. R. L. Brill, Verona, Va., a former pastor, officiating. Interment will be in Dawson Cemetery.

Red Cross Reports Urged

Mineral County Red Cross fund drive workers are urged by Chester C. Compton and James H. Swadley, Jr., to make reports of their contributions in order that an overall report may be completed.

Compton stated that mailing of letters to organizations in the community requesting donations to the Red Cross fund has been delayed unavoidably. He said all lodges, churches, clubs, and civic organizations are requested to make a contribution. Checks should be mailed to James A. Robey, chairman of the organization division, 473½ West Piedmont Street.

600 Attend Concert

Julius Huehn, Metropolitan Opera baritone, who appeared in a concert at the Keyser High School auditorium Monday night, was well received by the more than 600 members of the Keyser Community Concert Association.

His program ranged from operatic arias to familiar American folk songs. As one of his encores, he sang the ever popular "Home On The Range."

Galen Lurwick, an accomplished pianist, presented two solos and an encore selection.

The appearance of Mr. Huehn marked the second of a series of three concerts to be presented in Keyser this year by the association. The final concert will be a piano recital by Abbey Simon, of the Columbia Concert Association, New York.

Miss Michael Dies

Miss Anna B. Michael, 82, died at the home of her brother, Porter Michael, 167 South Mineral Street, Monday evening following a short illness.

A daughter of the late George and Rebecca Jenkins Michael, she resided in Westernport, Md., and vicinity before moving to Keyser five years ago.

She is survived by two brothers, Cleavor A. Michael, Westernport, and L. Porter Michael, Keyser.

A service will be conducted at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, Thursday at 2:30 p. m., with Rev. R. L. Moore, pastor of Trinity Methodist Church, Piedmont, officiating. He will be assisted by Rev. H. S. Myerly, pastor of Keyser Grace Methodist Church. Burial will be in Philos Cemetery, Westernport.

Brief Mention

Mr. and Mrs. James De Stefano, Washington, D. C., announce the birth of a daughter at Potomac Valley Hospital Monday afternoon.

Recent admissions to the hospital include Mrs. Freda Cosner, Bismark; Mrs. Elsie Cheshire, Westernport, and Austin Gardner, Keyser.

NEW YORK (AP)—From 1940 to 1947 the population of U. S. Pacific coast states increased about 40 per cent.

An American, Eli Whitney, invented the cotton gin in 1793. Before this invention it took a worker ten hours to pull the seeds from two pounds of cotton.

There are about 245,000 grade and high schools in the United States.

State Pays $38,588 To Local Hospitals

Memorial and Allegany Hospitals received a total of $38,588.50 from the State of Maryland during the fiscal year ending June 30, 1947, it was announced yesterday.

The Comptroller's report listed $20,077 paid to Memorial and $18,511.50 to Allegany during that year.

In addition $31,325 was spent from the general fund and $54,249.19 from the special fund for Miners' Hospital, Frostburg, which is state operated. The special fund for Miners' had an unspent balance of $10,607.12.

Judge Henderson Injures His Foot

Associate Judge George Henderson suffered a severe puncture wound of his right foot Sunday while walking in woods near the city, and is able to get about only with use of a cane.

Judge Henderson said he was looking over some land where scrub oak had recently been cleared, and stepped on a sharp spike-like oak stubble which punctured his foot at the instep. He was treated at Memorial Hospital, where he was taken in his car by Mrs. Henderson.

Police Probe Larcenies

The theft of two flashlights from Evans-Sinclair Service Station, Henderson Avenue and Fulton Street, reported yesterday at 5 a. m., is being investigated by police who said the intruders forced a window in the rear of the building to gain entrance.

The first railroad in Albania was completed in 1947.

Trespasser Sentenced In Default Of Fine

Charged with trespassing on Baltimore and Ohio Railroad property, Wilson H. Lantz, Williams Road, was sentenced to serve seven days in the County Jail in default of $5 fine and costs imposed yesterday in Trial Magistrates Court. He pleaded not guilty.

The Porter brothers also forfeited a joint bond of $24 when they failed to appear before Magistrate Perdew, Monday on a charge of disorderly conduct and disturbing the peace in connection with the incident. The pair was arrested by State Trooper William E. McElfish.

Earl Robisson, Williams Road, was released on $500 bond Saturday for action of the April grand jury on a paternity charge.

Held For Investigation

A man identified as William Keller, 11 Smith Street, was arrested at 10:12 a. m. yesterday and is being held at police headquarters for investigation.

Twelve Area Men Enlist In Army

Twelve area men, including five ex-servicemen, were sent to Baltimore yesterday for processing after enlisting at the local Army and Air Force recruiting station, according to Capt. Laurence M. Bairstow.

The veterans are Harold Lewis Robinette, 1010 Harding Avenue; Paul William Berg, Jordan Run, W. Va.; Raymond Eston Ault, Petersburg, W. Va.; Virgil Talford Kuykendall, Moorefield, W. Va.; and Edward Eugene Cartwright, Oldtown, who was wounded in combat.

Other enlistees are Guy Simmons, Jr., Bedford Street; Paul Keplinger, Route 2, Keyser; Justin Lewis Turner, Jordan Run, W. Va.; Jack Franklin Hood, Jr., Keyser; Richard Lee Day, Anego, W. Va.; Victor Curtis Yokum, Route 2, Keyser, and Herman Turner, Onego, W. Va.

Farm Prices Past Peak, Cooperative Members Are Told

W. T. Steele Speaks At Annual Assembly

Farm prices probably have passed their peak, unless 1948 crop yields fall far below average, W. T. Steele, Richmond, Va., director of wholesale services at Southern States Cooperative, told the local board and farm home committee members attending an annual mid-winter regional conference last night at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Calling attention to the recent break in grain and livestock prices, Steele stated that no serious shortage of feed is likely before 1948 grain crops become available. Fertilizer is most critically scarce among the major farm production supplies, he said. Seeds, except for red, mammoth and ladino clover, probably will be plentiful. A number of items made of steel, particularly fencing, roofing, barbed wire, nails and galvanized roofing, still are generally short.

Attending the conferences were local Southern States representatives from Cumberland, Romney, Moorefield, Midland, Oldtown, Keyser, and Grantsville.

Roy C. F. Weagly, Baltimore, a member of the Southern States board of directors, presided at the session, which also was attended by several agricultural workers as guests of Southern States, and by managers of Cooperative service agencies in the area.

Steele, in delivering a report by Southern States' management to local board members for the first half of the 1947-48 fiscal year, pointed out that service volume was up 47 per cent over that of the same period last year.

As evidence of increased efficiency, made possible by greater volume, it was pointed out that the per unit cost of manufacturing was down slightly in spite of higher operating costs all along the line.

The Cooperative's net worth on December 31 had reached a high of almost $16,000,000.

A report on individual services provided members by the Cooperative brought out these highlights:

Feed — In spite of high prices, liquidation of livestock and poultry and, in some instances, less favorable feeding ratios, 25 per cent more feed was manufactured and distributed.

Fertilizer — Although materials were severely limited, more fertilizer was distributed than in the fall of 1946.

Feed — Volume was up about 15 per cent.

Farm Supplies — An increase in volume of 46 per cent and substantial increases in the number of units distributed, as well.

Marketing Services — Dressed poultry: up 35 per cent. Eggs: down 25 per cent as a result of a general decrease in production. Grain: newest and most rapidly growing marketing service provided by Southern States; volume for the first six months 225 per cent greater than for the same period in 1946.

The speaker pointed out that Southern States paid a total of $289,672.85 in taxes during the fiscal year ended last June 30. The only tax of any consequence not paid by the Cooperative is Federal income tax. Southern States, being a bona fide, non-profit farm cooperative, has no income of its own and, therefore, qualified for Federal income tax exemption. Any margins or patronage refunds of Southern States belong to the individual member and are taxable in his hands.

B. and O. Carloadings For Week Decline

Carloads handled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the week ending March 13 totaled 66,111 which, when compared with 68,667 of the same week of last year, is a decline of 2,556.

Total loaded on line was 41,737 with 24,374 received from connections.

Grass Fire Extinguished

Draft Boards Have Been "Standing By"

Allegany County draft boards have remained on a "standby" basis since their duties were officially terminated over a year ago, board officials said yesterday.

The four county boards are prepared to resume activities immediately if necessary, officials said in connection with Washington reports that President Truman may ask for a new selective service law in his speech today before a joint session of Congress.

Most people think that when they get out of work and cannot find a job, they are entitled to draw "Social Security" because they have paid in the tax. No deduction is ever made from a worker's wages for unemployment compensation. Employers who come under the Unemployment Compensation Law pay a tax on their employe's earnings but deduct nothing from the employe's wages. This is a tax that only the employer has to pay.

DEATHS

DR. HENRY M. WEISMAN

A funeral service will be held in New York City Thursday for Dr. Henry M. Weisman, of that city, who died Tuesday morning at the Bronx Hospital.

He was the father of Dr. S. G. Weisman, 122 Bedford Street, this city.

MRS. MARIAN ANTHONY

Mrs. Marian Anthony, formerly of 109 South Lee Street, this city, died Monday at the home of her son, Alvin E. Anthony, Brownwood, Tex. She left Cumberland several months ago to reside with her son in Brownwood.

The body will be brought to the George Funeral Home here.

DURST SERVICE

A funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, for Miss Semilda Durst, 74, a native and former resident of Barton, who was fatally burned Saturday afternoon at her home, 470 Goethe Street.

Rev. M. A. Keesecker, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, officiated. Interment was in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Moscow.

Pallbearers were Frank, Howard, Olin, James and Charles Magruder, all cousins, and J. H. Phillips.

Testimony Ends On One-Cent Case At Celanese Plant

Local 1874, TWUA, Will Meet Tonight

Verbal testimony was completed yesterday at the Court House in the dispute regarding the distribution of a one-cent differential provided in last May's contract to adjust wage inequalities charged by the union at the Celanese plant.

The company and the union had decided, prior to the beginnings of the hearings several months ago, on the distribution of some 30 per cent of the about $180,000 involved in the settlement.

In the testimony yesterday before David E. Cole, Philadelphia, the company and the union presented arguments on the last portions of the warp knit department case, and all testimony for the finished fabric examination-warehouse case and the cafeteria section.

Parties to the disputes were accompanying the arbitrator last night on visits to the plant to study specific job assignments involved in the dispute.

A full report on the meeting of the TWUA Rayon Advisory council last weekend will be presented at a membership meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Also scheduled for action is a proposal to increase expense allowances of Local 1874's delegates to the TWUA convention.

The Celanese local will also discuss and act on Local 1874's affiliation with the co-operative movement in this area.

Herbert W. Payne, TWUA rayon director, said after the council meeting that "substantial" wage increases will be sought from the nation's rayon manufacturers within the next two months.

Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, yesterday advised Rep. J. Glenn Beall of the local's opposition to revision of the Rent Control Act, in accordance to the TWUA policy of retaining provisions of the existing rent control law.

The House, however, passed the Local Option bill by a 251-132 vote, with Rep. Beall voting for the measure which would give full control to local rent control boards.

Bird Drawing Contest Held At Mt. Royal

Bird drawings submitted by members of the fifth grade bird club at Mt. Royal School will remain on exhibition at the school for the remainder of this week, according to Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman of the Allegany County Bird Club.

Prize winners in the contest held recently by children of the club are Jack Hoffman and Richard Ayers, who submitted original drawings of a redwing blackbird and a meadowlark, respectively. Miss Althea Fuller, principal, acted as judge. Mrs. Kathleen B. Sullivan is teacher of the fifth grade.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Miller said that representatives of junior bird clubs will hold a workshop session Thursday night from 7 to 9 at Mt. Royal School to prepare markers for two nature trails to be established on the outskirts of the city in May. Mrs. Myra Taylor, Frostburg, and Miss Nan Livingstone will be in charge.

Cheese Clinic Held For Retail Grocers

R. Southerland, Pittsburgh, Pa., cheese expert, outlined the history, production, uses and display of cheese at a meeting of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland last night.

Albert E. Windish, president, presided at the meeting held in the La-Vale Fire Hall, and Ralph F. Sell was in charge of the program which followed a brief business meeting.

Southerland's assistant, J. Joynson, showed a motion picture showing in detail how domestic cheeses are produced.

The next meeting of the association, to be held April 20, will be the annual membership meeting.

Key Stamps Go On Sale In Frederick August 9

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) announced today that the Frederick, Md., post office will handle exclusive first-day sale of a special Francis Scott Key commemorative stamp.

The first sale will be on August 9, the 50th anniversary of the unveiling of the Francis Scott Key monument in Frederick.

Frederick County was the birthplace of the Star Spangled Banner composer.

Statewide Conservation Rally Will Be Held In Baltimore March 23

Louis Bromfield To Give Address

A statewide conservation rally sponsored by the recently organized Maryland chapter of Friends of the Land, will be held next Tuesday, March 23, at the Sheraton-Belvedere Hotel in Baltimore.

Among the directors of the state chapter, which includes many of Maryland's most prominent farmers, bankers and industrialists, are Bernard I. Gonder, former state senator from Garrett County; and R. Paul Smith, Hagerstown, president of the Potomac Edison Company.

Maryland is the 27th active chapter of Friends of the Land, which was organized in 1940 to aid state agencies in preserving and restoring natural resources.

Louis Bromfield, noted novelist who is vice president of the national organization, will discuss "Grass Land Farming" at the Baltimore meeting. Bromfield has spoken in Cumberland on various occasions.

Gov. William Preston Lane, Jr., will discuss "Conservation in Maryland," and a talk on pollution will be given by Paul W. McKee, executive secretary of the Maryland Water Pollution Control Commission.

Other speakers include Dr. T. B. Symons, chairman of the state soil conservation committee; Dr. Robert M. Overbech of the Department of Geology, Mines and Water Resources; H. C. Buckingham, director of the Department of State Forests and Parks; Ernest A. Vaughn, director of the Department of Game and Inland Fish; John E. Clark, chairman of the Department of Tidewater Fisheries, and Dr. R. V. Truitt, director of the Department of Research and Education.

Holmes D. Baker, Frederick, president of Maryland chapter, will preside.

Board Is Told More County Road Repairs Needed

County Commissioners indicated yesterday some immediate repairs must be made to Mill Run Road, near Westernport, to make it passable, and that the roadway will be put at the top of the hard-surfacing list for next year.

John J. Smith, acting county engineer, reported on the condition of the road, following last week's complaints, and said breakers should be put in to drain off water which is damaging the road. The roadway is used by coal trucks and miners, as there are several deep and strip mine operations along the route.

A total of 160 feet of 15-inch pipe will be needed to replace drain pipes on a road in Bowman's Addition, according to Smith. The Volunteer Fire Company of that community had asked the work be done prior to a convention of the Allegany-Garrett County Volunteer Firemen's Association next month at the Fire Hall.

William Fitzpatrick, Cresap Park, requested repairs to the road near his home and elimination of a water hole alongside the roadway. His request was referred to Smith.

Oliver Lewis, Cresaptown, asked relief from a situation caused by water running from a vacant lot onto an alley adjacent to his property. Lewis said the alley is almost impassable and that the water also flooded his cellar. Smith will check the situation and report back to the board.

Joseph Steele asked for shaling of the Water Station Road near Lonaconing. His request was referred to Smith.

The clerk to the board was ordered to write to Herbert H. Collins, secretary-treasurer of the Maryland Trappers Association, that the county has no power to take the bounties off wild game listed as predators by the Inland Game and Fish Commission.

Collins had written the board and enclosed a copy of a booklet which showed that New York state had found the bounty system was costly and of not much use.

Rubber Workers Plan Vote On Contract Changes

Kelly Local To Open Wage Talks April 12

Two proposed additions to the Local 26, United Rubber, Cork, Linoleum and Plastic Workers of America, CIO, contract with the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company will be submitted for membership approval at a meeting of the local Sunday afternoon at 2:30 o'clock.

A. E. Johnson, union president, said the union negotiating committee and the company have agreed on the amendments which involve seniority rights in transfers made due to age or health conditions.

The additions would amend Article 7, Section 11, which applies to the Power Division, and Section 11, which would affect the rest of the tire plant.

Union officials said the change was negotiated to protect the seniority of workers who are required to transfer to other jobs due to age or health conditions.

Also to be submitted to the membership is a proposal involving the seniority rights of employes of Departments 33, 34 and 37-K at the Kelly plant.

The union announced that Local 26 has been notified that it is now certified for the use of the National Labor Relations Board. Union data, including non-Communist affidavits, was forwarded to the NLRB in February.

Local 26 expects to begin wage negotiations with the Kelly firm April 12, Johnson said, adding the local will decide, in the near future, what is to be asked in the wage talks. Local 26 reported some time ago that some of the 30 cent rate set by the union policy committee will be used for a welfare program.

The union's executive board, at a meeting last night, announced that Local 26 did not endorse either Roy W. Eves or Thomas S. Post for mayor of Cumberland. John F. Chisholm, treasurer of the local, spoke as an individual and not with the authority of the union in a speech during the campaign this week, the board said.

The union said it has taken no official stand on any candidate in the election.

RIU To Petition For Two Crafts Of Railway Soon

The Railroad Industrial Union will petition for bargaining rights for Western Maryland Railway electricians and power house and railway shop laborers as soon as eight more application cards are received from members of the crafts, Elmer E. Davis, this city, RIU president, announced.

He said that as soon as three more electricians and five more shop laborers apply for RIU membership, the union will petition for a National Labor Relations Board election for the two crafts.

Davis added the union already has 50 per cent of the 53 electricians and 160 power house and shop laborers, but wants a few more applications before the election is asked.

More than 40 per cent of two other crafts, machinists and yard switchmen, have enrolled and the RIU expects to ask bargaining rights for these crafts in the near future. Hagerstown, Davis added, is lagging behind in the drive.

The union has been holding open meetings in Cumberland, Baltimore and Hagerstown in recent weeks in a drive to represent all Western Maryland workers, and Davis said many applications have been received as a result of the meetings.

Davis expects to leave here this week for Kansas City, Kan., to speak to members of the Operating Railroad Employes who recently made a bid for RIU representation.

Turkey did not like Russia's attitude toward the United States, Brock said.

"Turkey will fight at the slightest provocation when Russia heads for the Middle East," Brock declared. "The United States must learn from Turkey to be tough with the Russians."

Commenting on the failure of the United Nations, Brock revealed that after the General Assemblys "collapse" last year there was a 10-minute secret conference between top military leaders among Russian and American members.

An American military leader, Brock said, stated at that time that America was preparing for the inevitable war which the United States would win.

A Russian leader responded that the Soviets have been preparing for war for a long time. The Russian said the Western Allies could ultimately defeat Russia and her satellites but would lose five million men in the war, with five million more needed to patrol Eastern Europe and the Soviet Union.

Brock quoted the Russian leader as adding that the systems of both Soviet Russia and the United States would be erased by the war, but that the new form of government which would arise would be more like the present Russian form than the American.

Election Held

During the 75-minute discussion forum held following his talk, Brock named Eisenhower and Senator Vandenberg of Michigan as two capable potential leaders, adding he believes Vandenberg will be the Republican candidate for president.

The club held its annual election of officers. Re-elected were Thomas Lohr Richards, president; Mrs. H. Albert Dean, vice president; Winfield H. Adam, secretary-treasurer, and two directors, Mrs. John J. Hafer and Robert Little Ebert. Edgar Vandegrift was named a director to succeed Harold R. Fletcher. All will serve for one year.

Mrs. A. N. Golladay was chairman of the nominating committee.

Kingsley Class To Entertain Tomorrow

The Faithful Workers Class of Kingsley Methodist Church will entertain the husbands and boy friends of members at a covered dish dinner at 6:30 tomorrow night at the church. Mrs. Ethel Adams will preside and the St. Patrick's Day theme will be carried out in the decorations. Rev. Mrs. M. A. Keesecker and their family will also be guests.

A Dr. I. Q. quiz program conducted by Leonard E. Adams will feature the program, which will also include other contests and games.

The committee in charge is under the chairmanship of Mrs. Edward Kirk and Mrs. Waltrude Bell.

The next business meeting will be held April 29.

Ridgeley Soldier Weds English Girl

Announcement has been made of the marriage of Miss Elizabeth Margaret Daly, Wolverhampton Staffs, England, to Sgt. Charles B. Fair, son of Mr. and Mrs. C. J. Fair, Ridgeley. The ceremony was performed December 24, 1947, in Holy Rosary Hall, Wolverhampton, by Rev. Father Broderick, St. Joseph's parish.

Sgt. Fair is stationed with the Chemical Corps of the United States Army at the Nahau Chemical Depot, Hanau, Germany, where he and his bride will reside. Prior to entering the service in 1942 he was employed in the Celanese Corporation's acetone recovery department. He is a past commander of Knobley Mountain Post 136, American Legion.

Honored At Party

Edward J. McMillian was the guest of honor recently at a surprise birthday party held at the home of his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Hugh McMillian, Paradise Street, Midland.

Guests included Mrs. Carroll Fisher, Bethesda; Mrs. Susan McMillian, Mr. and Mrs. Chris Hendra, Mrs. James Ravenscroft and Melvin McMillian, Lonaconing; Mr. and Mrs. Robert McMillian and their son, Hugh, Vale Summit.

Farm Prices Past Peak, Cooperative Members Are Told

W. T. Steele Speaks At Annual Assembly

Farm prices probably have passed their peak, unless 1948 crop yields fall far below average, W. T. Steele, Richmond, Va., director of wholesale services at Southern States Cooperative, told the local board and farm home committee members attending an annual mid-winter regional conference last night at Centre Street Methodist Church.

Calling attention to the recent break in grain and livestock prices, Steele stated that no serious shortage of feed is likely before 1948 grain crops become available. Fertilizer is most critically scarce among the major farm production supplies, he said. Seeds, except for red, mammoth and ladino clover, probably will be plentiful. A number of items made of steel, particularly fencing, roofing, barbed wire, nails and galvanized roofing, still are generally short.

Attending the conferences were local Southern States representatives from Cumberland, Romney, Moorefield, Midland, Oldtown, Keyser, and Grantsville.

Roy C. F. Weagly, Baltimore, a member of the Southern States board of directors, presided at the session, which also was attended by several agricultural workers as guests of Southern States, and by managers of Cooperative service agencies in the area.

Steele, in delivering a report by Southern States' management to local board members for the first half of the 1947-48 fiscal year, pointed out that service volume was up 47 per cent over that of the same period last year.

As evidence of increased efficiency, made possible by greater volume, it was pointed out that the per unit cost of manufacturing was down slightly in spite of higher operating costs all along the line.

The Cooperative's net worth on December 31 had reached a high of almost $16,000,000.

A report on individual services provided members by the Cooperative brought out these highlights:

Feed — In spite of high prices, liquidation of livestock and poultry and, in some instances, less favorable feeding ratios, 25 per cent more feed was manufactured and distributed.

Fertilizer — Although materials were severely limited, more fertilizer was distributed than in the fall of 1946.

Feed — Volume was up about 15 per cent.

Farm Supplies — An increase in volume of 46 per cent and substantial increases in the number of units distributed, as well.

Marketing Services — Dressed poultry: up 35 per cent. Eggs: down 25 per cent as a result of a general decrease in production. Grain: newest and most rapidly growing marketing service provided by Southern States; volume for the first six months 225 per cent greater than for the same period in 1946.

The speaker pointed out that Southern States paid a total of $289,672.85 in taxes during the fiscal year ended last June 30. The only tax of any consequence not paid by the Cooperative is Federal income tax. Southern States, being a bona fide, non-profit farm cooperative, has no income of its own and, therefore, qualified for Federal income tax exemption. Any margins or patronage refunds of Southern States belong to the individual member and are taxable in his hands.

B. and O. Carloadings For Week Decline

Carloads handled by the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad for the week ending March 13 totaled 66,111 which, when compared with 68,667 of the same week of last year, is a decline of 2,556.

Total loaded on line was 41,737 with 24,374 received from connections.

Draft Boards Have Been "Standing By"

Allegany County draft boards have remained on a "standby" basis since their duties were officially terminated over a year ago, board officials said yesterday.

The four county boards are prepared to resume activities immediately if necessary, officials said in connection with Washington reports that President Truman may ask for a new selective service law in his speech today before a joint session of Congress.

Most people think that when they get out of work and cannot find a job, they are entitled to draw "Social Security" because they have paid in the tax. No deduction is ever made from a worker's wages for unemployment compensation. Employers who come under the Unemployment Compensation Law pay a tax on their employe's earnings but deduct nothing from the employe's wages. This is a tax that only the employer has to pay.

DEATHS

DR. HENRY M. WEISMAN

A funeral service will be held in New York City Thursday for Dr. Henry M. Weisman, of that city, who died Tuesday morning at the Bronx Hospital.

He was the father of Dr. S. G. Weisman, 122 Bedford Street, this city.

MRS. MARIAN ANTHONY

Mrs. Marian Anthony, formerly of 109 South Lee Street, this city, died Monday at the home of her son, Alvin E. Anthony, Brownwood, Tex. She left Cumberland several months ago to reside with her son in Brownwood.

The body will be brought to the George Funeral Home here.

DURST SERVICE

A funeral service was held yesterday afternoon at the Boal Funeral Home, Westernport, for Miss Semilda Durst, 74, a native and former resident of Barton, who was fatally burned Saturday afternoon at her home, 470 Goethe Street.

Rev. M. A. Keesecker, pastor of Kingsley Methodist Church, officiated. Interment was in Laurel Hill Cemetery, Moscow.

Pallbearers were Frank, Howard, Olin, James and Charles Magruder, all cousins, and J. H. Phillips.

Testimony Ends On One-Cent Case At Celanese Plant

Local 1874, TWUA, Will Meet Tonight

Verbal testimony was completed yesterday at the Court House in the dispute regarding the distribution of a one-cent differential provided in last May's contract to adjust wage inequalities charged by the union at the Celanese plant.

The company and the union had decided, prior to the beginnings of the hearings several months ago, on the distribution of some 30 per cent of the about $180,000 involved in the settlement.

In the testimony yesterday before David E. Cole, Philadelphia, the company and the union presented arguments on the last portions of the warp knit department case, and all testimony for the finished fabric examination-warehouse case and the cafeteria section.

Parties to the disputes were accompanying the arbitrator last night on visits to the plant to study specific job assignments involved in the dispute.

A full report on the meeting of the TWUA Rayon Advisory council last weekend will be presented at a membership meeting of Local 1874, Textile Workers Union of America, CIO, tonight at 7:30 o'clock.

Also scheduled for action is a proposal to increase expense allowances of Local 1874's delegates to the TWUA convention.

The Celanese local will also discuss and act on Local 1874's affiliation with the co-operative movement in this area.

Herbert W. Payne, TWUA rayon director, said after the council meeting that "substantial" wage increases will be sought from the nation's rayon manufacturers within the next two months.

Playford Aldridge, president of Local 1874, yesterday advised Rep. J. Glenn Beall of the local's opposition to revision of the Rent Control Act, in accordance to the TWUA policy of retaining provisions of the existing rent control law.

The House, however, passed the Local Option bill by a 251-132 vote, with Rep. Beall voting for the measure which would give full control to local rent control boards.

Bird Drawing Contest Held At Mt. Royal

Bird drawings submitted by members of the fifth grade bird club at Mt. Royal School will remain on exhibition at the school for the remainder of this week, according to Mrs. Gilbert Miller, chairman of the Allegany County Bird Club.

Prize winners in the contest held recently by children of the club are Jack Hoffman and Richard Ayers, who submitted original drawings of a redwing blackbird and a meadowlark, respectively. Miss Althea Fuller, principal, acted as judge. Mrs. Kathleen B. Sullivan is teacher of the fifth grade.

Meanwhile, Mrs. Miller said that representatives of junior bird clubs will hold a workshop session Thursday night from 7 to 9 at Mt. Royal School to prepare markers for two nature trails to be established on the outskirts of the city in May. Mrs. Myra Taylor, Frostburg, and Miss Nan Livingstone will be in charge.

Cheese Clinic Held For Retail Grocers

R. Southerland, Pittsburgh, Pa., cheese expert, outlined the history, production, uses and display of cheese at a meeting of the Independent Retail Food Dealers Association of Western Maryland last night.

Albert E. Windish, president, presided at the meeting held in the La-Vale Fire Hall, and Ralph F. Sell was in charge of the program which followed a brief business meeting.

Southerland's assistant, J. Joynson, showed a motion picture showing in detail how domestic cheeses are produced.

The next meeting of the association, to be held April 20, will be the annual membership meeting.

Key Stamps Go On Sale In Frederick August 9

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP)—Rep. J. Glenn Beall (R-Md) announced today that the Frederick, Md., post office will handle exclusive first-day sale of a special Francis Scott Key commemorative stamp.

The first sale will be on August 9, the 50th anniversary of the unveiling of the Francis Scott Key monument in Frederick.

Frederick County was the birthplace of the Star Spangled Banner composer.

Leasure To Head Auxiliary Police

William L. Leasure, 17 South George Street, was elected chief of the re-organized Cumberland auxiliary Police Force Monday night and Harry Beckman, 510 Shriver Avenue, was elected assistant chief.

In addition 14 captains were appointed to head the sub-units of the auxiliary which will be subject to call during emergencies in the city, according to Chief of Police R. Emmett Flynn, who is director of the training program. The captains are:

George H. McGruder, 802 Holland Street; Ira H. King, 318 Independence Street; James W. Sills, 404 Hill Street; Walter Barnhart, 235 New Hampshire Avenue; Edgar T. Kolb, 23 Lamont Street; Otto Ryan, 1010 Harding Avenue; Joseph M. Harrison, 21 North Lee Street.

Carl Young, 218 Bedford Street, Harold Armbruster, 304 North Mechanic Street; Paul Harris, Olympia Hotel; Roy M. Breighner, 137 Elder Street; C. E. Grose, The Dingle; Marshall C. Twigg, 520 Pearre Avenue, and Norris Dayton, 215 Greene Street.

Training work in judo and police duties for the auxiliary policemen will begin March 24 in the squad room of the Public Safety Building. The members are now taking a first aid course.

Flynn said the group will meet March 24 at 8 p. m. for the third meeting since the organization was formed.

Religious Teaching Is Not Affected In County

Classes in Allegany County schools will not be affected by a recent decision of the Supreme Court forbiding religious education in public schools that tends to spread the faith of a particular group.

Local public schools have no arrangement whereby religious subject matter is offered to students although such a proposal was being considered about a year ago at the suggestion of the Cumberland Ministerial Association.

The Allegany County Board of Education took the proposal under advisement but deferred action pending further investigation.

The Supreme Court ruling was handed down after the question was raised in Champaign, Ill., where religious subjects were being taught.

Advice To The Lovelorn

"Silent Husband" Asks Companionship From Wife And Not Gossip

By BEATRICE FAIRFAX

Famous Authority on Problems of Love and Marriage

When a husband comes home from work and spends every evening behind his newspaper, listening to the radio, or sleeping in his chair, whose fault is it, his or his wife's? And what's to be done about it?

In answer to a wife who wrote me a few weeks ago complaining about this sort of situation in her own home, I suggested that she should leave her husband to enjoy his silence alone, and go out and have fun with her own friends, or invite some of them in for a hen party.

Now, a husband who had his attention called to these remarks of mine by his wife comes to the defense of such husbands in no uncertain terms,

Here is what he writes.

"My wife just drew a circle around your column, dropped it into my lap, and went to bed. I gather she either wrote the letter that was in it, or she was hinting that I am one of those silent Joes you spoke about. Well, in a way I am.

"When I put in a good day's work, and have to come home and listen to backyard gossip, I can't stomach it. Sometimes when I come home, I find four or five women in my living room, all chatting away like hoot owls. Each is picking some other woman apart. Either they don't like how their neighbor hangs her curtains, or Millie had a run in her stocking. Then they start on Anna's little girl, who had a runny nose and still was allowed outside. From one neighbor, they jump on another. To see them all together, you'd think they were blood sisters. But l' one leave, and they begin: Tsk, tsk, notice her hips, and she says she takes a size 9!' Miss Fairfax, you can have that gossip. I'll stick to the sporting column till women stop being parasites and the two-faced dears that they are.

"Don't get me wrong, I love my wife, but she has the fault of most women, that of being catty.

"Should I ever come home, and find my wife ready to talk sports radio, boxing, tennis,even tic tack toe, I'd throw the paper in the wastebasket and talk. But till women who remain behind that screen of petty talk stop talking like back-stabbers and meet us on more pleasant subjects, I'll remain behind my paper.

"So don't be too much in a hurry to jump on us husbands. You would do better to tell the wives to assert themselves in a more human manner than to tell them to go out and have fun. Get hep, Fairfax, we deserve companionship too. But who wants to hear about Bertha running around while her husband is working? Tell the women to be companions to us, not to bring us gossip as soon as we open the door."

There is no doubt at all but that this husband is making a point, So, perhaps we'd better say that if a wife finds her man going into his silence every evening, she might, before going out to have fun on her own, try my correspondent's suggestion and think up some entertaining things to talk about. If this does not work, then she can try the other plan.

But just one more word.

I think a husband shouldn't necessarily require his wife to be up on sports before being ready to talk with her. If he doesn't want to hear feminine gossip, why should he expect her to make herself an authority on masculine interests?

My suggestion is that they get together on some middle ground, say a hobby or other form of recreation or interest, that they can enjoy companionably together.

League Received $200

By C. V. BURNS

Joseph R. Basco, the Barberton, Ohio, boxing impresario, didn't give us a bum steer last week when he wrote that Rudy Zadell was a "crowd pleaser" and that Sammy Angott "would not knock him out" when they met here.

Rudy is one of the toughest welterweights we've seen in many a moon. He took everything that Angott threw flush on the jaw and in the mid-section time and again and while defeated he won the cheers of the crowd for his courage and display of gameness against an opponent who has whipped the best lightweights and featherweights in the pro ranks.

Professional fights in Maryland are scored by rounds and not by points as it the custom in amateur bouts. We scored six rounds for Angott, two for Zadell and called two even. One of the two rounds credited to the Ohioan was taken away from Angott by Referee "Buddy" McQuade when Sammy struck a low blow in the third round.

Zadell, apparently in pain retired to his corner for a one-minute rest period, and then came back to finish the round.

In recent years Angott has been handicapped by bad hands but in Monday's show both of his dukes seemed to pack a mean wallop and this time he was bothered by a cut near the left eye which bled from the fourth through the tenth round. Then to top it off one of Zadell's left hooks raised a welt below Angott's right eye in the 7th round.

Yet in spite of these cuts and bruises Angott is still a darned good fighter and we think he is capable of beating a lot of good welterweights.

We can truthfully say that Angott and Zadell as a result of their slam-bang battle did much to restore professional boxing to a higher plane here. The fans turned out Monday night to see a fight and that's what they saw. It was a show that pleased the cash customers and future programs of that calibre certainly warrant patronage.

Believe it, or not, but quite a few bucks changed hands after Angott failed to stop Zadell. Many had figured Sammy could do it within five rounds. But they were confounded to find that "Vic" Ricker had tossed a block of granite into the ring as the ex-lightweight champion's opponent.

Zadell's manager began shouting in the 7th round:

"Sammy can't knock him out."

And he didn't.

One of the sharpest punching fighters on the Monday card was Marion Klingensmith, the Brownsville, Pa., middleweight, who gave Willie Moore of Pittsburgh such a thorough going over in three rounds that the latter's seconds refused to let their breadwinner come out for the fourth.

Klingensmith, a straight-up fighter, who packed dynamite in his right hand, put Moore on his knees for a seven count in the first round, upset him for nine in the second and put him on the deck three more times for nine in the third stanza.

Moore proved to be a "cutie" and several times after being floored came up to jolt Klingensmith but Marion shot the works in the third and Willie couldn't cope with that terrific bombardment.

Moore received a big hand from the crowd for his display of gameness.

Klingensmith, who will surely get another bid to fight here, showed as an amateur some years ago in a Devon Club outdoor show held on the tennis courts at Luke, Md. His opponent was Tony "Buff" DiBaldo, who was a big favorite of amateur fight fans in those days.

One of Klingensmith's biggest boosters is Sammy Angott. "This fellow always puts up a good fight," Sammy told us.

Matchmaker Ricker reports the main bouters on Monday's card received 45 per cent of the "gate" or slightly over $1,300. Angott's share was almost $700 and Zadell received $662.

Several fans wanted to know if the show attracted the largest paid attendance of the season.

The answer is no.

There were 1,145 cash customers recorded and this figure was topped by the 1,158 paid at the Amvets' amateur show on February 16.

Since boxing was revived here in 1945 amateurs have fought before crowds of more than 1,000 paying fans three times. The Royale A. C. show of March 24, 1947 attracted 1,007 and on May 5, 1947 a total of 1,125 witnessed a show held by the same club.

But there's quite a difference in prices for amateur and pro shows. Monday's top was $3.90 ringside. The top for amateur shows is $1.80 per ticket.

We erred in Tuesday's paper when we stated that the Allegany County League for Crippled Children received $100 from the fights. The league actually received $200. Promoter Leanord Little gave his personal check for $100 and another $100 came from the sale of fight programs which was conducted by Eddie Wolfe and Charley Krapf, the new Joe Humphries of local announcers.

Sentinels Cop Western Shore Title Contest

Turn Back Bethesda, Meet Salisbury Next

BETHESDA, Md., March 16 — Fort Hill High School's Sentinels of Cumberland put on a garrison finish tonight to defeat Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School's quint by the score of 45-34 and thereby advanced to the finals of Maryland's Class "A" scholastic basketball tournament.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's quint will play Salisbury High School, representative of the Eastern Shore, Saturday night on the Fort Hill court in Cumberland.

Tonight's game for the western shore Class "A" title was a nip and tuck affair and when the third quarter ended the Sentinels were leading by a single point, 28-27. With Lattimer, Dean and Alderton carrying the brunt of the attack in the final period, Fort Hill poured in 17 points to the home team's seven to sew up the game. It was Fort Hill's 25th victory against five setbacks.

Bethesda, winner of 25 of 29 games during the regular season, took a 9-6 lead at the quarter but at intermission Fort Hill was on top, 19-16.

Charley Lattimer and Milford Dean were Fort Hill's main offensive weapons. They accounted for 29 points. Lattimer chucked in 17 on six fielders and five fouls while Dean registered an even dozen on six fielders. John Alderton, who was substituted for Gary Moler in the fourth quarter after the fourth foul was called on the latter, played a noteworthy floor game for the victors.

Poerstel was Bethesda's leading scorer with 12 points while Latimer, center of the Montgomery county team, who will enter Duke University after graduation in June, played an outstanding floor game and proved to be a real ballhawk when it came to snaring rebounds.

The game was witnessed by a capacity crowd and at the conclusion the Fort Hill team received a plaque, emblematic of the western shore championship of Maryland.

Ohio Teams Annex A-A Playoff Tilts

Cubs Trim Wheeling, Mariners Win, 53-50

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 16—(AP)—The Youngstown Cubs trounced Wheeling, W. Va., 55-45, tonight for their second straight victory in the best-of-five semi-final playoffs of the All-American Pro Basketball League. Forward Charley Butler of Youngstown took high-point honors with 18, while Center Jim Quinlan tallied 10 for the Wheeling Puritans.

The Cubs won the opener on Monday night by the score of 61-54.

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 16—(AP)—Accuracy at the free throw line paid off for Columbus tonight as the Mariners beat Pitt-Altoona, 53-50, in the second game of their All-American Pro Basketball League playoff series.

Second-place Columbus now has a 2-0 lead. The teams play at Pitt-Altoona Friday.

The score was tied 50-all tonight with 15 seconds to play. Then Sweetwater Clifton hooked in a pivot shot and Don Harvey added a free throw. Columbus sank 23 of 34 free throws.

Clifton and Moe Becker of Pitt-Altoona tied for the game scoring honors with 15 points apiece.

NYU Plays St. Louis At Garden Tonight

NIT Winner Will Go To Olympic Tryouts

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—With one of the eight berths in the Olympic basketball tryouts already filed, a second will be allotted tomorrow night (at 9:30 p. m. EST) when St. Louis University collides with New York university in the finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

These two collegiate quintets shot their way into the title match last night, St. Louis eliminating Western Kentucky, 60-53, and NYU dropping DePaul of Chicago, 72-59.

The championship affair at Madison Square Garden shapes up as a duel between two well-drilled clubs, both led by towering centers who ranked among the country's best.

Ed McCauley, six-foot eight-inch St. Louis pivot man, and Adolph Schayes, the NYU standout at six-feet seven, were highly instrumental in their semi-final triumphs.

Both have led their respective clubs in scoring through the season. Schayes recently was selected as the outstanding player in the metropolitan area and McCauley was named the best visiting player to appear here this year.

Preceding the NYU-St. Louis tussle at Madison Square Garden, Western Kentucky and DePaul will battle for third place in the tournament.

The tournament champion automatically goes into the Olympic tryouts on the same side of the bracket as Louisville, which qualified for the trials opening here March 27 by winning the NAIB tourney at Kansas City last week.

Bruce Boys Meet Sparks, In Western Final Today

Central Girls Will Play At Rockville

Allegany county's representatives in the Maryland Class "C" scholastic basketball tournament will take to the road today to play in games that will determine the western shore's finalists.

Coach Jack Petry's Bruce High School floormen of Westernport will journey to Towson to battle it out with Sparks High School of Baltimore county. This game will be played at the Towson armory and will get under way at 2:30 o'clock.

Princess Anne Is Finalist.

The winner will play host to Princess Anne High School of Somerset county on either Friday or Saturday in the finals of the Class "C" tournament.

Bruce High gained the right to represent Allegany county by defeating Central High of Lonaconing in a playoff game. In the first inter-county contest the Westernport school eliminated Boonsboro High of Washington county, 65-38.

Coach Elva Love Davis' Central High School girls of Lonaconing moved to the finals of the western shore competition by defeating Middletown, 30-27, last week, and will meet Richard Montgomery High School's sextet today at 3:30 o'clock at Rockville, Montgomery county.

Final Game Comes West

Today's winner will entertain Denton High School of Caroline county, Eastern Shore, on either Friday or Saturday. If Central wins the state finals will be staged in Lonaconing.

Ridgeley Legion Cops YMCA Tourney Opener

Black Knights, South End Win Close Games

Ridgeley's American Legion cagers made their debut in the Central YMCA tournament last night and trounced the Lonaconing A.A. by the score of 59-23 in the senior unlimited division.

The combined attack of "Ace" Comer, Hartman and Phillips produced 48 points for the winners. Ridgeley held a 32-7 lead at halftime.

In the first game on the second night's program, the Black Knights won an overtime battle from the Lions, 23-22, in the 115-pound class.

Harry Hixenbaugh, substitute for Imes, who fouled out in the extra period, tossed the winning goal after the Lions had taken a 22-21 lead. The regulation game ended 21-21.

The Dragons moved into the semi-final bracket of the 115-pound class by topping the Terrible Termites, 29-23. Smith of the Termites and Rice of the Dragons tied for high scoring honors with 12 points each.

In a pair of junior unlimited class contests, the South End Merchants took the Ellerslie Eagles, 28-25, and the Variety Five conquered Wolf's Furniture quint, 31-14. Fielders by Tucker and Birmingham in the closing minutes won for South End after Ellerslie had taken a 25-24 lead.

In a 135-pound class game, Ballard's Cleaners turned back the Coney Vets, 22-14, to advance to the semi-finals. Lineups:

Herman Hickman Appointed Coach Of Yale Gridders

Army Line Coach Will Install T-Formation

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 16 (INS) — Herman Hickman, West Point line coach, was named tonight as the new head football coach at Yale.

Speaking of Hickman's acceptance of the Yale post, Athletic Director Kiphuth hailed him as a "great player and great personality," and added:

"We feel ourselves fortunate to have obtained one of the most outstanding men in the field of coaching."

Hickman, never previously a head coach, said: "I consider this a great opportunity, and challenge. I can hardly wait to get started."

West Point said it was releasing Hickman with "deep regret and appreciation for his splendid work."

He said he proposed to install the T-formation attack, as used with such devastating effect by Blaik's Army teams since 1943 under the inspired drive of Glenn Davis and "Doc" Blanchard.

Hickman has personally developed seven All American linesmen since taking over the West Point chore in '43, the list including last year's Joe Steffy, a virtually unanimous choice as first team guard. "Tex" Coulter, tackle, now with the New York (pro) Giants, was another outstanding Hickman development.

Hickman played professionally after graduating from Tennessee in 1932, spending three seasons with the old Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League before taking his first coaching job. This was as assistant at Wake Forest, after which he joined the coaching staff at North Carolina State.

The association with Blaik, and the great West Point teams of the war-time and post-war seasons, followed. Hickman was born at Johnson City, Tenn., 36 years ago, and played at Baylor Prep, Chattanooga, before entering Tennessee.

Bedford High Takes District No. 5 Title

Bisons Mark Up 41-33 Victory Over Berlin

BEDFORD, Pa., March 16 — Bedford High School defeated Berlin High School for the District No. 5 basketball title tonight in a game staged at Conemaugh Township High School, Davidsville, Pa. The score was 41-33.

The Bisons will play the winner of the Altoona-Conemaugh Borough game on Friday in the next round of the state tournament.

Berlin held a 15-10 edge at the close of the first quarter but at halftime the Bisons were out in front, 26-25, and also at the close of the third period, 33-27.

Ohio's Governor Puts 23-Day Ban On Boxing Shows

Measures Are Sought To Prevent Fatalities

CHICAGO, March 16 (AP) — The Illinois Athletic Commission will ban professional boxing in the state for 23 days in accord with a request from Gov. Dwight H. Green.

Gov. Green asked for the shutdown pending adoption of measures to prevent ring fatalities. Commission Chairman Sheldon Clark said he accepted the governor's request "in complete accord." The commission will act formally on the matter at a Thursday session.

Leaving no doubt the governor's suggestion would be adopted, Clark said: "the 23-day suspension will give us time to put into effect methods of tightening up the boxing code.

"It's pretty tough for one state to clear up and tighten the rules of boxing as they exist," explained Calrk. "I'm trying to get the National Boxing Association (of which Illinois is a member) to form a plan to run the game on a clean, sane and systematic basis so as to safeguard the life and health of the boxers."

Specific recommendations will be made by Clark on March 20 at the NBA meeting in Philadelphia. Clark said he will back a complete and detailed registration of boxers which will be immediately available upon request.

A governor's spokesman said the proposed suspension would apply to both professional and amateur cards. Clark expressed surprise that the amateurs would be involved. The International Golden Gloves amateur show will not be affected since it will be held April 13 in Chicago six days after the ban is lifted.

The move climaxes criticism of the conduct of the sport that followed the death of Sam Baroudi, 20 year old Akron, O., boxer who died after being knocked out in the Chicago Stadium ring Feb. 20. He collapsed and succumbed to a cerebral hemorrhage six hours after fighting Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati, top ranking contender for the world's light heavyweight championship.

Detroit Purchases Toledo's Mud Hens

DETROIT, March 16—(AP)—The Detroit Baseball Company today announced purchase of the Toledo Mudhens in the American Association, giving the Tigers three triple-A clubs in their farm system.

Detroit will not operate the Mudhens, however, until 1949. In the same triple-A club bracket are Seattle and Buffalo.

The announcement said that the Detroit farm system will include 12 clubs, five of which are owned outright. They are Toledo, Williamsport, Pa., Flint, Mich., Thomasville, Ga., and Troy, Ala.

Belloise Scores TKO

CLEVELAND, March 16 (AP) — Steve Belloise, hard-hitting New York middleweight, won a technical knockout victory over Irish Mickey Doyle of Cleveland tonight at 33 seconds of the seventh round of a slam-bang main event slated for 10 rounds. Belloise weighed 160; Doyle 158.

Isaac Singer patented the first practical domestic sewing machine in 1851 and is credited with placing it in the home.

LaSALLE COACH — Edward A. "Art" Garbark is LaSalle's new baseball coach. Announcement of his appointment to that position was made last night by Brother Gregory, director of athletics at the North Centre Street school. Garbark is a former minor league player and for the past several years has piloted winning teams for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, in the Interstate League.

Art Garbark Is Named LaSalle's Baseball Coach

New Mentor To Meet Candidates March 22

Appointment of Edward A. "Art" Garbark as coach of LaSalle High School's baseball team for the 1948 season was announced yesterday by Brother Gregory, director of athletics at the local school.

Barbark succeeds Brother Declan, coach of the Explorers' 1947 championship team in the Tri-State Conference, who is now a member of the faculty of St. John's High School, Washington, D. C.

LaSalle's new mentor is a native of Texas, and before coming to Cumberland resided in New York, Pittsburgh, and East Orange, N. J. He attended St. Benedict's Prep, Newark, N. J., where he played on championship baseball teams for two seasons. At Edgewood High School, Pittsburgh, he played on two undefeated football teams and also was a member of the school's basketball, track and baseball teams. He and his brother formed the battery of the Edgewood High baseball team.

In his freshman year at the University of Pittsburgh, Garbark played on an undefeated football team.

Garbark's minor league record shows that he has played with Frederick (Blue Ridge League); Salisbury (Piedmont League); Columbia (South Atlantic League) and Muskogee (Western League). Before coming here he managed Clarksburg, W. Va., in the West Virginia State League. For the past two years "Art" has served as playing manager of the local Legion team in the Interstate League.

Garbark is district representative of the Otis Elevator Company.

The new coach will meet with candidates for LaSalle's team in the Explorers' room of the school on March 22. The 1948 squad will include the following holdovers: James Collins, Bernard Beck, Joe Reissig, outfielders; James Close and Richard Leo, infielders, and Pat Creegan, Norman Sell, Hugh Miller and Robert Wood, pitchers.

LaSalle will be represented at the regular meeting of the Tri-State Baseball Conferenc Monday, March 22, at 8 p. m., at the Central YMCA.

Bethesda Girls Defeat Locals In Cage Thriller

Unbeaten Montgomery Team Cops 17 In Row

Coach Dorothy Quayle's Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School sextet, undefeated in two seasons, eliminated Fort Hill High School's girls from the Maryland Class "A" basketball tournament by turning back the locals last night on the Fort Hill court by the score of 35-33.

The triumph gave the Montgomery county team the western shore title and the right to play Salisbury High School of the Eastern Shore for state honors Friday night at Bethesda.

Eleanor Welker's seventh and final field goal after the teams had been deadlocked at 33-33 decided last night's thriller an gave Bethesda-Chevy Chase its 17th consecutive triumph of the season.

The visitors held the lead for three quarters, 13-6, 19-14 and 28-20 but in the fourth quarter the score was knotted at 29, 31 and 33 before Miss Welker tossed the winning basket.

Charlene Jamison and Eleanor Welker, 15-year-old juniors accounted for all but one of the winning team's points. Miss Welker hammered the hoops for seven fielders and five foul goals, a total of 19 points, while her running mate garnered 15 points on seven double-deckers and a singleton.

Doris Adams and Clara Hudson made 31 points between them for the home team. Miss Adams gathered 16 points on eight fielders and Miss Hudson racked up 15 points on seven field goals and one foul. Miss Decker was ejected on personal fouls in the third period.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase won the Washington Evening Star girls' tournament last year but did not compete in the state games. This season's undefeated sextet has rolled up 700 points against 300 for the opposition.

Nine Clubs Seek Berths In City Softball League

Limit Set At Eight; Cozad Elected Prexy

Nine teams are seeking berths in the City Softball League for the 1948 season but the eight holdover clubs from last season have voted to limit the league's membership to eight organization. John R. Kelly, Jr., secretary-treasurer, announced last night.

At a meeting of the league on Monday night at the Amvets' Home, the holdover teams represented were Lacy's Delicatets, Amvets, Astor Cab, North End Social and Athletic Club, Reed's Electricians, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Joe's Crusaders, formerly the Concord Clothiers.

New applicants for franchises were Mower's Bakery and Tole's Confectionery.

The 1947 teams agreed that league membership should be limited to eight clubs and one of the new teams will ye voted into the league at the next meeting to be held at the Amvets' Home, Tuesday, March 23, at 7:30 p. m.

Officers elected for the coming season were Floyd "Sammy" Cozad, president; Robert "Ace" Baker, vice president, and John R. Kelly, secretary-treasurer.

Violent Ray Wins

OHIO RACE TRACKS WILL BAN CHILDREN UNDER 16 YEARS OLD

COLUMBUS, O., March 16—(INS)—The Ohio Racing Commission today barred all children under 16 years of age from race tracks throughout the state.

Commission Chairman O. C. Belt said the only exceptions were race programs carried on in conjunction with county fairs.

The action was taken after it was suggested and requested by track operators at a public hearing. The track officials indicated they felt it was "bad for the children" to allow them on the tracks and also posed a problem for the operators.

The commission also made official a ruling requiring installation of totalizators at all Ohio tracks "in excess of three-fourths of a mile in length."

Joe Basco Is Correct

Klingensmith Can Sock

1,145 Fans Near Record

League Received $200

By C. V. BURNS

Joseph R. Basco, the Barberton, Ohio, boxing impresario, didn't give us a bum steer last week when he wrote that Rudy Zadell was a "crowd pleaser" and that Sammy Angott "would not knock him out" when they met here.

Rudy is one of the toughest welterweights we've seen in many a moon. He took everything that Angott threw flush on the jaw and in the mid-section time and again and while defeated he won the cheers of the crowd for his courage and display of gameness against an opponent who has whipped the best lightweights and featherweights in the pro ranks.

Professional fights in Maryland are scored by rounds and not by points as it the custom in amateur bouts. We scored six rounds for Angott, two for Zadell and called two even. One of the two rounds credited to the Ohioan was taken away from Angott by Referee "Buddy" McQuade when Sammy struck a low blow in the third round.

Zadell, apparently in pain retired to his corner for a one-minute rest period, and then came back to finish the round.

In recent years Angott has been handicapped by bad hands but in Monday's show both of his dukes seemed to pack a mean wallop and this time he was bothered by a cut near the left eye which bled from the fourth through the tenth round. Then to top it off one of Zadell's left hooks raised a welt below Angott's right eye in the 7th round.

Yet in spite of these cuts and bruises Angott is still a darned good fighter and we think he is capable of beating a lot of good welterweights.

We can truthfully say that Angott and Zadell as a result of their slam-bang battle did much to restore professional boxing to a higher plane here. The fans turned out Monday night to see a fight and that's what they saw. It was a show that pleased the cash customers and future programs of that calibre certainly warrant patronage.

Believe it, or not, but quite a few bucks changed hands after Angott failed to stop Zadell. Many had figured Sammy could do it within five rounds. But they were amfounded to find that "Vic" Ricker had tossed a block of granite into the ring as the ex-lightweight champion's opponent.

Zadell's manager began shouting in the 7th round:

"Sammy can't knock him out."

And he didn't.

One of the sharpest punching fighters on the Monday card was Marion Klingensmith, the Brownsville, Pa., middleweight, who gave Willie Moore of Pittsburgh such a thorough going over in three rounds that the latter's seconds refused to let their breadwinner come out for the fourth.

Klingensmith, a straight-up fighter, who packed dynamite in his right hand, put Moore on his knees for a seven count in the first round, upset him for nine in the second and put him on the deck three more times for nine in the third stanza.

Moore proved to be a "cutie" and several times after being floored came up to jolt Klingensmith but Marion shot the works in the third and Willie couldn't cope with that terrific bombardment.

Moore received a big hand from the crowd for his display of gameness.

Klingensmith, who will surely get another bid to fight here, showed as an amateur some years ago in a Devon Club outdoor show held on the tennis courts at Luke, Md. His opponent was Tony "Buff" DiBaldo, who was a big favorite of amateur fight fans in those days.

One of Klingensmith's biggest boosters is Sammy Angott. "This fellow always puts up a good fight," Sammy told us.

Matchmaker Ricker reports the main bouters on Monday's card received 45 per cent of the "gate" or slightly over $1,300. Angott's share was almost $700 and Zadell received $662.

Several fans wanted to know if the show attracted the largest paid attendance of the season.

The answer is no.

There were 1,145 cash customers recorded and this figure was topped by the 1,158 paid at the Amvets' amateur show on February 16.

Since boxing was revived here in 1945 amateurs have fought before crowds of more than 1,000 paying fans three times. The Royale A. C. show of March 24, 1947 attracted 1,007 and on May 5, 1947 a total of 1,125 witnessed a show held by the same club.

But there's quite a difference in prices for amateur and pro shows. Monday's top was $3.90 ringside. The top for amateur shows is $1.80 per ticket.

We erred in Tuesday's paper when we stated that the Allegany County League for Crippled Children received $100 from the fights. The league actually received $200. Promoter Leanord Little gave his personal check for $100 and another $100 came from the sale of fight programs which was conducted by Eddie Wolfe and Charley Krapf, the new Joe Humphries of local announcers.

BOSTON, March 16 (INS) — William G. "Johnny" Grinnell resigned today as head coach of football and basketball at Northeastern University.

Turn Back Bethesda, Meet Salisbury Next

BETHESDA, Md., March 16 — Fort Hill High School's Sentinels of Cumberland put on a garrison finish tonight to defeat Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School's quint by the score of 45-34 and thereby advanced to the finals of Maryland's Class "A" scholastic basketball tournament.

Coach "Bobby" Cavanaugh's quint will play Salisbury High School, representative of the Eastern Shore, Saturday night on the Fort Hill court in Cumberland.

Tonight's game for the western shore Class "A" title was a nip and tuck affair and when the third quarter ended the Sentinels were leading by a single point, 28-27. With Lattimer, Dean and Alderton carrying the brunt of the attack in the final period, Fort Hill poured in 17 points to the home team's seven to sew up the game. It was Fort Hill's 25th victory against five setbacks.

Bethesda, winner of 25 of 29 games during the regular season, took a 9-6 lead at the quarter but at intermission Fort Hill was on top, 19-16.

Charley Lattimer and Milford Dean were Fort Hill's main offensive weapons. They accounted for 29 points. Lattimer chucked in 17 on six fielders and five fouls while Dean registered an even dozen on six fielders. John Alderton, who was substituted for Gary Moler in the fourth quarter after the fourth foul was called on the latter, played a noteworthy floor game for the victors.

Poerstel was Bethesda's leading scorer with 12 points while Latimer, center of the Montgomery county team, who will enter Duke University after graduation in June, played an outstanding floor game and proved to be a real ballhawk when it came to snaring rebounds.

The game was witnessed by a capacity crowd and at the conclusion the Fort Hill team received a plaque, emblematic of the western shore championship of Maryland.

Ohio Teams Annex A-A Playoff Tilts

Cubs Trim Wheeling, Mariners Win, 53-50

YOUNGSTOWN, O., March 16—(AP)—The Youngstown Cubs trounced Wheeling, W. Va., 55-45, tonight for their second straight victory in the best-of-five semi-final playoffs of the All-American Pro Basketball League. Forward Charley Butler of Youngstown took high-point honors with 18, while Center Jim Quinlan tallied 10 for the Wheeling Puritans.

The Cubs won the opener on Monday night by the score of 61-54.

SPRINGFIELD, O., March 16—(AP)—Accuracy at the free throw line paid off for Columbus tonight as the Mariners beat Pitt-Altoona, 53-50, in the second game of their All-American Pro Basketball League playoff series.

Second-place Columbus now has a 2-0 lead. The teams play at Pitt-Altoona Friday.

The score was tied 50-all tonight with 15 seconds to play. Then Sweetwater Clifton hooked in a pivot shot and Don Harvey added a free throw. Columbus sank 23 of 34 free throws.

Clifton and Moe Becker of Pitt-Altoona tied for the game scoring honors with 15 points apiece.

NYU Plays St. Louis At Garden Tonight

NIT Winner Will Go To Olympic Tryouts

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—With one of the eight berths in the Olympic basketball tryouts already filled, a second will be allotted tomorrow night (at 9:30 p. m. EST) when St. Louis University collides with New York university in the finals of the National Invitation Tournament.

These two collegiate quintets shot their way into the title match last night. St. Louis eliminating Western Kentucky, 60-53, and NYU dropping DePaul of Chicago, 72-59.

The championship affair at Madison Square Garden shapes up as a duel between two well-drilled clubs, both led by towering centers who ranked among the country's best.

Ed McCauley, six-foot eight-inch St. Louis pivot man, and Adolph Schayes, the NYU standout at six-feet seven, were highly instrumental in their semi-final triumphs.

Both have led their respective clubs in scoring through the season. Schayes recently was selected as the outstanding player in the metropolitan area and McCauley was named the best visiting player to appear here this year.

Preceding the NYU-St. Louis tussle at Madison Square Garden, Western Kentucky and DePaul will battle for third place in the tournament.

The tournament champion automatically goes into the Olympic tryouts on the same side of the bracket as Louisville, which qualified for the trials opening here March 27 by winning the NAIB tourney at Kansas City last week.

Bruce Boys Meet Sparks, In Western Final Today

Central Girls Will Play At Rockville

Allegany county's representatives in the Maryland Class "C" scholastic basketball tournament will take to the road today to play in games that will determine the western shore's finalists.

Coach Jack Petry's Bruce High School floormen of Westernport will journey to Towson to battle it out with Sparks High School of Baltimore county. This game will be played at the Towson armory and will get under way at 2:30 o'clock.

Princess Anne Is Finalist.

The winner will play host to Princess Anne High School of Somerset county on either Friday or Saturday in the finals of the Class "C" tournament.

Bruce High gained the right to represent Allegany county by defeating Central High of Lonaconing in a playoff game. In the first inter-county contest the Westernport school eliminated Boonsboro High of Washington county, 65-38.

Coach Elva Love Davis' Central High School girls of Lonaconing moved to the finals of the western shore competition by defeating Middletown, 30-27, last week, and will meet Richard Montgomery High School's sextet today at 3:30 o'clock at Rockville, Montgomery county.

Final Game Comes West

Today's winner will entertain Denton High School of Caroline county, Eastern Shore, on either Friday or Saturday. If Central wins the state finals will be staged in Lonaconing.

Ridgeley Legion Cops YMCA Tourney Opener

Black Knights, South End Win Close Games

Ridgeley's American Legion cagers made their debut in the Central YMCA tournament last night and trounced the Lonaconing A.A. by the score of 59-23 in the senior unlimited division.

The combined attack of "Ace" Comer, Hartman and Phillips produced 48 points for the winners. Ridgeley held a 32-7 lead at halftime.

In the first game on the second night's program, the Black Knights won an overtime battle from the Lions, 23-22, in the 115-pound class.

Harry Hixenbaugh, substitute for Imes, who fouled out in the extra period, tossed the winning goal after the Lions had taken a 22-21 lead. The regulation game ended 21-21.

The Dragons moved into the semi-final bracket of the 115-pound class by topping the Terrible Termites, 29-23. Smith of the Termites and Rice of the Dragons tied for high scoring honors with 12 points each.

In a pair of junior unlimited class contests, the South End Merchants took the Ellerslie Eagles, 28-25, and the Variety Five conquered Wolf's Furniture quint, 31-14. Fielders by Tucker and Birmingham in the closing minutes won for South End after Ellerslie had taken a 25-24 lead.

In a 135-pound class game, Ballard's Cleaners turned back the Coney Vets, 22-14, to advance to the semi-finals. Lineups:

Herman Hickman Appointed Coach Of Yale Gridders

Army Line Coach Will Install T-Formation

NEW HAVEN, Conn., March 16 (INS) — Herman Hickman, West Point line coach, was named tonight as the new head football coach at Yale.

Speaking of Hickman's acceptance of the Yale post, Athletic Director Kiphuth hailed him as a "great player and great personality," and added:

"We feel ourselves fortunate to have obtained one of the most outstanding men in the field of coaching."

Hickman, never previously a head coach, said: "I consider this a great opportunity, and challenge. I can hardly wait to get started."

West Point said it was releasing Hickman with "deep regret and appreciation for his splendid work."

He said he proposed to install the T-formation attack, as used with such devastating effect by Blaik's Army teams since 1943 under the inspired drive of Glenn Davis and "Doc" Blanchard.

Hickman has personally developed seven All American linesmen since taking over the West Point chore in '43, the list including last year's Joe Steffy, a virtually unanimous choice as first team guard. "Tex" Coulter, tackle, now with the New York (pro) Giants, was another outstanding Hickman development.

Hickman played professionally after graduating from Tennessee in 1932, spending three seasons with the old Brooklyn Dodgers of the National Football League before taking his first coaching job. This was as assistant at Wake Forest, after which he joined the coaching staff at North Carolina State.

The association with Blaik, and the great West Point teams of the war-time and post-war seasons, followed. Hickman was born at Johnson City, Tenn., 36 years ago, and played at Baylor Prep, Chattanooga, before entering Tennessee.

Bedford High Takes District No. 5 Title

Bisons Mark Up 41-33 Victory Over Berlin

BEDFORD, Pa., March 16 — Bedford High School defeated Berlin High School for the District No. 5 basketball title tonight in a game staged at Conemaugh Township High School, Davidsville, Pa. The score was 41-33.

The Bisons will play the winner of the Altoona-Conemaugh Borough game on Friday in the next round of the state tournament.

Berlin held a 15-10 edge at the close of the first quarter but at halftime the Bisons were out in front, 26-25, and also at the close of the third period, 33-27.

Ohio's Governor Puts 23-Day Ban On Boxing Shows

Measures Are Sought To Prevent Fatalities

CHICAGO, March 16 (AP) — The Illinois Athletic Commission will ban professional boxing in the state for 23 days in accord with a request from Gov. Dwight H. Green.

Gov. Green asked for the shutdown pending adoption of measures to prevent ring fatalities. Commission Chairman Sheldon Clark said he accepted the governor's request "in complete accord." The commission will act formally on the matter at a Thursday session.

Leaving no doubt the governor's suggestion would be adopted, Clark said: "the 23-day suspension will give us time to put into effect methods of tightening up the boxing code.

"It's pretty tough for one state to clear up and tighten the rules of boxing as they exist," explained Calrk. "I'm trying to get the National Boxing Association (of which Illinois is a member) to form a plan to run the game on a clean, sane and systematic basis so as to safeguard the life and health of the boxers."

Specific recommendations will be made by Clark on March 20 at the NBA meeting in Philadelphia. Clark said he will back a complete and detailed registration of boxers which will be immediately available upon request.

A governor's spokesman said the proposed suspension would apply to both professional and amateur cards. Clark expressed surprise that the amateurs would be involved. The International Golden Gloves amateur show will not be affected since it will be held April 13 in Chicago six days after the ban is lifted.

The move climaxes criticism of the conduct of the sport that followed the death of Sam Baroudi, 20 year old Akron, O., boxer who died after being knocked out in the Chicago Stadium ring Feb. 20. He collapsed and succumbed to a cerebral hemorrhage six hours after fighting Ezzard Charles, Cincinnati, top ranking contender for the world's light heavyweight championship.

Detroit Purchases Toledo's Mud Hens

DETROIT, March 16—(AP)—The Detroit Baseball Company today announced purchase of the Toledo Mudhens in the American Association, giving the Tigers three triple-A clubs in their farm system.

Detroit will not operate the Mudhens, however, until 1949. In the same triple-A club bracket are Seattle and Buffalo.

The announcement said that the Detroit farm system will include 12 clubs, five of which are owned outright. They are Toledo, Williamsport, Pa., Flint, Mich., Thomasville, Ga., and Troy, Ala.

Belloise Scores TKO

CLEVELAND, March 16 (AP) — Steve Belloise, hard-hitting New York middleweight, won a technical knockout victory over Irish Mickey Doyle of Cleveland tonight at 33 seconds of the seventh round of a slam-bang main event slated for 10 rounds. Belloise weighed 160; Doyle 158.

Isaac Singer patented the first practical domestic sewing machine in 1851 and is credited with placing it in the home.

LaSALLE COACH — Edward A. "Art" Garbark is LaSalle's new baseball coach. Announcement of his appointment to that position was made last night by Brother Gregory, director of athletics at the North Centre Street school. Garbark is a former minor league player and for the past several years has piloted winning teams for Fort Cumberland Post No. 13, American Legion, in the Interstate League.

Art Garbark Is Named LaSalle's Baseball Coach

New Mentor To Meet Candidates March 22

Appointment of Edward A. "Art" Garbark as coach of LaSalle High School's baseball team for the 1948 season was announced yesterday by Brother Gregory, director of athletics at the local school.

Barbark succeeds Brother Declan, coach of the Explorers' 1947 championship team in the Tri-State Conference, who is now a member of the faculty of St. John's High School, Washington, D. C.

LaSalle's new mentor is a native of Texas, and before coming to Cumberland resided in New York, Pittsburgh, and East Orange, N. J. He attended St. Benedict's Prep, Newark, N. J., where he played on championship baseball teams for two seasons. At Edgewood High School, Pittsburgh, he played on two undefeated football teams and also was a member of the school's basketball, track and baseball teams. He and his brother formed the battery of the Edgewood High baseball team.

In his freshman year at the University of Pittsburgh, Garbark played on an undefeated football team.

Garbark's minor league record shows that he has played with Frederick (Blue Ridge League); Salisbury (Piedmont League); Columbia (South Atlantic League) and Muskogee (Western League). Before coming here he managed Clarksburg, W. Va., in the West Virginia State League. For the past two years "Art" has served as playing manager of the local Legion team in the Interstate League.

Garbark is district representative of the Otis Elevator Company.

The new coach will meet with candidates for LaSalle's team in the Explorers' room of the school on March 22. The 1948 squad will include the following holdovers: James Collins, Bernard Beck, Joe Reissig, outfielders; James Close and Richard Leo, infielders, and Pat Creegan, Norman Sell, Hugh Miller and Robert Wood, pitchers.

LaSalle will be represented at the regular meeting of the Tri-State Baseball Conferenc Monday, March 22, at 8 p. m., at the Central YMCA.

Bethesda Girls Defeat Locals In Cage Thriller

Unbeaten Montgomery Team Cops 17 In Row

Coach Dorothy Quayle's Bethesda-Chevy Chase High School sextet, undefeated in two seasons, eliminated Fort Hill High School's girls from the Maryland Class "A" basketball tournament by turning back the locals last night on the Fort Hill court by the score of 35-33.

The triumph gave the Montgomery county team the western shore title and the right to play Salisbury High School of the Eastern Shore for state honors Friday night at Bethesda.

Eleanor Welker's seventh and final field goal after the teams had been deadlocked at 33-33 decided last night's thriller an gave Bethesda-Chevy Chase its 17th consecutive triumph of the season.

The visitors held the lead for three quarters, 13-6, 19-14 and 28-20 but in the fourth quarter the score was knotted at 29, 31 and 33 before Miss Welker tossed the winning basket.

Charlene Jamison and Eleanor Welker, 15-year-old juniors accounted for all but one of the winning team's points. Miss Welker hammered the hoops for seven fielders and five foul goals, a total of 19 points, while-her running mate garnered 15 points on seven double-deckers and a singleton.

Doris Adams and Clara Hudson made 31 points between them for the home team. Miss Adams gathered 16 points on eight fielders and Miss Hudson racked up 15 points on seven field goals and one foul. Miss Decker was ejected on personal fouls in the third period.

Bethesda-Chevy Chase won the Washington Evening Star girls' tournament last year but did not compete in the state games. This season's undefeated sextet has rolled up 700 points against 300 for the opposition.

The lineups:

Bethesda (35)	Pos.	Fort Hill (33)
Jamison	f	Kirby
Richtmyer	f	Hudson
Welker	f	Adams
Winkler	c	Clark
Ghaffin	g	DeAngelo
Flock	g	Decker

Points by periods:

BETHESDA	12	6	9	7	—35
FORT HILL	6	8	6	13	—33

Substitutes: Fort Hill—Conway, Burch, Miller.

Field goals—Bethesda: Jamison 7, Welker 7. Fort Hill: Kirby 1, Hudson 7, Adams 3.

Foul goals—Bethesda: Jamison 1-2; Richtmyer 1-2, Welker 5-9. Fort Hill: Kirby 0-1, Hudson 1-1, Adams 0-2.

Officials—Miller and Ward.

Limit Set At Eight; Cozad Elected Prexy

Nine teams are seeking berths in the City Softball League for the 1948 season but the eight holdover clubs from last season have voted to limit the league's membership to eight organization. John R. Kelly, Jr., secretary-treasurer, announced last night.

At a meeting of the league on Monday night at the Amvets' Home, the holdover teams represented were Lacy's Delicatets, Amvets, Astor Cab, North End Social and Athletic Club, Reed's Electricians, Veterans of Foreign Wars and Joe's Crusaders, formerly the Concord Clothiers.

New applicants for franchises were Mower's Bakery and Tole's Confectionery.

The 1947 teams agreed that league membership should be limited to eight clubs and one of the new teams will ye voted into the league at the next meeting to be held at the Amvets' Home, Tuesday, March 23, at 7:30 p. m.

Officers elected for the coming season were Floyd "Sammy" Cozad, president; Robert "Ace" Baker, vice president, and John R. Kelly, secretary-treasurer.

Violent Ray Wins

OHIO RACE TRACKS WILL BAN CHILDREN UNDER 16 YEARS OLD

COLUMBUS, O., March 16—(INS)—The Ohio Racing Commission today barred all children under 16 years of age from race tracks throughout the state.

Commission Chairman O. C. Belt said the only exceptions were race programs carried on in conjunction with county fairs.

The action was taken after it was suggested and requested by track operators at a public hearing. The track officials indicated they felt it was "bad for the children" to allow them on the tracks and also posed a problem for the operators.

The commission also made official a ruling requiring installation of totalizators at all Ohio tracks "in excess of three-fourths of a mile in length."

Cerdan Seeks Crack At Rocky Graziano

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Marcel Cerdan, French middleweight boxing champion, left by plane today for Paris, saying he was "more eager than ever" to meet Rocky Graziano, the world titleholder.

Cerdan, who knocked out Lavern Roach of Plainview, Tex., here Friday night, next meets Lucien Krawsick in Paris March 25.

Although Graziano is under suspension in New York and in difficulty with several other state boxing boards, Cerdan said he hoped to get a chance at the title some time this year.

Bills' Manager Quits

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16—(AP)—The Buffalo Bills of the All-America Football Conference announced today that Carl E. (Bus) Owen resigned as general manager and "left for Chicago this morning."

The Buffalo Evening News said Owen will manage the reorganized Chicago Rockets. The newspaper quoted him as saying, "I'm glad to get back to my home territory with a chance to put another team on the map."

Clyde B. Smith Named Successor To Bo McMillan

Gets 3-Year Contract At Indiana University

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, March 16 (AP)—The Big Nine today had two new football coaches—one a complete surprise at Michigan and the other a small college coach who landed at Indiana.

All-time Michigan football great, Benny Oosterbaan, was popped into Fritz Crisler's head coaching job at Michigan, while Clyde B. Smith, a mild-mannered, little mentor from La Crosse (Wis.) State Teachers College got the call at Indiana.

Oosterbaan, perhaps college football's greatest pass-receiver, was boosted into the Wolverine bossing spot as Coach Crisler, monarch of all he surveyed in the collegiate realm, retired to exclusive athletic directorship. Benny was a Wolverine aide since 1938.

Smith, 42, was named to fill the Indiana post vacated when Alvin (Bo) McMillin became head coach of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League.

Crisler's Move Surprises

Crisler's decision to quit coaching after piloting Michigan to an undefeated season, a Big Nine championship and an overwhelming 49-0 Rose Bowl triumph over Southern California left his colleagues scratching their heads in wonderment.

Crisler said his retirement was due to the press of his energy and time by his manifold duties as coach-athletic director.

But speculation generally credited him with quitting while he was on top and holding the whip hand at a school which long had held Fielding (Hurry-Up) Yost as its coaching idol.

Last year, Crisler took a provocative plane trip to California, admittedly shopping for the University of California coaching job. He agreed to remain at Michigan under certain conditions, one stipulating that enrollment would not be barred to out-of-state athletes.

Crisler's successor, hulking, friendly and jocular Oosterbaan is almost a direct opposite of Indiana's new coach, 5-foot, 7-inch Smith, who is quiet-spoken and somewhat typical of a high school principal in manners and demeanor.

Signs 3-Year Contract

Smith was signed to a three-year contract last night in a Chicago hotel by Indiana Athletic Director Paul (Pooch) Harrell. No salary terms were disclosed.

Smith, whose teams won 32 games in 48 starts during a seven-season stay at La Crosse, was both a playing and coaching protege of McMillin. Smith, who neither smokes, drinks nor uses strong language, played backfield and end under McMillin at Geneva College and then was Bo's line coach at Indiana from 1934 through 1937.

Smith said he would install a single wingback formation "with variations" at Indiana. McMillin was a single wingback proponent, with his "cock-eyed T" twist.

Cerdan Seeks Crack At Rocky Graziano

NEW YORK, March 16—(AP)—Marcel Cerdan, French middleweight boxing champion, left by plane today for Paris, saying he was "more eager than ever" to meet Rocky Graziano, the world titleholder.

Cerdan, who knocked out Lavern Roach of Plainview, Tex., here Friday night, next meets Lucien Krawsick in Paris March 25.

Although Graziano is under suspension in New York and in difficulty with several other state boxing boards, Cerdan said he hoped to get a chance at the title some time this year.

Bills' Manager Quits

BUFFALO, N. Y., March 16—(AP)—The Buffalo Bills of the All-America Football Conference announced today that Carl E. (Bus) Owen resigned as general manager and "left for Chicago this morning."

The Buffalo Evening News said Owen will manage the reorganized Chicago Rockets. The newspaper quoted him as saying, "I'm glad to get back to my home territory with a chance to put another team on the map."

Clyde B. Smith Named Successor To Bo McMillan

Gets 3-Year Contract At Indiana University

By JERRY LISKA

CHICAGO, March 16 (AP)—The Big Nine today had two new football coaches—one a complete surprise at Michigan and the other a small college coach who landed at Indiana.

All-time Michigan football great, Benny Oosterbaan, was popped into Fritz Crisler's head coaching job at Michigan, while Clyde B. Smith, a mild-mannered, little mentor from La Crosse (Wis.) State Teachers College got the call at Indiana.

Oosterbaan, perhaps college football's greatest pass-receiver, was boosted into the Wolverine bossing spot as Coach Crisler, monarch of all he surveyed in the collegiate realm, retired to exclusive athletic directorship. Benny was a Wolverine aide since 1938.

Smith, 42, was named to fill the Indiana post vacated when Alvin (Bo) McMillin became head coach of the Detroit Lions in the National Football League.

Crisler's Move Surprises

Crisler's decision to quit coaching after piloting Michigan to an undefeated season, a Big Nine championship and an overwhelming 49-0 Rose Bowl triumph over Southern California left his colleagues scratching their heads in wonderment.

Crisler said his retirement was due to the press of his energy and time by his manifold duties as coach-athletic director.

But speculation generally credited him with quitting while he was on top and holding the whip hand at a school which long had held Fielding (Hurry-Up) Yost as its coaching idol.

Last year, Crisler took a provocative plane trip to California, admittedly shopping for the University of California coaching job. He agreed to remain at Michigan under certain conditions, one stipulating that enrollment would not be barred to out-of-state athletes.

Crisler's successor, hulking, friendly and jocular Oosterbaan is almost a direct opposite of Indiana's new coach, 5-foot, 7-inch Smith, who is quiet-spoken and somewhat typical of a high school principal in manners and demeanor.

Signs 3-Year Contract

Smith was signed to a three-year contract last night in a Chicago hotel by Indiana Athletic Director Paul (Pooch) Harrell. No salary terms were disclosed.

Smith, whose teams won 32 games in 48 starts during a seven-season stay at La Crosse, was both a playing and coaching protege of McMillin. Smith, who neither smokes, drinks nor uses strong language, played backfield and end under McMillin at Geneva College and then was Bo's line coach at Indiana from 1934 through 1937.

Smith said he would install a single wingback formation "with variations" at Indiana. McMillin was a single wingback proponent, with his "cock-eyed T" twist.

KEEPING UP WITH

HOLLYWOOD

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 16—(INS)—Dorothy Stickney, who is here to play in "The Tatlock Millions," tells me that "Life With Mother," is entirely different from "Life With Father." It's a sequel to "Father," written by her husband, Howard Lindsay, who has written with Russell Crouse.

Victor Moore

"Of course, they are the same characters," Miss Stickney said, "and my husband and I play father and mother as we did in 'Father,' but we have to get all new children. The youngsters who originally worked with us have all grown up."

Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse have finished the play, Miss Stickney said. I predicted that they would do this long before they actually started work on it.

"We open out of town in May with 'Life With Mother' and bring it to Broadway in June. We do not dare hope it will be as good as 'Life With Father.'"

I will take that bet!

Greer Garson admits she is terribly excited over the invitation extended her to star in "As you Like It" at the annual Central City festival in July.

Otto Preminger, who is invited to direct Greer in the Shakespearean play, also is pleased at the honor given him.

He said, "If Greer and I are free, and not making a picture in July, we will certainly accept."

Lina Romay and her new beau, Oleg Cassini, attracted a lot of attention dining together at the Beverly Derby. But, then, Lina always does all right in the matter of escorts, having as many suitors as any girl in town.

Now it looks as though her career is beginning to catch up with her publicity for she is getting a real break in "Sunburst" on the Warner lot, with Dane Clark and Geraldine Brooks. I happen to know that Lina was heartbroken when she and MGM parted company. She played nothing but Latins in their musicals.

Actually, she is only half Latin—her mother being Irish and her father Mexican. So she is really singing about her first non-Latin character in the Warner movie.

Victor Moore is saying adieu to New York and the stage and settling down in California with his young wife. He has just bought a new house and has decided to make his home in our sunny clime—too sunny for the drought sufferers.

Victor, who was such a terrific hit in "It Happened On 5th Avenue," plays an important role in "Kiss In the Dark" at Warners. He is an eccentric but kindly old landlord of a Manhattan apartment house where Jane Wyman and David Niven live.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Linda Christian leaves for Mexico March 28, to remain while Tyrone Power is on location. He goes to Sun Valley March 29.

Kay Williams and Adolph Spreckles have bought a house in Bel-Air and will divide their time between Hollywood and San Francisco.

Molly and Charlie Berns of "21" fame are here from New York and were at the Mocambo Saturday night at the Fortnighters Club shindig.

Greer Garson was with Otto Preminger, Gene Tierney with Charlie Feldman.

Virginia Mayo is out of the hospital after a bad attack of sinus which laid her low and caused her acute suffering all the time she was making her picture.

Ann Sothern still has the travel bug. She is just back from Sun Valley, and is now planning a European trip and may make a picture abroad.

Jacqueline White and Phil Reed doing the spots, chiefly Le Papillon.

"Body and Soul," which has been running at the Globe Theater in New York four months, gives way on April 3rd to "Arch of Triumph."

Very nice bonus Susan Hayward gets. Walter Wanger is sending her on a trip to New York to plug "Tap-root." After a week of interviews, photographs, etc., she will be given a week to do as she pleases, and all on an expense account. Pretty nice!

Jean Dalrymple is in London conferring with George Bernard Shaw and trying to work out the same deal with him for his plays that Gabriel Pascal has for the movies. Meanwhile, she is seeing a lot of her old friend, Jose Iturbi, who just happens to be in London at the same time.

That's all today.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT

Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress

Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Barbara Fulton, Premiere Ballet Dancer of Sweethearts, Now Teaching Ballroom Dancing at the Moyer Studio.

Those of you who saw last week's production of "Sweethearts" will remember the premiere ballet dancer, Miss Barbara Fulton. Miss Fulton has studied ballet with John Moyer since she was eleven years old and has now graduated to teaching ballroom dancing. Other new instructors at the Moyer studio are Patricia Kirk, Russian Ballet, and Janet Myrley, tap and musical comedy dancing. In addition to supervising all classes, Mr. Moyer teaches acrobatic, exhibition ballroom and adagio dancing.

The Moyer Studios have just been completely renovated and an additional room for ballroom instruction has been added. New classes are now forming in ballroom dancing under Miss Fulton's direction. Pupils of all ages should telephone Mr. Moyer at 2147 or come to the studios at 231 South Mechanic Street.

By LOUELLA PARSONS

HOLLYWOOD, March 16—(INS)—Dorothy Stickney, who is here to play in "The Tatlock Millions," tells me that "Life With Mother," is entirely different from "Life With Father." It's a sequel to "Father," written by her husband, Howard Lindsay, who has written with Russell Crouse.

Victor Moore

"Of course, they are the same characters," Miss Stickney said, "and my husband and I play father and mother as we did in 'Father,' but we have to get all new children. The youngsters who originally worked with us have all grown up."

Howard Lindsay and Russell Crouse have finished the play, Miss Stickney said. I predicted that they would do this long before they actually started work on it.

"We open out of town in May with 'Life With Mother' and bring it to Broadway in June. We do not dare hope it will be as good as 'Life With Father.'"

I will take that bet!

Greer Garson admits she is terribly excited over the invitation extended her to star in "As you Like It" at the annual Central City festival in July.

Otto Preminger, who is invited to direct Greer in the Shakespearean play, also is pleased at the honor given him.

He said, "If Greer and I are free, and not making a picture in July, we will certainly accept."

Lina Romay and her new beau, Oleg Cassini, attracted a lot of attention dining together at the Beverly Derby. But, then, Lina always does all right in the matter of escorts, having as many suitors as any girl in town.

Now it looks as though her career is beginning to catch up with her publicity for she is getting a real break in "Sunburst" on the Warner lot, with Dane Clark and Geraldine Brooks. I happen to know that Lina was heartbroken when she and MGM parted company. She played nothing but Latins in their musicals.

Actually, she is only half Latin—her mother being Irish and her father Mexican. So she is really singing about her first non-Latin character in the Warner movie.

Victor Moore is saying adieu to New York and the stage and settling down in California with his young wife. He has just bought a new house and has decided to make his home in our sunny clime—too sunny for the drought sufferers.

Victor, who was such a terrific hit in "It Happened On 5th Avenue," plays an important role in "Kiss In the Dark" at Warners. He is an eccentric but kindly old landlord of a Manhattan apartment house where Jane Wyman and David Niven live.

Snapshots of Hollywood collected at random:

Linda Christian leaves for Mexico March 28, to remain while Tyrone Power is on location. He goes to Sun Valley March 29.

Kay Williams and Adolph Spreckles have bought a house in Bel-Air and will divide their time between Hollywood and San Francisco.

Molly and Charlie Berns of "21" fame are here from New York and were at the Mocambo Saturday night at the Fortnighters Club shindig.

Greer Garson was with Otto Preminger, Gene Tierney with Charlie Feldman.

Virginia Mayo is out of the hospital after a bad attack of sinus which laid her low and caused her acute suffering all the time she was making her picture.

Ann Sothern still has the travel bug. She is just back from Sun Valley, and is now planning a European trip and may make a picture abroad.

Jacqueline White and Phil Reed doing the spots, chiefly Le Papillon.

"Body and Soul," which has been running at the Globe Theater in New York four months, gives way on April 3rd to "Arch of Triumph."

Very nice bonus Susan Hayward gets. Walter Wanger is sending her on a trip to New York to plug "Tap-root." After a week of interviews, photographs, etc., she will be given a week to do as she pleases, and all on an expense account. Pretty nice!

Jean Dalrymple is in London conferring with George Bernard Shaw and trying to work out the same deal with him for his plays that Gabriel Pascal has for the movies. Meanwhile, she is seeing a lot of her old friend, Jose Iturbi, who just happens to be in London at the same time.

That's all today.

IF STOMACH BALKS DUE TO GAS AND BLOAT

Help Get Food Digested to Relieve Yourself of This Nervous Distress

Do you feel all puffed-up and miserable after every meal, taste sour, bitter food? If so, here is how you may get blessed relief in helping your stomach do the job—it should be doing—in the digestion of its food.

Everytime food enters the stomach a vital gastric juice must flow normally to break-up certain food particles; else the food may ferment. Sour food, acid indigestion and gas frequently cause a morbid, touchy, fretful, peevish, nervous condition, loss of appetite, underweight, restless sleep, weakness.

To get real relief you must increase the flow of this vital gastric juice. Medical authorities, in independent laboratory tests on human stomachs, have by positive proof shown that SSS Tonic is amazingly effective in increasing this flow when it is too little or scanty due to a non-organic stomach disturbance. This is due to the SSS Tonic formula which contains special and potent activating ingredients.

Also, SSS Tonic helps build-up non-organic, weak, watery blood in nutritional anemia—so with a good flow of this gastric digestive juice, plus rich red-blood you should eat better, sleep better, feel better, work better, play better.

Avoid punishing yourself with overdoses of soda and other alkalizers to counteract gas and bloating when what you so dearly need is SSS Tonic to help you digest food for body strength and repair. Don't wait! Join the host of happy people SSS Tonic has helped. Millions of bottles sold. Get a bottle of SSS Tonic from your drug store today. SSS Tonic helps Build Sturdy Health.

Mrs. Skidmore, Frostburg, Dies In Hospital There

Survivors Include Three Children

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Frances MacGregor Skidmore, 42, 125 Bowery Street, died Tuesday morning at iMners Hospital, where she had been a patient since Sunday morning.

She was the widow of Louis Skidmore and a daughter of the late Alexander and Mary MacGregor. Survivors include three children, Louis Skidmore, Hancock; Robert Skidmore, with the Army at Fort Knox, Ky., and Phyllis Skidmore, at home; a sister, Mrs. Ivan Shrewbridge, Anawalt, W. Va., and a brother, Samuel MacGregor, Baltimore. The body is at the family home.

To Attend Conference

Prof. Ivan C. Diehl, head of the geography department at Frostburg State Teachers' College, will leave this morning with a group of students to attend the 22 annual meeting of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers, which will be held in the Hotel Commodore, New York, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The college has sent a student delegation to these meetings each year. For the past two years Prof. Diehl has represented the colleges of Maryland on the Board of Control. The only student member on the Board of Control from Maryland is Miss Betty Poffenberger, Hagerstown, a senior at the Frostburg college.

The general theme of the conference is "Freedom Through Education." Participating in a panel discussion on "Promoting Freedom in the Teaching Profession," William Henline, Hancock, a senior, will discuss "Bias in Textbooks." Miss Poffenberger will speak on "The Contribution of Student Government in the Development of Free Citizens."

Prof. Diehl has arranged a full day of sightseeing for the group, including a conducted tour to the United Nations headquarters at Lake Success on Thursday.

The group plans to return to the campus Sunday evening. Prof Diehl, Miss Poffenberger and Henline will be accompanied by James Mc Morran, Frostburg.

Plans Service

First Presbyterian Church will observe Palm Sunday with special services in the morning and evening.

Rev. John Cameron Taylor, pastor, will preach at the 11 o'clock service Sunday on the subject, "The King of Glory." Special music will be under the direction of Mrs. John C. Taylor and the organ accompaniments will be played by Mrs. James T. Taylor.

The theme at the evening service at 7:30 will be "The Life of Christ," which will be presented in seven phases, annunciation, nativity, youth, ministry, crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension.

Paintings will be projected on a screen to depict these seven phases. Again there will be special music.

Frostburg Brief

The Van Dyke Bible class of First Methodist Church will meet tomorrow evening in the church lecture room. A program will be presented by Mrs. Dora Willison, Miss Annie Kiers, Mrs. Thomas Richardson and Mrs. Herman Wagner. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Herbert Griffith, Mrs. Fatkin, Mrs. Kyle and Mrs. Bepler.

Frostburg Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Randall Milburn announce the birth of a daughter Sunday in Miners Hospital.

Jack Dorn, Broadway, is vacationing in Florida.

Russell Lehr, Ormond Street, is reported seriously ill.

Miss Anna Byrnes, Grant Street, is a surgical patient in Miners Hospital.

William Shuck, local bus driver and secretary of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, who has been a patient at the Veterans Hospital, Fort Howard, Md., returned yesterday for further treatment after spending the weekend here with his family.

Mrs. Michael Carey and daughter, Eileen, Flushing, N. Y., and Mrs. Estella McGrann, East Pittsburgh, returned after visiting their cousins, Mrs. Estella Weisenborn and Herman, Joseph and James Bauer, West Main Street. They were called here because of the death of Mrs. John W. Porter, Lonaconing, sister of Mrs. Carey and Mrs. McGrann.

Mrs. Ida Bepler is home after spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. William Marlow, Charles Town, W. Va.

Mrs. Ernest Drew and daughter, Midlothian, and Mrs. William Winebrenner and son, this city, are home from Miners Hospital.

Death Of Levels Man Is Termed Accidental

ROMNEY, W. Va.—A verdict of accidental death has been issued in the case of Lester D. Kidwell, 20, Levels, who was found dead in his parked car near Romney last Wednesday morning, Hampshire County Coroner A. L. Russell announced yesterday.

A bullet from a .22 caliber target pistol the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker was handling caromed from the windshield of the car and struck Kidwell in the forehead, the coroney said.

A funeral service for Mr. Kidwell was held Friday in Levels Methodist Church and burial was in the church cemetery.

Westernport Will Adopt Change In Fiscal Year

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and City Council of Westernport have ordered that the city charter be changed to make the fiscal year end June 30 instead of March 30.

At the meeting Monday, City Clerk J. Garry Getty read a communication from James J. Lacy, Baltimore, chairman of the Maryland Commission of Uniform Accounts, who enclosed a copy of the resolution passed at the recent meeting of the commission.

The resolution provides that each county, incorporated city or town and taxing district, on or before June 30, adopt as the period of its fiscal transactions either the calendar year or one beginning with the first of July.

Francis Mertz, Walnut Street, appeared and explained that water was running into his property. An investigation will be made.

A letter from the Westernport and Luke Civic Club thanking the town for its contributions to the Westernport Library was read.

The petition of Charles J. Welsh requesting his name be placed on the official ballot as a candidate for city commissioner at the city election March 29 was approved.

Plan Easter Dance

Tickets for the first Easter dance sponsored by the Bruce High School Alumni Association to be held at the school auditorium Monday, March 29, will go on sale tomorrow.

Tickets may be purchased from the following alumni members, Mrs. Mary Hicks, Mrs. Aurora Derham, Miss Mary Hanna, Miss Mary Ross, Browne Kooken, Homer Michael, Harry J. Biggs and Hugh Wilson. These same persons will sell both dance and spectator tickets.

Howare Gale and his orchestra have been engaged to provide the music for the dance.

Brief Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Miller Washington, has returned home after visiting Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Stanley.

Mrs. Richard Boucher and son, Rickey, Baltimore, have returned home after visiting Mrs. Boucher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Atkins, Westernport.

A semi-formal public dance sponsored by Piedmont Council No. 685, nKights of Columbus, will be held tonight at St. Peter's Hall, Westernport. Music for the dance from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. will be furnished by Jay Van's Orchestra.

Bloomington Ladies Auxiliary will hold a St. Patrick's Day bazaar today at 8 p. m. in the firemen's Hall at Bloomington.

Mrs. Annie Hardy, Romney, who underwent an operation in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, is improving at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Moorehead, Bloomington.

116 Pupils Of Mt. Savage School Are Absent Because Of Sickness

One Diphtheria Case Reported

By MRS. ROSE O'ROURKE

MT. SAVAGE—One hundred and sixteen pupils of the Mt. Savage School were absent yesterday due to illness, according to Prof. J. Orville Kefauver, principal of the school. Numerous cases of mumps and measles account for the majority of absentees, but there are a few cases of pneumonia and one of diphtheria, a member of the Allegany County Health Department said last night.

The diphtheria victim, 13-year-old Allen Pugh, was stricken last Thursday and is rapidly improving, according to the county health nurse. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pugh and is in the eighth grade.

The diphtheria quarantine lasts 14 days. This is the first diphtheria case in Mt. Savage for several years, and one of the few cases in the history of the community.

William Griffith Dies

William Franklin Griffith, 65, a former rubber worker at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, Cumberland, died yesterday morning at his home here on Railroad Street after an illness of several years.

A son of the late William and Isabelle Glover Griffith, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Agnes Cunningham Griffith, and a daughter, Miss Ida Griffjth. Three brothers, John, Dayton, Ohio; David, Carlysville, Ill., and Glover, Flint, Mich., also three sisters, Mrs. G. K. Dunn, Mrs. Ida Paris and Maud Walker, all of Richmond, Va.

He was a member of the St. George's Church. A funeral service the home with Rev. Rudolph Gunkel will be held Thursday afternoon at officiating.

VFW Dance Tonight

Old Rail Post No. 6025, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a dance Wednesday night in their club room, Main Street, with dancing from 9 p. m. to 2 a. m. Music will be by Edgar Grose and the solovox.

Personals

Glover Griffith, Ohio, is here because of the death of his uncle, Frank Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burch have returned from Bethesda where they visited John Sansom, their son-in-law, who recently underwent a major operation.

Miss Ann O'Connor, R. N., Washington, visited her aunts, the Misses Jane, Mary and Loretto O'Connor.

Mrs. Skidmore, Frostburg, Dies In Hospital There

Survivors Include Three Children

By RUDOLPH NICKEL

FROSTBURG—Mrs. Frances MacGregor Skidmore, 42, 125 Bowery Street, died Tuesday morning at iMners Hospital, where she had been a patient since Sunday morning.

She was the widow of Louis Skidmore and a daughter of the late Alexander and Mary MacGregor. Survivors include three children, Louis Skidmore, Hancock; Robert Skidmore, with the Army at Fort Knox, Ky., and Phyllis Skidmore, at home; a sister, Mrs. Ivan Shrewbridge, Anawalt, W. Va., and a brother, Samuel MacGregor, Baltimore. The body is at the family home.

To Attend Conference

Prof. Ivan C. Diehl, head of the geography department at Frostburg State Teachers' College, will leave this morning with a group of students to attend the 22 annual meeting of the Eastern States Association of Professional Schools for Teachers, which will be held in the Hotel Commodore, New York, Thursday, Friday, and Saturday.

The college has sent a student delegation to these meetings each year. For the past two years Prof. Diehl has represented the colleges of Maryland on the Board of Control. The only student member on the Board of Control from Maryland is Miss Betty Poffenberger, Hagerstown, a senior at the Frostburg college.

The general theme of the conference is "Freedom Through Education." Participating in a panel discussion on "Promoting Freedom in the Teaching Profession," William Henline, Hancock, a senior, will discuss "Bias in Textbooks." Miss Poffenberger will speak on "The Contribution of Student Government in the Development of Free Citizens."

Prof. Diehl has arranged a full day of sightseeing for the group, including a conducted tour to the United Nations headquarters at Lake Success on Thursday.

The group plans to return to the campus Sunday evening. Prof Diehl, Miss Poffenberger and Henline will be accompanied by James Mc Morran, Frostburg.

Plans Service

First Presbyterian Church will observe Palm Sunday with special services in the morning and evening.

Rev. John Cameron Taylor, pastor, will preach at the 11 o'clock service Sunday on the subject, "The King of Glory." Special music will be under the direction of Mrs. John C. Taylor and the organ accompaniments will be played by Mrs. James T. Taylor.

The theme at the evening service at 7:30 will be "The Life of Christ," which will be presented in seven phases, annunciation, nativity, youth, ministry, crucifixion, resurrection, and ascension.

Paintings will be projected on a screen to depict these seven phases. Again there will be special music.

Frostburg Brief

The Van Dyke Bible class of First Methodist Church will meet tomorrow evening in the church lecture room. A program will be presented by Mrs. Dora Willison, Miss Annie Kiers, Mrs. Thomas Richardson and Mrs. Herman Wagner. Refreshments will be served by Mrs. Herbert Griffith, Mrs. Patkin, Mrs. Kyle and Mrs. Bepler.

Frostburg Personals

Jack Dorn, Broadway, is vacationing in Florida.

Russell Lehr, Ormond Street, is reported seriously ill.

Miss Anna Byrnes, Grant Street, is a surgical patient in Miners Hospital.

William Shuck, local bus driver and secretary of Farrady Post No. 24, American Legion, who has been a patient at the Veterans Hospital, Fort Howard, Md., returned yesterday for further treatment after spending the weekend here with his family.

Mrs. Michael Carey and daughter, Eileen, Flushing, N. Y., and Mrs. Estella McGrann, East Pittsburgh, returned after visiting their cousins, Mrs. Estella Weisenborn and Herman, Joseph and James Bauer, West Main Street. They were called here because of the death of Mrs. John W. Porter, Lonaconing, sister of Mrs. Carey and Mrs. McGrann.

Mrs. Ida Bepler is home after spending the winter with Mr. and Mrs. William Marlow, Charles Town, W. Va.

Mrs. Ernest Drew and daughter, Midlothian, and Mrs. William Winebrenner and son, this city, are home from Miners Hospital.

Death Of Levels Man Is Termed Accidental

ROMNEY, W. Va.—A verdict of accidental death has been issued in the case of Lester D. Kidwell, 20, Levels, who was found dead in his parked car near Romney last Wednesday morning, Hampshire County Coroner A. L. Russell announced yesterday.

A bullet from a .22 caliber target pistol the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company worker was handling caromed from the windshield of the car and struck Kidwell in the forehead, the coroney said.

A funeral service for Mr. Kidwell was held Friday in Levels Methodist Church and burial was in the church cemetery.

Westernport Will Adopt Change In Fiscal Year

WESTERNPORT — The Mayor and City Council of Westernport have ordered that the city charter be changed to make the fiscal year end June 30 instead of March 30.

At the meeting Monday, City Clerk J. Garry Getty read a communication from James J. Lacy, Baltimore, chairman of the Maryland Commission of Uniform Accounts, who enclosed a copy of the resolution passed at the recent meeting of the commission.

The resolution provides that each county, incorporated city or town and taxing district, on or before June 30, adopt as the period of its fiscal transactions either the calendar year or one beginning with the first of July.

Francis Mertz, Walnut Street, appeared and explained that water was running into his property. An investigation will be made.

A letter from the Westernport and Luke Civic Club thanking the town for its contributions to the Westernport Library was read.

Th. petition of Charles J. Welsh requesting his name be placed on the official ballot as a candidate for city commissioner at the city election March 29 was approved.

Plan Easter Dance

Tickets for the first Easter dance sponsored by the Bruce High School Alumni Association to be held at the school auditorium Monday, March 29, will go on sale tomorrow.

Tickets may be purchased from the following alumni members, Mrs. Mary Hicks, Mrs. Aurora Derham, Miss Mary Hanna, Miss Mary Ross, Browne Kooken, Homer Michael, Harry J. Biggs and Hugh Wilson. These same persons will sell both dance and spectator tickets.

Howare Gale and his orchestra have been engaged to provide the music for the dance.

Brief Mention

Mr. and Mrs. Carl B. Miller Washington, has returned home after visiting Mrs. Miller's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Forest Stanley.

Mrs. Richard Boucher and son, Rickey, Baltimore, have returned home after visiting Mrs. Boucher's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Atkins, Westernport.

A semi-formal public dance sponsored by Piedmont Council No. 685, nKights of Columbus, will be held tonight at St. Peter's Hall, Westernport. Music for the dance from 9 p. m. to 1 a. m. will be furnished by Jay Van's Orchestra.

Bloomington Ladies Auxiliary will hold a St. Patrick's Day bazaar today at 8 p. m. in the firemen's Hall at Bloomington.

Mrs. Annie Hardy, Romney, who underwent an operation in Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, is improving at the home of her daughter, Mrs. Francis Moorehead, Bloomington.

116 Pupils Of Mt. Savage School Are Absent Because Of Sickness

One Diphtheria Case Reported

By MRS. ROSE O'ROURKE

MT. SAVAGE—One hundred and sixteen pupils of the Mt. Savage School were absent yesterday due to illness, according to Prof. J. Orville Kefauver, principal of the school. Numerous cases of mumps and measles account for the majority of absentees, but there are a few cases of pneumonia and one of diphtheria, a member of the Allegany County Health Department said last night.

The diphtheria victim, 13-year-old Allen Pugh, was stricken last Thursday and is rapidly improving, according to the county health nurse. Allen is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Russell Pugh and is in the eighth grade.

The diphtheria quarantine lasts 14 days. This is the first diphtheria case in Mt. Savage for several years, and one of the few cases in the history of the community.

William Griffith Dies

William Franklin Griffith, 65, a former rubber worker at the Kelly-Springfield Tire Company plant, Cumberland, died yesterday morning at his home here on Railroad Street after an illness of several years.

A son of the late William and Isabelle Glover Griffith, he is survived by his widow, Mrs. Agnes Cunningham Griffith, and a daughter, Miss Ida Griffith. Three brothers, John, Dayton, Ohio; David, Carlysville, Ill., and Glover, Flint, Mich., also three sisters, Mrs. G. K. Dunn, Mrs. Ida Paris and Maud Walker, all of Richmond, Va.

He was a member of the St. George's Church. A funeral service the home with Rev. Rudolph Gunkel will be held Thursday afternoon at officiating.

VFW Dance Tonight

Old Rail Post No. 6025, Veterans of Foreign Wars, will sponsor a dance Wednesday night in their club room, Main Street, with dancing from 9 p. m. to 2 a. m. Music will be by Edgar Grose and the solovox.

Personals

Glover Griffith, Ohio, is here because of the death of his uncle, Frank Griffith.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Burch have returned from Bethesda where they visited John Sansom, their son-in-law, who recently underwent a major operation.

Miss Ann O'Connor, R. N., Washington, visited her aunts, the Misses Jane, Mary and Loretto O'Connor.

Truman's Talk To St. Patrick's Day Diners On Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 16. — President Truman's St. Patrick's day address in New York is to go on the air Wednesday night at 10:30. It will be carried by CBS and MBS as he speaks at a dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. He is expected to talk approximately 20 minutes.

The MBS network says that it expects to get its revived Opinionaire Forum under way on Wednesday after an unexpected last-minute postponement from last week. It will, in that case, go on at 10 with a discussion of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Last week's cancellation, the New York MBS headquarters said, was due to inability to complete the speaking roster on the question of "Do We Need a Third Party?" This occurred so late that it was decided to hold the start-off for another week. Last week's listing had been a postponement from the previous week.

MBS says that it is to have a debate on the controversial Fair Employment Practices code in place of its Encore Theater at 8. One side of the question will be handled by Rep. John M. Rankin of Miss., Democrat, and Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party of New York city.

Margaret O'Brien is on the records for the Bing Crosby Show on ABC at 10. They've rigged up a St. Patrick's Day program, it being the magic date of March 17.

The late night efforts at 11:15 of Robert the Q. Lewis (incidentally the Q. just stands for Q.) will have some St. Patrick's night cooperation of Mike Donovan, doorman at the CBS headquarters in New York. He sings Irish tenor. This appearance actually is a return to the program for MIKE, for he had been on once before.

Cures By Good Nursing

The cures brought about by good nursing were viewed as miraculous from the very first days of the Christian era right through the 17th century, and a first-rate nurse stood a good chance of achieving sainthood. One of the most recent of such saints was Mme. de Chantal, who was canonized in 1641. An inquiry was held with peasants from her estates testifying to the wonderful cures brought about by her nursing.

RADIO IN REVIEW

By JOHN CROSBY

The Case of the Hen-Pecked Crook

The henpecked husband, possibly the oldest character in drama, turned up the other night on "This Is Your F. B. I." (ABC 8:30 p.m. EST Fridays) in a way that ought to end his criminal career for good. The criminal protagonist of this piece had a hellcat of a wife who never tired of reminding her husband that the wife of another and more adept crook had mink coats while she had to scrabble around in last year's beaver.

John Crosby

"If you don't go out and steal something big within the next month, I'm leaving," snarled this unattractive lady. It's an old, old ultimatum which has been heard by many husbands, but it was a little surprising to find it in this context. Well, sir, he said "Yes, dear," pulled the job and succeeded only in getting himself into worse difficulties with his wife. "You got $22,000 on that job and you only give me $1,500," she snapped. "Get up the rest or I'm leaving." A criminal's wife, it developed has certain advantages. She can read the exact details of her husband's earnings in the morning papers, whereas our incomes are not as a rule published. Perhaps honesty is the best policy.

This, in fact, is the message contained in "This Is Your F. B. I.," and usually it is delivered with a similar vague and unexpected twist. I suppose the twist enhances its value as drama but it certainly diminishes its social impact. "This Is Your F. B. I.," it ought to be explained, is the official program of the F. B. I. and has received the august blessing of J. Edgar Hoover.

This seal of approval marks it off from the unofficial F. B. I. program called "The F. B. I. in Peace and War." The unofficial one is based on a book about the G-men which must be one of the most exhaustive works ever written. Each program is a separate episode, the show has been running for years and still the crimes keep coming. "This Is Your F. B. I." is based on official F. B. I. cases, though they sound as if they had been pretty thoroughly doctored for radio. I bring all this up because as essays in crime prevention, I take a pretty dim view of both of them and, if anything, the unofficial one is a little better than the official one.

While justice always triumphs in both of them, it doesn't score any more resounding victories than it does in any other crime shows, F. B. I. or otherwise. Crime persistently doesn't pay in any of these things and yet criminals continue to find that out the hard way. Either our criminals are uneducable—if you think of a better word, slip it in there — or the methods employed on the radio are all wrong. prefer to cling to the latter belief but the F. B. I. apparently holds to the former since "This Is Your F. B. I." ends with a defiant but rather discouraging challenge to "America's army of criminals." The phrase suggests that the F. B. I. is up against hopeless odds but that it will continue to fight on the beaches, in the fields and in the streets and will never surrender. Inasmuch as the F. B. I. is a fairly well equipped and well-heeled organization, I don't think the picture is quite that melancholy.

To get back as briefly as possible to that domestic drama, the henpecked husband was forced reluctantly to shoot his partner in order to procure the rest of that $22,000. "I'm sorry, Eddie," he murmured apologetically, as he frisked him. If Eddie, who was as dead as a mackerel, could have heard he would have understood. Anything for peace and quiet in the home.

As I remarked earlier, this is probably the ultimate development of the Jiggs and Maggie theme and we can let it alone for awhile and start on something else. I'd like to add just one more observation. Through the years I have been conditioned to laugh at the henpecked husband and I laughed at this one, too. But there were times in this drama when it was very tough going.

Stocks Tumble Sharply As News Developments Put Chill On Market

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — Foreign and domestic news put a chill on today's stock market and leaders suffered their sharpest and fastest spill since early February.

Transfers of 940,000 shares compared with 690,000 Monday and were the largest since February 11.

Numerous customers trimmed or shelved accounts pending tomorrow's congressional address of the President which was expected to stress the country's military necessities. A big batch of record earnings for important corporations was virtually ignored.

Steels, motors, oils, rails, mail orders, coppers, amusements and airlines were in front of the retreat.

The Associated Press 60 - stock composite was off .9 of a point at 60.5, widest reaction since February 10. The industrial average lost 1.1 points at 83.3, a bottom for the year. It also was the broadest market since February 10. Of 1,031 issues registering, 789 fell and only 94 advanced.

Lows for 1948 were touched by U. S. Steel, which ended off 1⅜ at 67½; General Motors one at 50⅜; Goodrich 1½ at 47¼, Montgomery Ward 1¼ at 47¼, Illinois Central 1⅜ at 27½, Baltimore and Ohio one-half at 10¼ and American Telephone three-eighths at 148½.

Coca-Cola conceded three points at 160. Down one to two or so were Bethlehem Steel at 30½, Youngstown Sheet 66⅝, Chrysler 53⅝, Studebaker 16⅜, Goodyear 39, Deere 95¼, Phelps Dodge 41⅝, American Smelting 48, Dow Chemical 36, du Pont 164½, Allied Chemical 172, United States Gypsum 94¼, International Paper 43, Twentieth Century-Fox 20⅛, Mission Corporation, 49⅜, and Southern Railway 35¼.

Among curb sliders were Aluminum Ltd., Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, Kaiser-Frazer, Pantepec and Fairchild Engine. Turnover here was 240,000 shares versus 180,000 yesterday.

Foreign issues had another sinking spell in the bond market.

Homemade Soup Adds To Frugal Meals

Starting a meal off with a nutritious and filling soup is an old trick to make a penny-saving meal seem like a banquet. Since a filling first course can be counted on to take the edges from appetites, the small portions of the main course will be entirely adequate.

There's something very special about homemade soup and the family will feel well-treated indeed when you make the soup yourself. Making soup is really quite simple. Some soups can be made quickly, while others require long, slow cooking. Use a large, covered porcelain enameled sauce pot for cooking the soup. The even-heating enameleware will help to keep the temperature just right with less watching.

An old favorite is potato soup and the recipe below can be prepared in about one-half hour.

Potato Soup

4 cups potatoes, peeled and diced
4 medium-sized onions, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups water
4 cups milk
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup margarine

Cook potatoes, onions and salt in the water until tender. Force through a coarse sieve. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly. Makes 6 servings. Serve with crisp crackers or croutons.

Don't settle down for an afternoon chat in a crowded restaurant where people are waiting for tables.

Truman's Talk To St. Patrick's Day Diners On Radio

By C. E. BUTTERFIELD

NEW YORK, March 16. — President Truman's St. Patrick's day address in New York is to go on the air Wednesday night at 10:30. It will be carried by CBS and MBS as he speaks at a dinner of the Friendly Sons of St. Patrick. He is expected to talk approximately 20 minutes.

The MBS network says that it expects to get its revived Opinionaire Forum under way on Wednesday after an unexpected last-minute postponement from last week. It will, in that case, go on at 10 with a discussion of the Taft-Hartley Act.

Last week's cancellation, the New York MBS headquarters said, was due to inability to complete the speaking roster on the question of "Do We Need a Third Party?" This occurred so late that it was decided to hold the start-off for another week. Last week's listing had been a postponement from the previous week.

MBS says that it is to have a debate on the controversial Fair Employment Practices code in place of its Encore Theater at 8. One side of the question will be handled by Rep. John M. Rankin of Miss., Democrat, and Rep. Vito Marcantonio, American Labor Party of New York city.

Margaret O'Brien is on the records for the Bing Crosby Show on ABC at 10. They've rigged up a St. Patrick's Day program, it being the magic date of March 17.

The late night efforts at 11:15 of Robert the Q. Lewis (incidentally the Q. just stands for Q.) will have some St. Patrick's night cooperation of Mike Donovan, doorman at the CBS headquarters in New York. He sings Irish tenor. This appearance actually is a return to the program for MIKE, for he had been on once before.

Cures By Good Nursing

The cures brought about by good nursing were viewed as miraculous from the very first days of the Christian era right through the 17th century, and a first-rate nurse stood a good chance of achieving sainthood. One of the most recent of such saints was Mme. de Chantal, who was canonized in 1641. An inquiry was held with peasants from her estates testifying to the wonderful cures brought about by her nursing.

Radio In Review

By JOHN CROSBY

The Case of the Hen-Pecked Crook

The henpecked husband, possibly the oldest character in drama, turned up the other night on "This Is Your F. B. I." (ABC 8:30 p.m. EST Fridays) in a way that ought to end his criminal career for good. The criminal protagonist of this piece had a hellcat of a wife who never tired of reminding her husband that the wife of another and more adept crook had mink coats while she had to scrabble around in last year's beaver.

John Crosby

"If you don't go out and steal something within the next month, I'm leaving," snarled this unattractive lady. It's an old, old ultimatum which has been heard by many husbands, but it was a little surprising to find it in this context. Well, sir, he said "Yes, dear," pulled the job and succeeded only in getting himself into worse difficulties with his wife. "You got $2,000 on that job and you only give me $1,500," she snapped. "Get up the rest or I'm leaving." A criminal's wife. it developed has certain advantages. She can read the exact details of her husband's earnings in the morning papers, whereas our incomes are not as a rule published. Perhaps honesty is the best policy.

● — ● — ●

This, in fact, is the message contained in "This Is Your F. B. I." and usually it is delivered with a similar vague and unexpected twist. I suppose the twist enhances its value as drama but it certainly diminishes its social impact. "This Is Your F. B. I." it ought to be explained, is the official program of the F. B. I. and has received the august blessing of J. Edgar Hoover.

This seal of approval marks it off from the unofficial F. B. I. program called "The F. B. I. in Peace and War." The unofficial one is based on a book about the G-men which must be one of the most exhaustive works ever written. Each program is a separate episode, the show has been running for years and still the crimes keep coming. "This Is Your F. B. I." is based on official F. B. I. cases, though they sound as if they had been pretty thoroughly doctored for radio. bring all this up because as essays in crime prevention, I take a pretty dim view of both of them and, if anything, the unofficial one is a little better than the official one.

While justice always triumphs in both of them, it doesn't score any more resounding victories than it does in any other crime shows, F. B. I. or otherwise. Crime persistently doesn't pay in any of these things and yet criminals continue to find that out the hard way. Either our criminals are uneducable—if you think of a better word, slip it in there — or the methods employed on the radio are all wrong. I prefer to cling to the latter belief but the F. B. I. apparently holds to the former since "This Is Your F. B. I." ends with a defiant but rather discouraging challenge to "America's army of criminals." The phrase suggests that the F. B. I. is up against hopeless odds but that it will continue to fight on the beaches, in the fields and in the streets and will never surrender. Inasmuch as the F. B. I. is a fairly well equipped and well-heeled organization, I don't think the picture is quite that melancholy.

To get back as briefly as possible to that domestic drama, the henpecked husband was forced reluctantly to shoot his partner in order to procure the rest of that $22,000. "I'm sorry, Eddie," he murmured apologetically, as he frisked him. If Eddie, who was as dead as a mackerel, could have heard he would have understood. Anything for peace and quiet in the home.

As I remarked earlier, this is probably the ultimate development of the Jiggs and Maggie theme and we can let it alone for awhile and start on something else. I'd like to add just one more observation. Through the years I have been conditioned to laugh at the henpecked husband and I laughed at this one, too. But there were times in this drama when it was very tough going.

Stocks Tumble Sharply As News Developments Put Chill On Market

NEW YORK, March 16 (AP) — Foreign and domestic news put a chill on today's stock market and leaders suffered their sharpest and fastest spill since early February.

Transfers of 940,000 shares compared with 690,000 Monday and were the largest since February 11.

Numerous customers trimmed or shelved accounts pending tomorrow's congressional address of the President which was expected to stress the country's military necessities. A big batch of record earnings for important corporations was virtually ignored.

Steels, motors, oils, rails, mail orders, coppers, amusements and aircrafts were in front of the retreat.

The Associated Press 60 - stock composite was off .9 of a point at 60.5, widest reaction since February 10. The industrial average lost 1.1 points at 83.3, a bottom for the year. It also was the broadest market since February 10. Of 1,031 issues registering, 789 fell and only 94 advanced.

Lows for 1948 were touched by U. S. Steel, which ended off 1⅜ at 67½; General Motors one at 50⅜; Goodrich 1½ at 47¼, Montgomery Ward 1¼ at 47¼, Illinois Central 1⅜ at 27⅝, Baltimore and Ohio one-half at 10⅛ and American Telephone three-eighths at 148¼. Coca-Cola conceded three points at 160. Down one to two or so were Bethlehem Steel at 30½, Youngstown Sheet 66⅞, Chrysler 53⅝, Studebaker 16⅝, Goodyear 39, Deere 95⅛, Phelps Dodge 41⅝, American Smelting 48, Dow Chemical 36, du Pont 164½, Allied Chemical 172, United States Gypsum 94¼, International Paper 43, Twentieth Century-Fox 20⅛, Mission Corporation, 49⅜, and Southern Railway 35⅛.

Among curb sliders were Aluminum Ltd., Cities Service, Creole Petroleum, Kaiser-Frazer, Pantepec and Fairchild Engine. Turnover there was 240,000 shares versus 180,000 yesterday.

Foreign issues had another sinking spell in the bond market.

Position Of Treasury

WASHINGTON, March 16 (AP) — The position of the Treasury March 12:

Receipts, $221,950,142.32; expenditures, $99,718,376.58; balance, $3,884,-684,081.86; customs receipts for month, $19,234,868.93; receipts fiscal year July 1, $29,456,274,632.04; expenditures fiscal year, $24,258,237,-199.80; excess of receipts, $5,198,-037,432.24; total debt, $254,013,695,-723.46; increase over previous day, $10,468,230.18; gold assets, $23,091,-223,942.46.

N. Y. Eggs And Butter

Homemade Soup Adds To Frugal Meals

Starting a meal off with a nutritious and filling soup is an old trick to make a penny-saving meal seem like a banquet. Since a filling first course can be counted on to take the edges from appetites, the small portions of the main course will be entirely adequate.

There's something very special about homemade soup and the family will feel well-treated indeed when you make the soup yourself. Making soup is really quite simple. Some soups can be made quickly, while others require long, slow cooking. Use a large, covered porcelain enameled sauce pot for cooking the soup. The even-heating enameledware will help to keep the temperature just right with less watching.

An old favorite is potato soup and the recipe below can be prepared in about one-half hour.

Potato Soup

4 cups potatoes, peeled and diced
4 medium-sized onions, sliced
1½ teaspoons salt
2 cups water
4 cups milk
¼ teaspoon pepper
¼ cup margarine

Cook potatoes, onions and salt in the water until tender. Force through a coarse sieve. Add remaining ingredients and heat thoroughly. Makes 6 servings. Serve with crisp crackers or croutons.

This you have a right to expect . . .

Regardless of what price you pay for a suit of clothes, you have a right to expect that it looks well on you. Even the finest garment can be ruined in altering . . . and by the same token, even a moderately price suit can take on a "custom-tailored" look when it is fitted and altered with skill and good judgement.

We, here at The Manhattan, realize the importance of this fact and never consider a sale completed until we and the customer are completely satisfied that the suit has been properly fitted and altered.

Men who take pride in their appearance are conscious of this superior Manhattan service which, they know, costs them nothing, but adds immeasurably to their prestige and the value of every garment that bears The Manhattan label.

Legion Auxiliary Meets

The American Legion Auxiliary voted to give $10 to the Red Cross drive underway in Moorefield.

Mrs. Ted Sager, chairman of the girl Scout committee, reported that registration for a troop is now under way. As yet, no leader has been found.

The St. Patrick Dance, held in the American Legion home Saturday night, was well attended and another square dance will be held April 17.

Mrs. L. R. Grover, Mrs. P. W. Clarke and Miss Ruth Kessel entertained the ladies at the White House Inn after the meeting.

Hardy County Briefs

Democrats are making gains in the county-wide registration, according to the early reports received in County Clerk C. C. Wise's office. Canvassers are making a house to house canvass of the voters which will be completed by April 1. Clerk Wise stated that any voter could be registered up until April 10 in the Clerk's office.

Earl B. Thrush is constructing a one-story concrete block garage on the rear of the Thrush Funeral Home. The work started last week. The new structure will be approximately 50 feet by 50 feet.

Mrs. Wilbur Sions taught the lesson "What's New In Better Foods" at the meeting of the Home Workers Farm Women's Club Friday at the home of Mrs. Thomas Peterson. Mrs. Herbert Sions was installed as a new member of the club and Mrs. Willye Shumaker was a guest. The members of the group gave Mrs. William See a miscellaneous shower.

Aristocrats will provide music for dancing. Entertainment will be presented at intermission.

Rites Planned Thursday For Infant Train Victim

HANCOCK—A graveside funeral service will be conducted Thursday morning for James Roger Mills, Jr., two years old, who was instantly killed by a Western Maryland train Monday.

Surviving are the parents, James Roger Mills and Rosalee Carnes Mills, one brother, Douglas McArthur, and two sisters, Retta Jean and Peggy Anne.

The body will remain at the family home until Thursday morning at 10 o'clock when the body will be taken to St. Peter's Catholic cemetery, Hancock, with Father Charles B. Monmonier officiating.

Infants Rites Thursday

HANCOCK—A funeral service will be held Thursday at 1 p. m. for Fern Olleze Bishop, infant daughter of George Edward and Susie Virginia Younker Bishop, Hancock, who died Monday at 9:45 at the Washington County Hospital, Hagerstown.

Rev. D. Olney White will officiate. Interment will be in Rehobeth Methodist cemetery near Hancock.

John W. Wilson Rites Held Monday

KITZMILLER—A funeral service for John W. Wilson, this place, was held at the family home Monday with Rev. Jonathan Edwards, pastor of the Presbyterian Church, in charge.

Wilson was the son of the late Mr. and Mrs. Alvesey Wilson and was born in Garrett County October 8, 1874. He died at Memorial Hospital, Cumberland, Friday morning.

He is survived by his widow, who before her marriage was Myrtle Pew, and nine children: Theodore Wilson, Swanton; Mrs. Olive Snyder, Blaine, W. Va.; Wilda Mowery, Akron, Ohio; Mrs. Vera Whetsell, Elk Garden, W. Va.; Mrs. Margaret Blackburn, Keyser, W. Va.; Mrs. Lorraine Liller, Blaine, W. Va.; Hugh Wilson and John Wilson, both of Kitzmiller, and Mark Wilson, Oklahoma City, Okla.

SAFETY AND SERVICE

In the compounding of prescriptions, safety must always be the first consideration. We shall never forget this paramount point. But we try earnestly to give you superior service as a plus consideration. Courtesy, promptness, uniformly fair prices—these, too, are important considerations. They are yours, also, as a patron of this "Reliable" Pharmacy. We invite you to bring your next prescription to us.

Keech's Drug 43 Virginia Ave. Phones 1686 - 255

This you have a right to expect . . .

Regardless of what price you pay for a suit of clothes, you have a right to expect that it looks well on you. Even the finest garment can be ruined in altering . . . and by the same token, even a moderately price suit can take on a "custom-tailored" look when it is fitted and altered with skill and good judgement.

We, here at The Manhattan, realize the importance of this fact and never consider a sale completed until we and the customer are completely satisfied that the suit has been properly fitted and altered.

Men who take pride in their appearance are conscious of this superior Manhattan service which, they know, costs them nothing, but adds immeasurably to their prestige and the value of every garment that bears The Manhattan label.

U. S. Signal Corps Accidental Invention Of Surgeon Who Sought Aid for Deaf

By JOHN PETERSEN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Stranger than fiction is the story of the development of the United States Army Signal Corps in 85 years from the "wig-wag" system of sending messages before the Civil war to today's successful radar contact with the moon.

Actually the Corps got its start not from a militaristic desire on the part of the Army officers to send messages back and forth in other ways than personal carriers, but from the work of an obscure surgeon seeking a sign language for the deaf.

This Army surgeon, Albert J. Myer, developed a system of communications which gave military leaders new means of control over troops under their command.

• • •

MYER, who later became a brigadier general and the first chief signal officer, used flags for his "wig-wag" in the daytime and flaring torches by night.

The system was first used by the Army during the Navajo campaign several years before the Civil war. Myer and a handful of enlisted men introduced the signals by spelling out messages with flags and torches from tree tops and hills.

From such humble beginnings has sprouted the present day Signal Corps—the nerves of the Army—with its center in the Pentagon building at Washington from which radio, wire and other channels of communication reach out all over the world to wherever American soldiers are on duty.

Looking at it one way, it was the Signal Corps which was responsible for formation of the highly integrated Weather Bureau and the United States Air Force.

It was in 1870 that Army officers realized the prime importance of knowing accurately weather conditions at the site of planned military operations. Hence the Signal Corps established a weather reporting system.

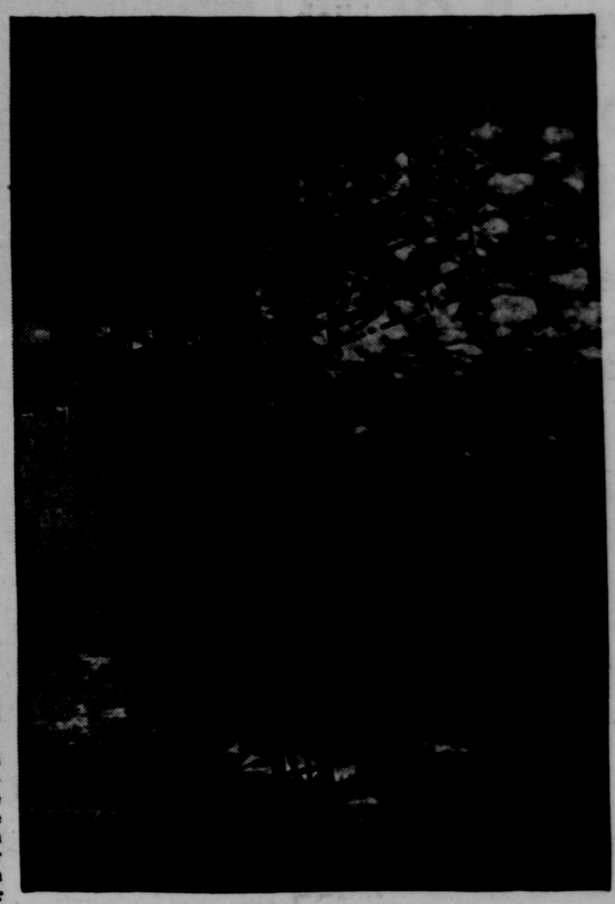
This has since grown into the present Weather Bureau of the Department of Commerce. That's the weatherman whose forecasts are consumed by the public in daily newspapers and periodicals.

• • •

IN 1892 the Signal Corps established a balloon section and 15 years later, in 1907, an aeronautical division with one plane—the forerunner of the United States Air Force!

Essentially, of course, the story between Surgeon Myer's "wig-wag" and the Signal Corps in the post-World War II period was written in the laboratory rather than in the field.

Because of constant research and development, signal communications in the military establishment today are effected through radio, telephone, radar, sound, light and other media.



SIGNAL CORPS radar tower as it sent signals to the moon.

ROCKET used by the Signal Corps to lay a field telephone wire.

Despite the fact that United States troops are deployed throughout the world—some of them in particularly remote areas—they nevertheless remain in close touch with "headquarters" thanks to the efficient communication system provided by the signal corps.

Much of the research conducted by the Signal Corps is carried on in its own laboratories at Fort Monmouth, N. J., where scientists are constantly studying new uses and adaptations of radar, radio, photography, meteorology and other sciences.

It was at Fort Monmouth that Signal Corps scientists planned the tests which resulted in successful radar contact with the moon.

Engineers used an ultra-sensitive receiver to detect faint echoes of the initial radar pulses reflected from the moon in the breath-taking first inter-planetary "communication."

And it is at Fort Monmouth, too, that scientists have developed 65-degree-below zero weather and snow which can't be told from the "real thing" in arctic climes.

This has proved valuable in the testing of equipment which might have to be used some day under extreme cold.

Signal Corps scientists have also developed the radiosonde, a device which measures air pressure, temperature, humidity, wind speed and wind direction.

• • •

THE RADIOSONDE is attached to balloons sent high into the air The information is used in plotting daily weather maps.

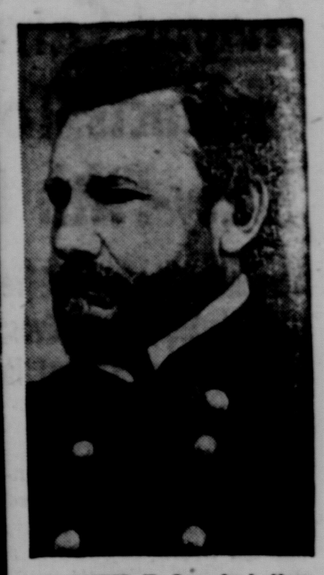
At Fort Dix, N. J., an improved type of wire dispenser has now made it possible to use rockets in laying lightweight field telephone wire over inaccessible terrain.

Maj. Gen. Spencer B. Akin, chief signal officer, however, is not standing pat on these startling developments. He reports:

"The defense problem (of the future) will be one involving rockets and guided missiles traveling thousands of miles at terrific speeds far beyond anything we have ever known before.

"We know that whatever the future defense entails, we must not merely keep abreast of these developments but ahead of them.

"What we had yesterday is not enough for today and what we have now probably will not be enough for tomorrow."



HE STARTED IT—Gen. A. J. Myer.

Pythians Observe Notable Dates

By PEARL BLAIR

MIDLAND—A program marking notable days in March featured a recent meeting of the Pythian Sisters, held in Red Men's Hall. Members whose birthdays are in January, February or March were honored.

Recitations and readings pertaining to St. Patrick's Day, the first day of Spring, Maryland Day, Holy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter were presented.

Those taking part were Bartie Clark, Anna Jenkins, Viola McGann, and Catherine Stevens. The latter sang an Easter hymn, accompanied at the piano by Aleda Wilson, and another hymn was sung by Mrs. Fannie Kroll and her daughter, Norma.

Brief Item

The Midland Homemakers will meet tonight at 7:30 in Red Men's Hall.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fatkins, Vale Summit, announce the birth of a son March 9 in Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Mrs. Fatkins is the former Delores Sires.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thomas was baptized Donna Kaye in St. Joseph's Catholic Church Sunday by Rev. John J. Reilly. Sponsors were Mrs. Frank McElwee, Midland, and John Dohany, Baltimore. Frank McElwee acted as proxy for the latter.

Mrs. Walter Platt has returned to Pittsburgh after spending the past week visiting relatives here and in Lonaconing.

Mrs. Joseph Wilson is home from Miners Hospital.

Lawrence Stakem, Baltimore, was a weekend visitor at the home of his brothers, Clement and Thomas Stakem.

U. S. Signal Corps Accidental Invention Of Surgeon Who Sought Aid for Deaf

By JOHN PETERSEN
Central Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON—Stranger than fiction is the story of the development of the United States Army Signal Corps in 85 years from the "wig-wag" system of sending messages before the Civil war to today's successful radar contact with the moon.

Actually the Corps got its start not from a militaristic desire on the part of the Army officers to send messages back and forth in other ways than personal carriers, but from the work of an obscure surgeon seeking a sign language for the deaf.

This Army surgeon, Albert J. Myer, developed a system of communications which gave military leaders new means of control over troops under their command.

• • •

MYER, who later became a brigadier general and the first chief signal officer, used flags for his "wig-wag" in the daytime and flaring torches by night.

The system was first used by the Army during the Navajo campaign several years before the Civil war. Myer and a handful of enlisted men introduced the signals by spelling out messages with flags and torches from tree tops and hills.

From such humble beginnings has sprouted the present day Signal Corps—the nerves of the Army—with its center in the Pentagon building at Washington from which radio, wire and other channels of communication reach out all over the world to wherever American soldiers are on duty.

Looking at it one way, it was the Signal Corps which was responsible for formation of the highly integrated Weather Bureau and the United States Air Force.

It was in 1870 that Army officers realized the prime importance of knowing accurately weather conditions at the site of planned military operations. Hence the Signal Corps established a weather reporting system.

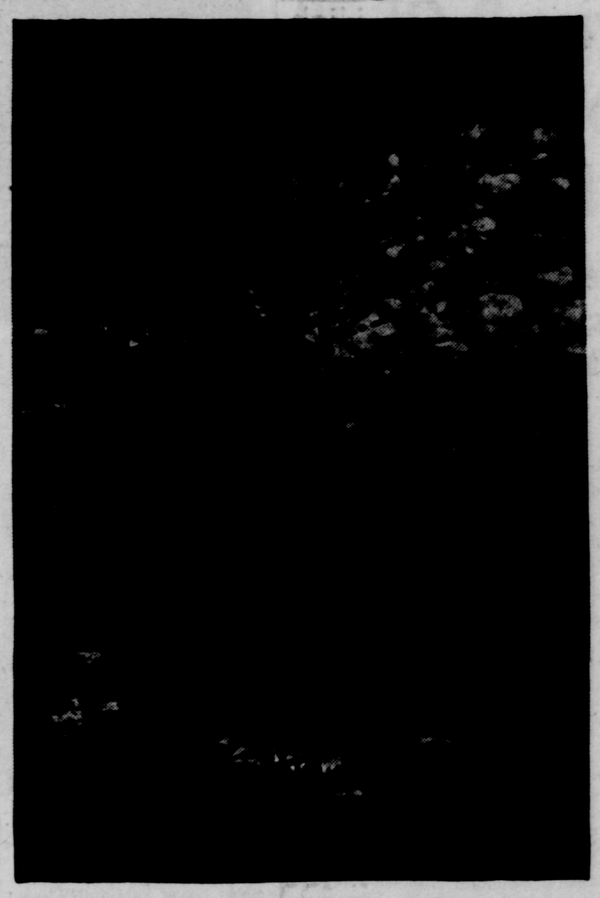
This has since grown into the present Weather Bureau of the Department of Commerce. That's the weatherman whose forecasts are consumed by the public in daily newspapers and periodicals.

• • •

IN 1892 the Signal Corps established a balloon section and 15 years later, in 1907, an aeronautical division with one plane—the forerunner of the United States Air Force!

Essentially, of course, the story between Surgeon Myer's "wig-wag" and the Signal Corps in the post-World War II period was written in the laboratory rather than in the field.

Because of constant research and development, signal communications in the military establishment today are effected through radio, telephone, radar, sound, light and other media.

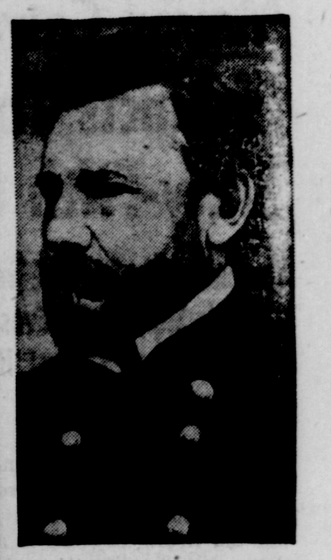


SIGNAL CORPS radar tower as it sent signals to the moon.

ROCKET used by the Signal Corps to lay a field telephone wire.

Despite the fact that United States troops are deployed throughout the world—some of them in particularly remote areas—they nevertheless remain in close touch with "headquarters" thanks to the efficient communication system provided by the signal corps.

Much of the research conducted by the Signal Corps is carried on in its own laboratories at Fort Monmouth, N. J., where scientists are constantly studying new uses and adaptations of radar, radio, photography, meteorology and other sciences.



HE STARTED IT—Gen. A. J. Myer.

It was at Fort Monmouth that Signal Corps scientists planned the tests which resulted in successful radar contact with the moon.

Engineers used an ultra-sensitive receiver to detect faint echoes of the initial radar pulses reflected from the moon in the breath-taking first inter-planetary "communication."

And it is at Fort Monmouth, too, that scientists have developed 65-degree-below zero weather and snow which can't be told from the "real thing" in arctic climes.

This has proved valuable in the testing of equipment which might have to be used some day under extreme cold.

Signal Corps scientists have also developed the radiosonde, a device which measures air pressure, temperature, humidity, wind speed and wind direction.

• • •

THE RADIOSONDE is attached to balloons sent high into the air The information is used in plotting daily weather maps.

At Fort Dix, N. J., an improved type of wire dispenser has now made it possible to use rockets in laying lightweight field telephone wire over inaccessible terrain.

Maj. Gen. Spencer B. Akin, chief signal officer, however, is not standing pat on these startling developments. He reports:

"The defense problem (of the future) will be one involving rockets and guided missiles traveling thousands of miles at terrific speeds far beyond anything we have ever known before.

"We know that whatever the future defense entails, we must not merely keep abreast of these developments but ahead of them.

"What we had yesterday is not enough for today and what we have now probably will not be enough for tomorrow."

Pythians Observe Notable Dates

By PEARL BLAIR

MIDLAND—A program marking notable days in March featured a recent meeting of the Pythian Sisters, held in Red Men's Hall. Members whose birthdays are in January, February or March were honored.

Recitations and readings pertaining to St. Patrick's Day, the first day of Spring, Maryland Day, Holy Thursday, Good Friday and Easter were presented.

Those taking part were Bartie Clark, Anna Jenkins, Viola McGann, and Catherine Stevens. The latter sang an Easter hymn, accompanied at the piano by Aleda Wilson, and another hymn was sung by Mrs. Fannie Kroll and her daughter, Norma.

Brief Item

The Midland Homemakers will meet tonight at 7:30 in Red Men's Hall.

Personals

Mr. and Mrs. Francis Fatkins, Vale Summit, announce the birth of a son March 9 in Miners Hospital, Frostburg. Mrs. Fatkins is the former Delores Sires.

The infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Thomas was baptized Donna Kaye in St. Joseph's Catholic Church Sunday by Rev. John J. Reilly. Sponsors were Mrs. Frank McElwee, Midland, and John Dohany, Baltimore. Frank McElwee acted as proxy for the latter.

Mrs. Walter Platt has returned to Pittsburgh after spending the past week visiting relatives here and in Lonaconing.

Mrs. Joseph Wilson is home from Miners Hospital.

Lawrence Stakem, Baltimore, was a weekend visitor at the home of his brothers, Clement and Thomas Stakem.

Post Wins Re-election Over Eves By 149 Votes

Mayor Carries 9 Of 20 Precincts To Win On Sixty-Fifth Birthday

Eleven Polling Places Give Their Support To Eves; Balloting Closest In More Than Decade

Mayor Thomas S. Post, running for election to his third term on his 65th birthday, was the victor yesterday in a close contest, defeating his opponent, Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge plant, by a plurality of 149 votes.

The final count:

Thomas S. Post	4,923
Roy W. Eves	4,774

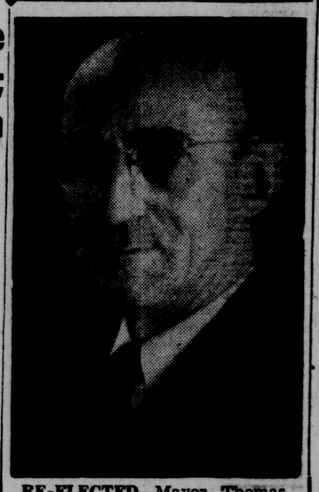
Carrying 11 of the city's 20 polling places, Eves actually won more than half of the precincts, but was defeated by the overwhelming vote given Post in South Cumberland and the splendid support he received in several up-town sections.

With a total of 9,697 ballots accounted for in the mayoralty voting, this represents more than 50 per cent of the city's 18,927 registered eligibles. This number of ballots does not include the ballots thrown out, or those not marked for mayor. The total vote was 1,997 more than the 7,720 reported voting in the primary election March 2.

The election was one of the closest mayoralty contests since George W. Legge defeated Thomas W. Koon by 96 votes, more than a decade ago.

Precincts carried by Post included the following: East Side Fire Station; St. George Motor Company, George Street; Maryland and Central Avenues; Maryland Avenue and Baker Street; Springdale and Third Streets; South End Fire Station; Grand Avenue and Fourth Street; Humbird School; and Mapleside.

Eves carried the West Side Fire Station; Chase and Fayette Streets; Mt. Royal Avenue School; West Side School; Market Street; Canada Hose House; Columbia Street; Franklin Street; Bedford Street; City Hall; and Johnson Heights School.



RE-ELECTED—Mayor Thomas S. Post was returned to office yesterday, defeating his opponent, Roy W. Eves, by 149 votes.

Buchholtz Tops All Candidates In City Election

Keegan, Edwards, Reynolds Elected

William H. Buchholtz, 713 Fayette Street, veteran of World War II, led the balloting yesterday, polling 12 more votes than Mayor Thomas S. Post, to top the ticket in the unofficial returns. His total was 4,935. He finished fourth in the primary on March 2.

William V. Keegan, present commissioner of police and fire, who ran first in the primary, finished in second place with 4,863.

Edgar Reynolds, Louisiana avenue, merchant, who served five successive terms as street commissioner but was defeated four years ago, staged a comeback to finish in third place with 4,655 votes. Reynolds ran in the same position in the primary.

William J. Edwards, present water commissioner, finished in fourth place with 4,324 votes after a close tussle with George H. Tederick who had 4,147 votes to be nosed into fifth place. Edwards ran second in the primary and Tederick ran sixth

Victor M. Hebb finished in sixth place with 3,498 votes. He was in seventh place in the primary.

Clifton E. Fuller, finance commissioner for one term, was defeated, dropping to seventh place from his fifth place primary position. He polled 3,081.

Myers G. Light, present one-term street commissioner who finished eighth in the primary, was unable to move out of that position and polled 2,174 votes yesterday, just 610 more than his primary total.

One of the marked features of the council balloting was the fact that only 611 votes separated the winning top man from the fourth place winner. In the primary, 1,120 votes separated the first and fourth place men.

It was evident from the balloting, that Buchholtz, who declined to run on either slate, did a masterful job as an independent. The other winners were slated in advance of the contest, and numerous combinations were seen at the polls yesterday with Eves and Keegan linked together by banners on numerous cars.

Balloting was steady all day, and the total vote cast was regarded as a record in city elections. Unlike the quiet primary contest, the general election became heated with two powerful combinations battling for control of the City Hall.

In the 1946 general election, 8,397 votes were cast and in 1944 the total was 7,383, compared with yesterday's 9,697.

The first precinct to report returns last night was Ward 1-Precinct 2, Chase and Fayette Streets, reporting the results of the mayoralty contest at 8:36 p. m.

The last precinct to make complete returns was Ward 4 Precinct 2, East Side Fire Station, reporting at 2:57 a. m.

Playground Bonds Approved; Salary Hike Defeated

Cumberland voters yesterday defeated a referendum to give the Mayor and City Council a salary increase by a 3,242 to 2,535 but authorized a bond issue of $150,000 by 3,812 to 1,963 for city playgrounds.

The bond issue will be known as Cumberland Playground Bonds of 1947," and authorizes the Mayor and Council to sell coupon bonds at a rate to be fixed by the successful bidder but not in excess of four per cent per annum.

While 9,705 citizens cast ballots for municipal officers, only 5,777 voted on the Mayor and City Council salary question and 5,775 cast ballots on the Playground Bond referendum.

Local Boy, 7, Is Hit By Automobile

Harry Davis, 7, 476 Baltimore Avenue, suffered minor injuries yesterday at 5:40 p. m. when he was struck by an automobile on Goethe Street, according to City Police.

The youth was treated by a local physician and discharged, according to police, who identified the driver of the car as John Street, 54½ Marion Street. Officer J. W. Brown investigated. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Youngster Injured In Football Game

Hugh Malamphy, 13, 414 Park Street, was injured as he collided with another player in a football game early last night and was rushed to Memorial Hospital by Officers John Powers and Kenneth Morrisey.

It was later found that the youngster suffered a lacerated lip and coupled with the impact of the collision it rendered him unconscious.

Cresaptown Woman Injured In Mishap

Mrs. Martha Shipley, 21, Cresaptown, received painful brush burns early Tuesday night as she was dragged while holding to the side of the family car.

Permission Obtained For Marker Painting

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday he has been notified that permission has been given to use the roof of the building now being constructed on McKaig's Hill as a Navy and Marine Reserve training center for painting Cumberland's Skyway No. 1 air identification marker.

Lt. Comdr, Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division, said the necessary approval was obtained from Capt. Valery Harvard, Jr., Norfolk, Va., director of naval reserve for the Fifth Naval District.

Capt. Harvard emphasized the Navy will assume no responsibility for either the cost or maintenance of the skyway marker.

Comdr. Hedrick told Smith a fourth Butler-type building will be added to the structure for use of Marine reservists, pointing out that roof space may also be utilized for the marker if necessary.

Forfeit Bonds

Two drivers, John C. Fisher, 49 South Street, and Eugene R. McGill, 282 Cecelia Street, forfeited $6.45 bond each yesterday in Trial Magistrates' Court for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 40 at LaVale. State Trooper G. E. Coddington preferred charges.

Hearings scheduled yesterday in Ridgeley for James Zollner, 40, of 229 Oak Street, and Lloyd Robert Kein, Meyersdale, Pa., were postponed to March 22. Both were taken into custody following a collision near Ridgeley last Saturday night.

Zollner is charged with reckless driving and Kein faces a charge of hazardous driving.

W. S. Galloway Dies

EASTON, Md., March 16 (AP)—W. S. Galloway, who was for many years purchasing agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad died today at his farm home at Royal Oak, near here.

MAYOR POST AND ROY EVES MAKE ELECTION STATEMENTS

Statements were made by both candidates for mayor to The Cumberland News early this morning after the last precinct reported, showing Mayor Post had been re-elected to serve the city for a third term. Their statements follow:

THOMAS S. POST

"I want to thank my loyal friends and supporters who have done so much for me and my cause. They have worked faithfully and well without promise of reward.

"I am deeply conscious of their loyalty, not only in this but also in the previous campaigns. I shall always prize the friendship of these people above material wealth.

"This has been an active campaign, but I have no personal ill will toward anyone in Cumberland. I have only tried to wage a political battle along political lines. If anyone has been personally offended by anything I have said or done, I am truly sorry.

"You have honored me for the third time by electing me your mayor. I am touched by this expression of your faith in me and in the principles for which I stand.

"I feel very humble at the moment. I earnestly ask the help of everyone in a common effort to build a bigger and better Cumberland.

"This happens to be my birthday. I thank you for this birthday gift."

ROY W. EVES

"While I have failed to become the next mayor of Cumberland, I have found that this was a campaign in which I could not lose, in that I have won a great many new friends.

"In this, my first political venture, I gained a world of experience and became acquainted with a great many new people whose friendship I shall always value very highly.

"From the beginning of this campaign I have been deeply impressed with the number of people whose help was purely voluntary and solely in the interest of better government.

"I wish to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to all who have helped me in this campaign in so many ways.

"I extend to Mayor Post and his new city council my sincere congratulations upon their hard-won victory, and assure them that as a citizen my love for Cumberland and its people shall always cause me to lend my cooperation in any efforts they make for the betterment of our community."

Funeral Service For Dia Thursday

A private funeral service will be held at the family home at 219 Main Street, Meyersdale, Pa., for William C. Dia, 24, who was found dead Sunday on Wills Mountain in the Narrows.

Rev. H. C. Hilner will officiate at the service with burial in Union Cemetery, Meyersdale.

Auto Hits Building

A building escaped damage yesterday morning when a driverless automobile, owned by Donald Hamilton, 507 Rose Hill Avenue, crashed against it after the vehicle's brakes "kicked off," according to police.

Police said the car was damaged on the front end, but the Tri-State Towel and Coat Service building, 502 Regina Avenue, was not damaged.

Pension Paralysis Spreads Through Local Coal Area

More Miners Join In Work Stoppage

Several mines in Allegany and Garrett counties in Western Maryland's coal field, and in nearby West Virginia were hit by "pension paralysis" yesterday and failed to operate, while at several other operations considerable absenteeism were reported as the work stoppage movement spread.

Mines at Thomas, W. Va., are all closed, and several other operations along the Elkins Division of the Western Maryland Railway were down, with more expected to be idle today. Mines at Kitzmiller, Shallmar and Kempton in Garrett County did not work yesterday, although part of the crews at the Vindex operation reported.

In this county, the Hoffa Mines at Barton and Althouse operation at Lonaconing were idle along with several smaller pits. At Bloomington, the Masteller Coal Company mines did not work. The Georges Creek Coal Company and Consolidated Fuel Company operations worked as usual, but some men did not report, officials said.

United Mine Workers officials for District 16 remained non-committal, but acknowledged that the stoppage is spreading. One union official ventured the prediction that all mines in the area will be down by the end of the week, "at the rate they are dropping off now."

Operators also agreed that the stoppage is still spreading, and one coal producer said, "so few men are reporting that they might as well all stay home as far as we are concerned. We are down to a near non-profitable basis now and will be down completely in a few days."

Several strip mines expect to operate in this area today. Mine No. 43 in the Shinnston district near Fairmont, W. Va., closed yesterday as did several operations in the Elk River District.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia soft coal miners appeared to be generally joining the walkout, and other soft coal states show a 50 per cent shutdown since John L. Lewis said the operators have "dishonored" their contract. Lewis is insisting on a pension of $100 per month for each miner at age 65 with 20 years service.

At Barton last night, Barton Local No. 2523, United Mine Workers of America, voted unanimously to observe the work stoppage, and stay away from the pits, effective immediately, according to Noah Beeman, local union president.

This action affects 250 miners, Beeman said, and the following mine operations: Hoffa Coal Company, Pekin; Campbell Coal Company's Hampshire Mines; Koontz Coal Company, McDonald and Swanton Mines, Fey Coal Company, Bennett Coal Company, DeShong Coal Company and Phoenix Coal Company. Several of these are strip mining operations.

Fort Hill Seniors Compete In Contest

Four seniors at Fort Hill High School took a scholastic aptitude test at the school yesterday in a nationwide National Honor Society competition for college scholarships, according to Victor D. Heisey, principal.

The seniors are Donald McCoy, James Deetz, Fred Bennett, Jr., and Margaret Robinson.

Meanwhile, Heisey reported approximately 1,600 students attended vocational talks given by 40 speakers at the school yesterday "in a "career day" program, the first of its kind to be held in Cumberland. Many of the speakers remained for luncheon in the Fort Hill cafeteria as guests of the school.

Allegany High School will hold a similar program Friday. The Fort Hill speakers were secured with the aid of a Kiwanis Club committee and the Business and Professional Women's Club, according to George Brewer, director of vocational guidance.

HEADS PRESS GROUP—Miss Mary Murray, Mt. Savage, advisor to the Allegany High School scholastic publication, "Alcohi Mirror," last week was elected president of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association at the annual conference in New York. She previously served as secretary-treasurer of the association. Miss Murray has been advisor to the local high school publication for several years.

Brock Sees War With Soviet Russia By July

Says Truman Regime Is "Second-Rate"

The United States will be at war with Soviet Russia by July of this year, Ray Brock, noted foreign correspondent who has just returned from a tour of the Middle East and the Balkans, told 102 persons at the monthly meeting of the Cumberland National Dinner Club last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

"We will be at war because we have a second-rate administration and a third-rate foreign policy, characterized by inconsistency," Brock declared.

Referring to the address which President Truman is scheduled to deliver today before a joint session of Congress, Brock said he has been informed the President will ask for universal military training and a selective draft.

"Truman won't use strong language in his message because this is an election year, but between the lines there will be a definite suggestion that the United States form a limited military alliance with Western European powers," the speaker said.

To Seek ERP Passage

Brock added that the President will also ask for the passage of the European Recovery program by April 1 in view of the critical Italian election to be held April 18, in which Communists hope to gain control of that country.

During the spring and early summer, Brock predicted, border incidents will occur between Soviet satellite countries and European nations with Western sympathies.

"We cannot prevent the inevitable war through diplomacy, because the only language the Russian gangsters know is force," Brock declared.

The United States must be prepared for war and show tremendous military force to hold Russia back, he said, urging passage of the universal military training bill, selective draft, passage of the European Recovery Program and rebuilding the nation's striking forces so that they can be mobilized "overnight" instead of in a period of months.

Brock said the ERP measure must be passed because economic aid to European countries will stiffen their resistance to Russian infiltration.

He commented that he is convinced the Communists will win the election in Italy because of this country's weak administration and vacillating foreign policy.

Future Moves Predicted

After Russia has completed her conquest of Italy, France and the Scandinavian countries, she will then move into the Middle Eastern nations of Turkey, Iran and Saudi Arabia, Brock said.

He pointed out that the only man who has dared to stand up against Soviet Russia in the past seven years was a Turkish undersecretary of foreign affairs.

In 1943 the secretary was informed by the Russian ambassador to Turkey that Russia did not like that country's attitude toward the Soviet Union. The former replied that

Local Cab Company Has Blessed Event

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammersmith's daughter will at some future date refer to the place of her nativity as a "fast moving taxi cab." And she will be correct, for she was born yesterday morning at 6:05 o'clock in an Astor cab.

The driver, John Cage, age 50, who himself has several grandchildren, will vouch for the "fast moving" part since he was trying to beat the stork to Memorial Hospital.

When the cab left the Hammersmith home at 524 Woodside Avenue, Hammersmith told Cage to hurry. It wasn't too long after that that Cage realized why, he told colleagues later. At the hospital entrance a nurse carried the baby into the hospital while others helped the mother.

Both were reported in "fine" condition last night. And Mark Schriver, Astor Cab Company official, said the baby will receive one of the "very finest presents the boys can buy" as soon as medical authorities give the o. k.

It is the cab company's first blessed event in its long history, according to Schriver.

Fullerton Cites Press Functions

Talk about war very often remains just talk, provided the people of a nation are kept fully advised of all the issues, Max Fullerton told the Cumberland Rotary Club yesterday.

Fullerton, chief of the Baltimore Bureau of the Associated Press, said the country naturally is concerned about the turn of international events, but if worst comes to worst the people stand united against adverse influences because they have been kept alive to what is going on.

"It is useless to say," Fullerton declared, "that there are no serious problems facing these United States. It is just as useless to deny that great effort will be needed in combatting them.

"But it is a certain thing that through their newspapers and the unrestricted flow of all types of information the people will be able to formulate opinions and policies which should carry them through.

"Nothing in the nature of real progress is ever accomplished in the United States until it has the backing of a majority of the people," he went on. "That backing comes from an understanding of the facts. The facts come from the nation's newspapers, who for almost two centuries have jealously guarded their right to print the news."

Fullerton also explained to the Rotarians the mechanical operations of newspapers and press associations, detailing the methods by which the Associated Press and the Cumberland News and Times collect and edit the news.

He praised the progressive action of the Times and Alleganian Company, publisher of the three local newspapers, in establishing health, life insurance and pension plans for the 175 company employes.

BIRTHS

Memorial Hospital reported the following births last night:

Mr. and Mrs. James Huff, Route 1, Cumberland, a son Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammersmith, 524 Woodside Avenue, a daughter born Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Charles K. Rockwell, 115 Federal Street, a daughter, Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Herbert Llewellyn, Green Spring, W. Va., a son, Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Homer Keplinger, Bedford Road, a son Monday night.

Allegany Hospital reported the following births last night:

Mr. and Mrs. Ralph Athey, Route 6, Cumberland, a daughter, Monday night.

Mr. and Mrs. John Wiley, 305 Grand Avenue, a daughter born Tuesday morning.

Mr. and Mrs. Harry John Deter, 118 North Centre Street, a daughter, Tuesday morning.

School Officials Take Legal Action In 'Hookey' Cases

Children, Parents Taken To Court

Five school children and parents of six others received suspended fines and institutional sentences yesterday in Juvenile Court as the result of "long records of absenteeism" on the part of the children.

Allegany County authorities said the children, some of whom have missed "more than 30 days of school in the past two years," were given suspended sentences in state reform schools on condition that they attend classes regularly.

The parents, two mothers and a father, were each given suspended fines of $7.50 after Magistrate Thomas Stakem warned them that ignorance on the part of parents that children are playing hookey does not excuse them from the penalties imposed by the state.

Parents, authorities said, offered the excuse that they were unaware that the children were missing school, but explained that in at least three incidents education officials had visited the homes on three different occasions before legal action was taken.

The children, who range in age from 11 to 15, were released in the custody of their parents on condition they attend school regularly and the parents' fines were suspended on condition that they see "to it that the children get to school."

Authorities said the eight warrants were secured only after other efforts to induce parents and children to see the benefits of regular school attendance failed.

Non-attendance of children at school, without justifiable cause, school officials said, is in direct violation of Maryland laws, and fines and imprisonment can be imposed.

School officials said that all non-attendance records are checked by certified persons and if cause for legal action is established both parents and children will be taken to court.

James J. Kloran New Commander Henry Hart Post

Vet Of Two World Wars Is Unopposed

James J. Kloran, North Liberty Street, veteran of World Wars I and II, was elected commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, last night without opposition. Kloran is a member of the staff at the Celanese plant, and has been active in veteran affairs here for sometime.

Elected to serve with him are Lester Mull, senior vice commander; William Blair, junior vice commander; Roy Everstine, quartermaster; Thomas K. Whalley, post judge advocate; Harry Reiber, chaplain; Dr. Richard Williams, post surgeon, and Edward C. Kilroy, three-year trustee.

The installation will be held Friday, April 16, at a place to be announced, with T. K. Whalley, state department historian and national aide de camp, as installing officer with Reginald C. Murphy, department adjutant and quartermaster, as alternate.

The committee on arrangements for the installation ceremony includes John Fike, chairman, Raymond Reynolds, George Zimmerman, James J. Kloran and Edward Kilroy.

News Briefs

The executive committee of the Cumberland Community Chest will meet tonight at 7:30 o'clock at the Chest office in the Liberty Trust building.

Carol W. Robinson, Route 3, McCoole, has enlisted for two years in Company D, Fifth Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, according to Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer.

Miss Evelyn Webb, home service representative from Eastern Area headquarters of the American Red Cross, Alexandria, Va., conferred here yesterday with officials of Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross on home service problems.

Wood Explains Unemployment And Old-Age Insurance Laws

"There seems to be confusion in the mind of the average person about unemployment compensation and old-age and survivors insurance benefits," William W. Wood, manager of the Cumberland Office of the Social Security Administration, said yesterday.

"Almost every day some one calls at the local Social Security Field Office for the purpose of drawing his Social Security money because he is out of work," Wood continued. "Claims for unemployment compensation are filed with the Unemployment Compensation Board which is located at 146 Union Street, Cumberland, Maryland."

The penny deducted from every dollar a worker ears is for old-age and survivors insurance. The wages from which this tax is deducted are recorded on that person's Social Security Account maintained by the Social Security Administration. Benefits based on this account are paid in the form of old-age insurance at age 65 and survivors insurance upon the death of a worker at any age. Some employers list this tax on pay envelopes or receipts as

Post Wins Re-election Over Eves By 149 Votes

Mayor Carries 9 Of 20 Precincts To Win On Sixty-Fifth Birthday

Eleven Polling Places Give Their Support To Eves; Balloting Closest In More Than Decade

Mayor Thomas S. Post, running for election to his third term on his 65th birthday, was the victor yesterday in a close contest, defeating his opponent, Roy W. Eves, superintendent of the Baltimore and Ohio Bolt and Forge plant, by a plurality of 149 votes.

The final count:

Thomas S. Post	4,923
Roy W. Eves	4,774

Carrying 11 of the city's 20 polling places, Eves actually won more than half of the precincts, but was defeated by the overwhelming vote given Post in South Cumberland and the splendid support he received in several up-town sections.

With a total of 9,697 ballots accounted for in the mayoralty voting, this represents more than 50 per cent of the city's 18,927 registered eligibles. This number of ballots does not include the ballots thrown out, or those not marked for mayor. The total vote was 1,997 more than the 7,720 reported voting in the primary election March 2.

The election was one of the closest mayoralty contests since George W. Legge defeated Thomas W. Koon by 96 votes, more than a decade ago.

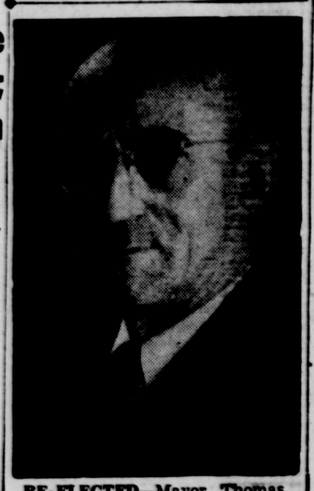
Eves carried the West Side Fire Station; Chase and Fayette Streets; Mt. Royal Avenue School; West Side School; Market Street; Canada Hose House; Columbia Street; Franklin Street; Bedford Street; City Hall; and Johnson Heights School.



RE-ELECTED—Mayor Thomas S. Post was returned to office yesterday, defeating his opponent, Roy W. Eves, by 149 votes.

Buchholtz Tops All Candidates In City Election

Keegan, Edwards, Reynolds Elected

William H. Buchholtz, 713 Fayette Street, veteran of World War II, led the balloting yesterday, polling 12 more votes than Mayor Thomas S. Post, to top the ticket in the unofficial returns. His total was 4,935. He finished fourth in the primary on March 2.

William V. Keegan, present commissioner of police and fire, who ran first in the primary, finished in second place with 4,863.

Edgar Reynolds, Louisiana avenue, merchant, who served five successive terms as street commissioner but was defeated four years ago, staged a comeback to finish in third place with 4,655 votes. Reynolds ran in the same position in the primary.

William J. Edwards, present water commissioner, finished in fourth place with 4,324 votes after a close tussle with George H. Tederick who had 4,147 votes to be nosed into fifth place. Edwards ran second in the primary and Tederick ran sixth

Victor M. Hebb finished in sixth place with 3,498 votes. He was in seventh place in the primary.

Clifton E. Fuller, finance commissioner for one term, was defeated, dropping to seventh place from his fifth place primary position. He polled 3,081.

Myers G. Light, present one-term street commissioner who finished eighth in the primary, was unable to move out of that position and polled 2,174 votes yesterday, just 610 more than his primary total.

One of the marked features of the council balloting was the fact that only 611 votes separated the winning top man from the fourth place winner. In the primary, 1,120 votes separated the first and fourth place men.

It was evident from the balloting, that Buchholtz, who declined to run on either slate, did a masterful job as an independent. The other winners were slated in advance of the contest, and numerous combinations were seen at the polls yesterday with Eves and Keegan linked together by banners on numerous cars.

Balloting was steady all day, and the total vote cast was regarded as a record in city elections. Unlike the quiet primary contest, the general election became heated with two powerful combinations battling for control of the City Hall.

In the 1946 general election, 8,397 votes were cast and in 1944 the total was 7,383, compared with yesterday's 9,697.

The first precinct to report returns last night was Ward 1-Precinct 2, Chase and Fayette Streets, reporting the results of the mayoralty contest at 8:36 p. m.

The last precinct to make complete returns was Ward 4 Precinct 2, East Side Fire Station, reporting at 2:57 a. m.

MAYOR POST AND ROY EVES MAKE ELECTION STATEMENTS

Statements were made by both candidates for mayor to The Cumberland News early this morning after the last precinct reported, showing Mayor Post had been re-elected to serve the city for a third term. Their statements follow:

THOMAS S. POST

"I want to thank my loyal friends and supporters who have done so much for me and my cause. They have worked faithfully and well without promise of reward.

"I am deeply conscious of their loyalty, not only in this but also in the previous campaigns. I shall always prize the friendship of these people above material wealth.

"This has been an active campaign, but I have no personal ill will toward anyone in Cumberland. I have only tried to wage a political battle along political lines. If anyone has been personally offended by anything I have said or done, I am truly sorry.

"You have honored me for the third time by electing me your mayor. I am touched by this expression of your faith in me and in the principles for which I stand.

"I feel very humble at the moment. I earnestly ask the help of everyone in a common effort to build a bigger and better Cumberland.

"This happens to be my birthday. I thank you for this birthday gift."

ROY W. EVES

"While I have failed to become the next mayor of Cumberland, I have found that this was a campaign in which I could not lose, in that I have won a great many new friends.

"In this, my first political venture, I gained a world of experience and became acquainted with a great many new people whose friendship I shall always value very highly.

"From the beginning of this campaign I have been deeply impressed with the number of people whose help was purely voluntary and solely in the interest of better government.

"I wish to extend my sincere thanks and appreciation to all who have helped me in this campaign in so many ways.

"I extend to Mayor Post and his new city council my sincere congratulations upon their hard-won victory, and assure them that as a citizen my love for Cumberland and its people shall always cause me to lend my cooperation in any efforts they make for the betterment of our community."

Pension Paralysis Spreads Through Local Coal Area

More Miners Join In Work Stoppage

Several mines in Allegany and Garrett counties in Western Maryland's coal field, and in nearby West Virginia were hit by "pension paralysis" yesterday and failed to operate, while at several other operations considerable absenteeism were reported as the work stoppage movement spread.

Mines at Thomas, W. Va., are all closed, and several other operations along the Elkins Division of the Western Maryland Railway were down, with more expected to be idle today. Mines at Kitzmiller, Shallmar and Kempton in Garrett County did not work yesterday, although part of the crews at the Vindex operation reported.

In this county, the Hoffa Mines at Barton and Althouse operation at Lonaconing were idle along with several smaller pits. At Bloomington, the Masteller Coal Company mines did not work. The Georges Creek Coal Company and Consolidated Fuel Company operations worked as usual, but some men did not report, officials said.

United Mine Workers officials for District 16 remained non-committal, but acknowledged that the stoppage is spreading. One union official ventured the prediction that all mines in the area will be down by the end of the week, "at the rate they are dropping off now."

Operators also agreed that the stoppage is still spreading, and one coal producer said, "so few men are reporting that they might as well all stay home as far as we are concerned. We are down to a near non-profitable basis now and will be down completely in a few days."

Several strip mines expect to operate in this area today. Mine No. 43 in the Shinnston district near Fairmont, W. Va., closed yesterday as did several operations in the Elk River District.

Pennsylvania and West Virginia soft coal miners appeared to be generally joining the walkout, and other soft coal states show a 50 per cent shutdown since John L. Lewis said the operators have "dishonored" their contract. Lewis is insisting on a pension of $100 per month for each miner at age 65 with 20 years service.

At Barton last night, Barton Local No. 2523, United Mine Workers of America, voted unanimously to observe the work stoppage, and stay away from the pits, effective immediately, according to Noah Beeman, local union president.

This action affects 250 miners, Beeman said, and the following mine operations: Hoffa Coal Company, Pekin; Campbell Coal Company's Hampshire Mines; Koontz Coal Company, McDonald and Swanton Mines, Fey Coal Company, Bennett Coal Company, DeShong Coal Company and Phoenix Coal Company. Several of these are strip mining operations.

HEADS PRESS GROUP—Miss Mary Murray, Mt. Savage, advisor to the Allegany High School scholastic publication, "Alcohi Mirror," last week was elected president of the Columbia Scholastic Press Association at the annual conference in New York. She previously served as secretary-treasurer of the association. Miss Murray has been advisor to the local high school publication for several years.

School Officials Take Legal Action In 'Hookey' Cases

Children, Parents Taken To Court

Five school children and parents of six others received suspended fines and institutional sentences yesterday in Juvenile Court as the result of "long records of absenteeism" on the part of the children.

Allegany County authorities said the children, some of whom have missed "more than 30 days of school in the past two years," were given suspended sentences in state reform schools on condition that they attend classes regularly.

The parents, two mothers and a father, were each given suspended fines of $7.50 after Magistrate Thomas Stakem warned them that ignorance on the part of parents that children are playing hookey does not excuse them from the penalties imposed by the state.

Parents, authorities said, offered the excuse that they were unaware that the children were missing school, but explained that in at least three incidents education officials had visited the homes on three different occasions before legal action was taken.

The children, who range in age from 11 to 15, were released in the custody of their parents on condition they attend school regularly and the parents' fines were suspended on condition that they see "to it that the children get to school."

Authorities said the eight warrants were secured only after other efforts to induce parents and children to see the benefits of regular school attendance failed.

Non - attendance of children at school, without justifiable cause, school officials said, is in direct violation of Maryland laws, and fines and imprisonment can be imposed.

School officials said that all non-attendance records are checked by certified persons and if cause for legal action is established both parents and children will be taken to court.

Brock Sees War With Soviet Russia By July

Says Truman Regime Is "Second-Rate"

The United States will be at war with Soviet Russia by July of this year, Ray Brock, noted foreign correspondent who has just returned from a tour of the Middle East and the Balkans, told 102 persons at the monthly meeting of the Cumberland National Dinner Club last night at the Ali Ghan Shrine Country Club.

"We will be at war because we have a second-rate administration and a third-rate foreign policy, characterized by inconsistency," Brock declared.

Referring to the address which President Truman is scheduled to deliver today before a joint session of Congress, Brock said he has been informed the President will ask for universal military training and a selective draft.

"Truman won't use strong language in his message because this is an election year, but between the lines there will be a definite suggestion that the United States form a limited military alliance with Western European powers," the speaker said.

To Seek ERP Passage

Brock added that the President will also ask for the passage of the European Recovery program by April 1 in view of the critical Italian election to be held April 18, in which Communists hope to gain control of that country.

During the spring and early summer, Brock predicted, border incidents will occur between Soviet satellite countries and European nations with Western sympathies.

"We cannot prevent the inevitable war through diplomacy, because the only language the Russian gangsters know is force," Brock declared.

The United States must be prepared for war and show tremendous military force to hold Russia back, he said, urging passage of the universal military training bill, selective draft, passage of the European Recovery Program and rebuilding the nation's striking forces so that they can be mobilized "overnight" instead of in a period of months.

Brock said the ERP measure must be passed because economic aid to European countries will stiffen their resistance to Russian infiltration.

He commented that he is convinced the Communists will win the election in Italy because of this country's weak administration and vacillating foreign policy.

Future Moves Predicted

After Russia has completed her conquest of Italy, France and the Scandinavian countries, she will then move into the Middle Eastern nations of Turkey, Iran and Saudi Arabia, Brock said.

He pointed out that the only man who has dared to stand up against Soviet Russia in the past seven years was a Turkish undersecretary of foreign affairs.

In 1943 the secretary was informed by the Russian ambassador to Turkey that Russia did not like that country's attitude toward the Soviet Union. The former replied that

Local Cab Company Has Blessed Event

Mr. and Mrs. Charles Hammersmith's daughter will at some future date refer to the place of her nativity as a "fast moving taxi cab." And she will be correct, for she was born yesterday morning at 6:05 o'clock in an Astor cab.

The driver, John Cage, age 50, who himself has several grandchildren, will vouch for the "fast moving" part since he was trying to beat the stork to Memorial Hospital.

When the cab left the Hammersmith home at 524 Woodside Avenue, Hammersmith told Cage to hurry. It wasn't too long after that that Cage realized why, he told colleagues later. At the hospital entrance a nurse carried the baby into the hospital while others helped the mother.

Both were reported in "fine" condition last night. And Mark Schriver, Astor Cab Company official, said the baby will receive one of the "very finest presents the boys can buy" as soon as medical authorities give the o. k.

It is the cab company's first blessed event in its long history, according to Schriver.

James J. Kloran New Commander Henry Hart Post

Vet Of Two World Wars Is Unopposed

James J. Kloran, North Liberty Street, veteran of World Wars I and II, was elected commander of Henry Hart Post No. 1411, Veterans of Foreign Wars, last night without opposition. Kloran is a member of the staff at the Celanese plant, and has been active in veteran affairs here for sometime.

Elected to serve with him are Lester Mull, senior vice commander; William Blair, junior vice commander; Roy Everstine, quartermaster; Thomas K. Whalley, post judge advocate; Harry Reiber, chaplain; Dr. Richard Williams, post surgeon, and Edward C. Kilroy, three-year trustee.

The installation will be held Friday, April 16, at a place to be announced, with T. K. Whalley, state department historian and national aide de camp, as installing officer with Reginald C. Murphy, department adjutant and quartermaster, as alternate.

The committee on arrangements for the installation ceremony includes John Fike, chairman, Raymond Reynolds, George Zimmerman, James J. Kloran and Edward Kilroy.

Playground Bonds Approved; Salary Hike Defeated

Cumberland voters yesterday defeated a referendum to give the Mayor and City Council a salary increase by a 3,242 to 2,535 but authorized a bond issue of $150,000 by 3,812 to 1,963 for city playgrounds.

The bond issue will be known as Cumberland Playground Bonds of 1947," and authorizes the Mayor and Council to sell coupon bonds at a rate to be fixed by the successful bidder but not in excess of four per cent per annum.

While 9,705 citizens cast ballots for municipal officers, only 5,777 voted on the Mayor and City Council salary question and 5,775 cast ballots on the Playground Bond referendum.

Local Boy, 7, Is Hit By Automobile

Harry Davis, 7, 476 Baltimore Avenue, suffered minor injuries yesterday at 5:40 p. m. when he was struck by an automobile on Goethe Street, according to City Police.

The youth was treated by a local physician and discharged, according to police, who identified the driver of the car as John Street, 54½ Marion Street. Officer J. W. Brown investigated. No charges were preferred against the driver.

Youngster Injured In Football Game

Hugh Malamphy, 13, 414 Park Street, was injured as he collided with another player in a football game early last night and was rushed to Memorial Hospital by Officers John Powers and Kenneth Morrisey.

It was later found that the youngster suffered a lacerated lip and coupled with the impact of the collision it rendered him unconscious.

Cresaptown Woman Injured In Mishap

Mrs. Martha Shipley, 21, Cresaptown, received painful brush burns early Tuesday night as she was dragged while holding to the side of the family car.

Permission Obtained For Marker Painting

Harold W. Smith, secretary of the Cumberland Chamber of Commerce, said yesterday he has been notified that permission has been given to use the roof of the building now being constructed on McKaig's Hill as a Navy and Marine Reserve training center for painting Cumberland's Skyway No. 1 air identification marker.

Lt. Comdr, Walter N. Hedrick, organizing officer of the Cumberland Organized Naval Reserve Division, said the necessary approval was obtained from Capt. Valery Harvard, Jr., Norfolk, Va., director of naval reserve for the Fifth Naval District.

Capt. Harvard emphasized the Navy will assume no responsibility for either the cost or maintenance of the skyway marker.

Comdr. Hedrick told Smith a fourth Butler-type building will be added to the structure for use of Marine reservists, pointing out that roof space may also be utilized for the marker if necessary.

Forfeit Bonds

Two drivers, John C. Fisher, 49 South Street, and Eugene R. McGill, 282 Cecelia Street, forfeited $6.45 bond each yesterday in Trial Magistrates' Court for exceeding 30 miles an hour on Route 40 at LaVale. State Trooper G. E. Coddington preferred charges.

Hearings scheduled yesterday in Ridgeley for James Zollner, 40, of 229 Oak Street, and Lloyd Robert Kein, Meyersdale, Pa., were postponed to March 22. Both were taken into custody following a collision near Ridgeley last Saturday night.

Zollner is charged with reckless driving and Kein faces a charge of hazardous driving.

W. S. Galloway Dies

EASTON, Md., March 16 (AP)—W. S. Galloway, who was for many years purchasing agent of the Baltimore and Ohio Railroad died today at his farm home at Royal Oak, near here.

Funeral Service For Dia Thursday

A private funeral service will be held at the family home at 219 Main Street, Meyersdale, Pa., for William C. Dia, 24, who was found dead Sunday on Wills Mountain in the Narrows.

Rev. H. C. Hilner will officiate at the service with burial in Union Cemetery, Meyersdale.

Auto Hits Building

A building escaped damage yesterday morning when a driverless automobile, owned by Donald Hamilton, 507 Rose Hill Avenue, crashed against it after the vehicle's brakes "kicked off," according to police.

Police said the car was damaged on the front end, but the Tri-State Towel and Coat Service building, 502 Regina Avenue, was not damaged.

Fort Hill Seniors Compete In Contest

Four seniors at Fort Hill High School took a scholastic aptitude test at the school yesterday in a nationwide National Honor Society competition for college scholarships, according to Victor D. Heisey, principal.

The seniors are Donald McCoy, James Deetz, Fred Bennett, Jr., and Margaret Robinson.

Meanwhile, Heisey reported approximately 1,600 students attended vocational talks given by 40 speakers at the school yesterday in a "career day" program, the first of its kind to be held in Cumberland. Many of the speakers remained for luncheon in the Fort Hill cafeteria as guests of the school.

Allegany High School will hold a similar program Friday. The Fort Hill speakers were secured with the aid of a Kiwanis Club committee and the Business and Professional Women's Club, according to George Brewer, director of vocational guidance.

Fullerton Cites Press Functions

Talk about war very often remains just talk, provided the people of a nation are kept fully advised of all the issues, Max Fullerton told the Cumberland Rotary Club yesterday.

Fullerton, chief of the Baltimore Bureau of the Associated Press, said the country naturally is concerned about the turn of international events, but if worst comes to worst the people stand united against adverse influences because they have been kept alive to what is going on.

"It is useless to say," Fullerton declared, "that there are no serious problems facing these United States. It is just as useless to deny that great effort will be needed in combatting them.

"But it is a certain thing that through their newspapers and the unrestricted flow of all types of information the people will be able to formulate opinions and policies which should carry them through.

"Nothing in the nature of real progress is ever accomplished in the United States until it has the backing of a majority of the people," he went on. "That backing comes from an understanding of the facts. The facts come from the nation's newspapers, who for almost two centuries have jealously guarded their right to print the news."

Fullerton also explained to the Rotarians the mechanical operations of newspapers and press associations, detailing the methods by which the Associated Press and the Cumberland News and Times collect and edit the news.

He praised the progressive action of the Times and Alleganian Company, publisher of the three local newspapers, in establishing health, life insurance and pension plans for the 175 company employes.

Stockyards Report Good Run Of Stock

A good run of stock and a strong market for all types of livestock was reported yesterday at the Cumberland Stockyards. The report:

Medium butcher steers 22-32½; stock steers 22½-23¾; butcher heifers 21½-23½; stock heifers 18-20; good heiferettes 19-21; medium heiferettes 16-18 cents.

Good butcher cows 15½-19; medium cows 13½-15; good veal calves 27-31¾; medium calves 24-26 cents; light calves 12-20 cents.

Good hogs 23¾-24 3-4; light hogs 18-21 cents; milk cows $125 to $155 a head; good chickens 37-41 cents; light chickens 27-31 cents.

Temperature Reading

The mercury continued to climb Tuesday and came within two degrees of a new high. The high for the day was 72 degrees. During the night it dropped to 50 and by 8 a. m. it was 53 degrees. Temperature in Cumberland and vicinity at 10 p. m. was 54. Rain during the night was only .15 of an inch. Forecast for today is cloudy and cooler.

Carol W. Robinson, Route 3, McCoole, has enlisted for two years in Company D, Fifth Infantry Battalion, Marine Corps Reserve, according to Capt. John T. Fey, commanding officer.

Miss Evelyn Webb, home service representative from Eastern Area headquarters of the American Red Cross, Alexandria, Va., conferred here yesterday with officials of Allegany County Chapter of the Red Cross on home service problems.

Wood Explains Unemployment And Old-Age Insurance Laws

"There seems to be confusion in the mind of the average person about unemployment compensation and old-age and survivors insurance benefits," William W. Wood, manager of the Cumberland Office of the Social Security Administration, said yesterday.

"Almost every day some one calls at the local Social Security Field Office for the purpose of drawing his Social Security money because he is out of work," Wood continued. "Claims for unemployment compensation are filed with the Unemployment Compensation Board which is located at 146 Union Street, Cumberland, Maryland."

The penny deducted from every dollar a worker ears is for old-age and survivors insurance. The wages from which this tax is deducted are recorded on that person's Social Security Account maintained by the Social Security Administration. Benefits based on this account are paid in the form of old-age insurance at age 65 and survivors insurance upon the death of a worker at any age. Some employers list this tax on pay envelopes or receipts as
